STARK CHARGES
GANG CONTROL OF KANSAS CITY POLICE

Governor, Denouncing Director Higgins' Fight on Bill, Says 'Crime Syndicate' Tries to Dictate to Legislature.

REACHING OUT INTO STATE, HE ASSERTS

'City One of Worst Criminal Hideouts,' and Federal Agents Expect No Aid There, He Declares in Statement.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 30.—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark today denounced Otto P. Higgins, Director of Police in Kansas City, and the Police Department there, charging that they were attempting to use political influence with members of the Legislature, and misrepresenting facts, in an effort to defeat the Governor's bill to transfer control of the department from Boss Tom Pendergast to the State.

The Governor's statement followed receipt by members of the Legislature of a communication from Higgins purporting to give the crime record of Kansas City and the handling of crime by the present department and the old State-controlled department.

Higgins was charged by the Governor with selecting particular cases and with concealing facts which he said showed the Kansas City department to be in league with the "crime syndicate."

Points to the Records.

The Governor said he had records showing that, in more than 600 cases of carrying concealed weapons, ballistic experts had found that the same weapon had been used repeatedly in major crimes, having been returned to the criminals through police channels.

He said that he had records to prove, and that it was common knowledge, that, in the larger gambling resorts in Kansas City, policemen in uniform served as guards helped run the establishments, and guarded the "illegal funds."

"After seven years of so-called home rule," the Governor said, "the Kansas City Police Department is known to the people of the State as a gangster-controlled department. It is known to the Federal law-enforcement agencies as a gangster-controlled department, and in so major investigation in Kansas City to Federal authorities take the police officials into their confidence, knowing well that they will receive no help and that the crime syndicate will be kept informed of their every move."

St. Louis' Police Reputation.

On the other hand, the Governor said, the St. Louis Police Department, under State control, has the reputation among Federal authorities of being one of the best police systems in the United States.

"The people of Missouri know that the Kansas City Police Department has absolutely failed to do its duty," the Governor said, "as shown by the evidence in the hundreds of convictions in the election fraud cases in the Federal courts. There was not a single arrest made by the Kansas City police for election frauds, but, on the other hand, a number of those convicted were police officers."

He referred to the recent county grand jury, which returned 166 indictments for "commercialized gambling, murder and many other crimes."

Not Question of Home Rule.

Charging that Kansas City, because of police conditions, "is not the worst, in one of the worst criminal hide-outs in the United States," the Governor said:

"This is not a question of home rule. This question of law enforcement is a State-wide problem. It is to protect not only the people of Kansas City, but the people of the entire State, to which crime radiates from Kansas City."

He recited a case of a witness in a Boone County bank robbery case in which a Kansas City gangster was arrested. The witness was called to the courthouse in Kansas City and threatened with death, the Governor said, "if he testified against the gangster whom he had previously identified. The witness left the State, and did not testify, but the gangster was convicted by Prosecuting Attorney Ed C. Orr of Columbia with other testimony."

TO RESTORE QUIET

Noise So Great, Executive Session Is Called to Deal With Problem.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 30.—Noise and disorder on the floor during session of the Missouri House of Representatives having reached a point where even the most vociferous of its orators had difficulty in making themselves heard, the House today went into an executive session for more than an hour to discuss ways and means of enforcing the rule of "quiet please."

The upshot of the more than 60 minutes of executive session on quiet and order, which at times became rather noisy, was an agreement to try to enforce the existing rules of the House calling for decorum during sessions.

For the time being, at least, lobbyists are barred from the floor and side lobbies of the House. Doorkeepers expect trouble distinguishing Representatives from legislative agents, who have had the full freedom of the floor and lobbies. Announcement was made that guests could enter upon the floor only with official cards of admission.

The executive session was the result of an unusually disorderly session yesterday afternoon.

TWO MEN HELD
OF SCRAP METAL

Dealer and Weigher Accused of Larceny in Disappearance of Carburetor Firm's Property.

THREE DETAINED AS MATERIAL WITNESSES

Arrests Follow Sale in Which Police Find Weight Discrepancy in Recheck at Plant.

Sidney Wolf, a scrap metal dealer, and Edward Patterson, a weigher for the Carter Carburetor Corporation, 2840 North Spring avenue, were charged with larceny by trick in informations issued by Assistant Circuit Attorney William D. O'Connor today following police investigation of a report by firm executives that they were unable to account for disappearance of $35,000 worth of scrap metal in the last two years.

They were arrested following a sale yesterday in which Wolf, who resides in Detroit and Miami Beach, Fla., paid the Carter Corporation $2451 for what was represented as 34,180 pounds of brass borings and brass ends. After police confiscated the metal it was found to weigh 85,396 pounds with a value of $6130, police reported.

Three Ordered Held as Witnesses.

Arrested with Wolf and Patterson, who kept the tally of weights for the company at the sale, were three metal workers who accompanied Wolf and 16 St. Louis Negroes hired by Wolf to load the metal in six rented trucks.

O'Connor refused informations against the 16 Negroes on the ground of insufficient evidence and returned that the three metal workers be held under $500 bond as material witnesses. Patterson gave his address as 2617 North Spring avenue.

Wolf, held at the Lucas Avenue Police Station, told Captain Hegeman that he was at a loss to account for the discrepancy in the weights of the scrap metal at yesterday's sale. Patterson also was quoted by Captain Hegeman as saying he could not understand the discrepancy. He said he had given what he thought was the proper weight.

Inquiry Began March 20.

Police began their investigation March 20, when Hugh H. C. Weed, vice-president and general manager of the Carter Corporation, and his assistant, Magnus F. Peterson, called on Captain Hegeman and told him a check of their scrap metal showed that about $35,000 worth of metal had disappeared in the last two years. They said they knew about how much metal was wasted in the manufacture of carburetors and noticed when an inventory was taken recently that the sales of scrap had dropped in the last two years.

They explained scrap was collected each day from various parts of the plant and stored in bins until a large amount had accumulated. Then it was sold to metal dealers on a competitive bid basis. Wolf visited the plant about once every six weeks to bid on the accumulated scrap.

Capt. Hegeman and other officers watched the proceedings at yesterday's sale. The scrap was loaded into tubs and three tubs were weighed at a time, with Patterson, police said, keeping the tally sheet. Later the figures were totaled by a clerk in the company's office. The weights given were 29,842 pounds of brass borings and 4266 pounds of brass ends. Wolf gave the company a check for $2451. As Wolf's employees started to drive away in the trucks loaded with the metal, police stopped them at plant exit.

Metal Is Reweighed.

Then Henry Kessler, assistant deputy city commissioner of Deputies and Measures, checked the scales and found them to be accurate. The metal was reweighed by other employees of the company as the police watched.

Instead of 29,842 pounds of brass borings, it was found the correct weight was 76,212 pounds, and the 4266 pounds of brass ends actually weighed 9184 pounds, or a total discrepancy of 51,388 pounds. Wolf had paid 7 1/2 cents per pound for the brass borings and 7 1/2 cents per pound for the brass ends. The correct price should have been $6130, or $3678 more than Wolf paid, company officers told police.

The scrap metal was returned to the company and the trucks were returned to the agency from which they were rented by Wolf. He is head of the Imperial Metal Co. of Detroit.

$501,000,000 INCOME TAX COLLECTION FOR MARCH
TOPS ROOSEVELT ESTIMATE

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—MARCH income tax collections have run above $500,000,000, exceeding by more than $75,000,000 the sum figured on by President Roosevelt in his budget estimates.

Today's Treasury statement disclosed that, on March 28, three days before the month's end, $501,068,010 had been collected.

Although above budget estimates, the collections lagged behind returns for March, 1938, when $723,000,000 was received.

The deficit for the fiscal year which began July 1 amounts to $2,321,905,448. Borrowing to pay for the deficit boosted the public debt to a new high of $39,972,052,542.

GARNER ABSENTS

Texas Legislature's Resolution Favoring Him for President in 1940 Read.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—Talk of Vice-President Garner as a possible Democratic nominee for President in 1940 broke out on the Senate floor today. Garner left the chamber to keep from hearing it.

On motion of Senator Connally of Texas, the chamber heard clerks read a resolution of the Texas Legislature urging Garner's nomination. The resolution referred to Garner's long service in Congress and said he had demonstrated statesmanship in dealing with national affairs. It suggested that "Democrats in all states" instruct their delegates to the 1940 convention for Garner.

In submitting the resolution, Connally described the Vice-President as a "very able and outstanding man."

Garner put Connally's motion that the resolution be read before hurriedly leaving the chamber. Senator Pittman (Dem., Nevada), Senate President pro tem, took over the floor.

Senator Sheppard (Dem., Texas), as he was in "hearty sympathy" with the resolution.

Connally told reporters he had received the resolution from the Texas Legislature and had introduced it as a matter of routine.

"In available information indicates that Mr. Garner is far out in front for the nomination," Connally asserted.

Geneva Custodian Formally Turns Over Rare Works to Franco's Envoy.

GENEVA, March 30 (AP).—Spain's art treasures, stored for protection here during the final stages of the Spanish civil war, were turned over today to the Marquis d'Alcayna, Spanish Nationalist Minister to Switzerland.

Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the League of Nations, in whose care the collection of paintings, tapestries and other works of art was placed, formally relinquished them. Avenol told the Spanish Minister that the natural home for the collection was Spain and expressed the hope that "the return of these treasures to a peaceful Spain, proud of her ancient traditions and her present state, would be one of the symbols of her new life."

The collection includes paintings by Velasquez, El Greco and other Spanish masters as well as rare tapestries and statuary.

RUMOR THAT LIECHTENSTEIN WILL BE ANNEXED BY GERMANY

Head of Government Denies This, But Ruling Prince Is Member of Storm Troops.

VADUZ, Liechtenstein, March 30 (AP).—There were rumors here last night of an impending change in the status of this independent principality and its 11,000 inhabitants.

There was talk that Liechtenstein, whose 65 square miles are little more than the area of Staten Island, might be incorporated in the German Reich or be made a protectorate like Slovakia. It lies between Switzerland and the German Tyrol.

The Government, headed by Dr. Joseph Hoop, issued a statement disclosing the arrest of pro-Nazis who became involved in a political fight in the neighboring town of Schaan, while agitating for union with Germany. The Government statement insisted rumors of impending union were baseless.

However, the ruling Prince, Franz Joseph, held membership in Adolf Hitler's storm troopers.

ITALY REFUSES TO STAY 'PRISONER IN MEDITERRANEAN'

Mussolini Quotes Fascist Hero, 'When One Has Given All to Country He Has Not Given Enough.'

DICTATOR'S REPLY TO FRENCH PREMIER

Gayda Says Daladier Wants to Shut Door to Negotiations—Deadlock in Relations Foreseen.

ROME, March 30 (AP).—Premier Mussolini affirmed today Italy's intention not to remain "a prisoner in the Mediterranean" while Fascists studied with disfavor last night's address of Premier Daladier of France.

Mussolini spoke only briefly during an inspection tour of Calabria, the province in the toe of the Italian boot.

At Cosenza where he halted briefly he made the statement to the assembled townspeople that Italy "does not intend to remain a prisoner in the Mediterranean."

He recalled the words of the late Michele Bianchi, one of his early aids—"When one has given all to the fatherland he has not yet given enough."

"Comrades Be Ready."

The Premier concluded with, "comrades be ready in every instant of your lives, as Fascists and Italians, worthy of and faithful to his (Bianchi's) memory."

On the Calabrian coast, Mussolini placed a wreath on the tomb of Bianchi. At Cosenza, he laid the cornerstone of a new normal school.

Everywhere along his route, flags and banners and road-side signs acclaimed him, and crowds gathered to cheer.

Virginia Gayda, leading Fascist editor, summed up Italian reaction to Daladier's speech with the assertion that the French Premier wanted to "shut tight the half-closed door" to French-Italian negotiations.

Italy Not Impatient.

Gayda, who wrote in Il Giornale d'Italia, tempered his comment with the statement:

"It is not impatient. She can wait and she waits. . . . History will one day tell whether this has not decisive value in the present dramatic moment of Europe which would clarify and secure positions once for all."

"It is by now," Gayda concluded, "that the French Government does not wish to discuss further either territories or rights. It wishes to separate itself from Italy and stiffen itself with its 'never'."

"So nothing remains but to consider the problem of Italian-French relations—still open from its foundation and aggravated—and pass on to other subjects without, however, taking our eyes off that problem for an instant."

Bologna Paper's Comment.

Another newspaper comment on Daladier's speech was that of Il Resto del Carlino, important Bologna paper, which said the chasm between France and Italy had deepened.

Emphasizing Daladier's "never" on cession of French territory or French rights, the newspaper said it seemed to "cut the bridges" and make an understanding impossible.

"France, therefore, has assumed very grave responsibility of all inevitable consequences of policy which Daladier's speech seems to stiffen still more," Il Resto del Carlino said.

Deadlock Is Expected.

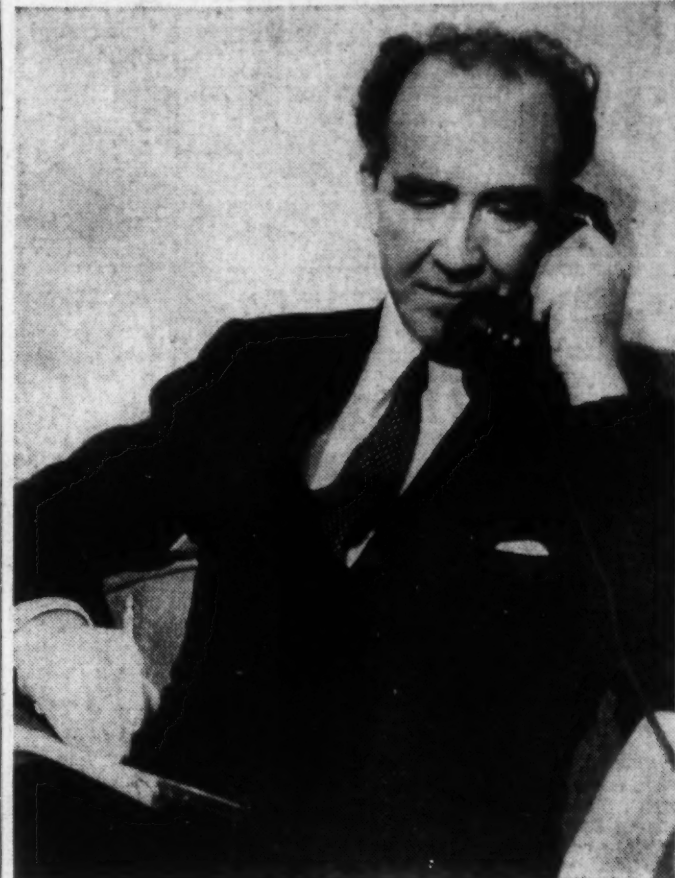

A continued deadlock in the French-Italian dispute over colonial compensations for Italy was considered in political circles today to be the principal result of Daladier's broadcast.

Daladier's declaration of French willingness to "examine propositions that might be made" short of the cession of land or rights, was regarded as conciliatory but Fascists said it did nothing to resolve the stalemate.

It already had been made sufficiently plain, they said, that Italy expected France to make the first offer.

IN JUDGE'S HANDS

Both Sides Agree to Stipulation on Further Evidence in Union Case and Will Submit Briefs.

The suit to oust John P. Nick and Clyde A. Weston, indicted union leaders, from control of movie operators' Local No. 143 was submitted to Circuit Judge Ernest F. Oakley today through a stipulation ending the hearing, which began Monday.

It was agreed that all plaintiffs, if called, would have testified substantially as did Robert Tomson, a former business agent of the union, and Osborne Myers, a veteran operator, except that there would have been additional evidence of opposition to the defendants taking charge of Local 143 in 1935.

No defense evidence was presented, but both sides will submit briefs to the court.

Union Records Put in Evidence.

The stipulation also provided that all vouchers, canceled checks and stubs issued by the union since 1937 and an audit made since that time would become part of the evidence. Counsel for the plaintiffs were to inspect this evidence this afternoon at the union headquarters, 4 South Eighth street.

The transcript of proceedings before a union trial committee, following which the international union took charge of the local, also will become part of the evidence.

Paul Dillon, Nick's lawyer, said in reply to a question by Robert A. Roessel, plaintiffs' counsel, that recently a check for $15,000, drawn on union funds, was given to him. "The check was drawn to be expended for a number of matters, counsel didn't get it all and some of it has not been spent," Dillon said. When Roessel asked what part of the money went to counsel, Dillon replied, "That is not material, it is admitted the check was turned over to Paul Dillon."

Roessel attempted to introduce a photostatic copy of the extortion indictment returned against Nick by the December grand jury, but was prevented from doing so when the court sustained Dillon's objection.

Testimony that theater owners raised $6500 in 1937 to avert a wage increase for union operators was given at the hearing yesterday by Walter A. Thimms, owner of the McNair Theater.

That movie theater owners had raised and paid $6500 in 1937 and $10,000 in 1938 was first told by the Post-Dispatch in exclusive stories, which resulted in a grand jury investigation. Nick and State

Attorney-General Announces 'No Outside Influence Will Be Permitted to Stand Between Prosecutor and Public Interest.'

HE DID NOT SEE
BOSS' TWO FIXERS

In Close Touch With Missouri Case in Which Grand Jury Is Trying to Find Who Got Fire Rate Compromise Money.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Attorney-General Frank Murphy disclosed today at his press conference that efforts have been made by the Pendergast organization to stop the Federal grand jury investigation at Kansas City of the $447,000 "mystery fund" paid out in the notorious O'Malley fire insurance rate compromise, but asserted that nothing will be permitted to interfere with the inquiry.

The Post-Dispatch learned here that the Kansas City proceeding is expected to disclose a major scandal in connection with the distribution of the $447,000 fund which was handled by the late Charles R. Street of Chicago, head of a committee representing the stock fire insurance companies involved in the Missouri rate litigation and compromise.

Pendergast Behind the Deal.

As has been told, A. L. McCormack, head of a St. Louis insurance agency, admitted he received $30,000 from Street in 1935, the year the compromise was approved by R. Emmet O'Malley, then Missouri State Superintendent of Insurance.

McCormack, closely associated with Street at the time the compromise was negotiated, has appeared repeatedly as a witness before the grand jury.

In June, 1935, the Post-Dispatch disclosed that Democratic Boss Thomas J. Pendergast of Kansas City was the power behind the compromise. In an interview, Pendergast said he passed the word along to State officials to approve the settlement, telephoning to Gov. Park, among others, that he thought it was a good arrangement.

The Attorney-General declared today: "No outside influence will be permitted to stand between any Federal prosecutor and the public interest. Provincial political powers who want the Department of Justice subordinated to their own interests are wrong; their interests must be subordinated to the public welfare."

He was asked by reporters if this declaration of policy applied to Kansas City, since it was known that two influential Kansas City politicians had been in Washington recently talking to Government officials.

"Yes, Kansas City, New York, Chicago and a couple of other places," replied the Attorney-General.

The two recent Kansas City visitors here were James Pendergast, nephew of Boss Pendergast, and Otto F. Higgins, director of police and Pendergast ally.

Murphy Didn't See Them.

Murphy said he did not see either of these men, but that certain other public officials brought their presence here to his attention and "asked for my judgment as to what to do about the Kansas City investigation."

"I gave it to them," the Attorney-General added grimly.

Murphy declined to say who the Washington officials were who had asked about Higgins and Pendergast or what his recommendations had been.

DALADIER SPEECH IS INDORSED EVEN BY HIS ENEMIES

'We Approve of This Language,' Says Leon Blum, Who Frequently Has Opposed Premier.

DEMONSTRATIONS THROUGHOUT NATION

Premier Declares France Will Yield No Territory, but Will Negotiate if Italy Takes Lead.

PARIS, March 30 (AP).—Premier Daladier's declaration last night that France would cede "not a foot of our land nor one of our rights" to Italy seemed today to have won both popular and political acclaim.

Even the Premier's political enemies indorsed his stand—that France would yield no territory, that it would negotiate colonial and other differences with Italy if Italy took the first step, and that France was strong enough to defend herself.

The Paris press was unanimous in praise. The Socialist, Leon Blum, who frequently has opposed the more conservative Radical-Socialist, Daladier, declared that "we approve of this language." (Blum spoke for his party.)

The Communist newspaper, consistently a critic of Daladier and increasingly so since the Munich Czech-Slovak partition, No. 1, added its indorsement—even though the speech appeared to have advanced the dispute with Italy, over Italian agitation for French African colonies, no further toward settlement.

"Up to Italy and Germany." The general comment was "now it is up to the axis" of Italy and Germany. Daladier, in his address, which was broadcast last night, struck also at Germany, whose break-up of Czech-Slovakia two weeks ago, he said, was a "heavy blow" to efforts for peace.

Daladier spoke over the radio from his office. The address was broadcast in French over all stations in France and in French, North African possessions and was relayed throughout the world later in Italian, German, English, Spanish, Portuguese and Arabic.

Demonstrations widespread. Tens of thousands who listened to the speech in provincial cities organized demonstrations before cafes where loud speakers were installed.

At Grenoble and several other cities near the Italian frontier, hundreds of Italian expatriates who profess Anti-Fascism paraded through the streets crying "Vive Daladier. Down with the Duce." Daladier's speech, according to the Premier, was made last Sunday, in which the Italian leader contended that Italian claims in Tunisia, Djibouti and the Suez Canal were presented by diplomatic note last Dec. 17.

Daladier denied that note clearly defined the Italian claims, and he told the French public it could judge for itself with publication of the Italian note and the French reply.

Daladier said France could not accept the essential argument of the note, that "the conquest of Ethiopia and constitution of the Italian Empire created new rights for Italy"—surpassing those of a colonial accord of 1938.

Defense Coalition Indorsed. The general comment by the French press included applause for Daladier's proposal of a world defense coalition against aggression and urged the Government to act quickly in forming it.

Bonnet's own paper, L'Homme Libre, praised Daladier's speech, adding that the door remained open for Italy to negotiate "even though Italy is hardly master of herself."

Louis Frossard, who quit as Public Works Minister after a fight with Daladier last August over the Premier's labor policy, said the speech "receives the support of the entire nation."

Deputy Henri de Kervillain, whose bitter pen constantly has attacked Daladier and his Government, said "the speech is excellent," and lamented only that "it is a pity it comes so late."

Man Power in Africa. As though to give punch to Daladier's estimate of French military strength, Colonial Minister Mandel told the Senate that France had doubled its Colonial Army within a year by tapping a "black reservoir" of man power in Central Africa and reserves in Indo-China.

He said the general staff was continuing to increase colonial armed strength with the idea of making units of the empire capable of maintaining their own defense.

Mandel's estimate meant that France's colonies—exclusive of North Africa and the Near East, where largest forces are concentrated—had a standing army of between 150,000 and 200,000.

Mandel said that an aviation fac-

Italian and French Positions Stated in Exchange of Notes

PARIS, March 30 (AP).—The following are portions of the Italian note of Dec. 17, and the French reply, which were made public following Premier Daladier's speech yesterday. The note addressed to the French Ambassador in Rome by the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, cited as reasons for denouncing the treaty the failure of the French Parliament to ratify the 1935 French-Italian accord, lack of a special statute for Italians in Tunisia to carry out that part of the pact, and France's joining the League of Nations economic sanctions against Italy in the Ethiopian war. The note concluded:

"Moreover, the Constitution of the (Italian) empire has created new rights and new interests of fundamental importance. In these conditions and in the very interests of their improvement, Italy-French relations could not still have for their base at the present hour the accord of 1935, and precisely it is wished to improve them, it is evident that these relations must be examined anew by a common accord between the two Governments."

The French reply, addressed to Count Ciano by the French Ambassador on Dec. 25, made three points:

1. France had undertaken execution of the 1935 pact by handing over 2600 shares of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa Railway Co. to Italy despite the absence of Italy's ratification of the accord.

2. The French Government had undertaken to "facilitate the improvement of relations" between the two countries, notably by recognizing the Italian conquest of Ethiopia and sending an Ambassador to Rome after that recognition.
3. Italy knew of the "international obligations" which required French imposition of League of Nations sanctions on the Fascist Government during the Ethiopian conquest.

The French note said the Government did not wish to "discuss the consequences" which the Italian note could have, but simply was recalling these facts in the Ethiopian conquest.

Italy was nearing completion in Indo-China which would turn out 150 planes and 400 motors a year for the French Eastern colonies.

French Generals consulted today with the Polish Gen. Sikorski, former Premier, now in Paris, who represents a nation vital for the defense coalition Daladier purposes.

Conversations continued between Viscount Gort, chief of the British Imperial General Staff of National Defense. They were thought to be putting on the final touches to complete an Anglo-French military alliance.

ate is not content with dominating the police, the city government and the law-enforcement agencies in Kansas City," the Governor said. "In its arrogance, and with the supposed power of its affiliated political organization, it is reaching out to many counties, endeavoring to elect judges, sheriffs and prosecuting attorneys. It is finding a haven of refuge, gambling resorts are appearing and disappearing night clubs are undermining the morals of the youth of those communities. Rural Missouri is not going to stand for that sort of thing."

"The Kansas City crime syndicate is now trying to control the General Assembly, just as it tried last summer to gain control of the Missouri Supreme Court."

"If this Kansas City police control measure for law enforcement falls to the General Assembly, all the counties of Missouri will be in danger of falling into the clutches of the overlords of Kansas City gangsters."

Statistical Record Cited. Higgins' letter which has reached members of the Legislature was accompanied by a statistical crime record which the Police Director cited to show better enforcement of law under municipal control than under State control.

He referred to the Governor's special message to the Legislature as "the Governor's latest political move," and said that, "in view of the fine law enforcement we are giving Kansas City, we feel we are entitled to your active support in preventing any change."

"If the Governor can deprive Kansas City of home rule, your

ROOSEVELT TELLS SOUTH 'TO GET OUT OF HOCK TO NORTH'

At Alabama Polytechnic Institute, He Urges Use of Resources to Establish Own Enterprises.

AUBURN, Ala., March 30 (AP).—President Roosevelt urged the South today to "get itself out of hock to the North" by using its resources and initiative to establish its own enterprises.

Addressing the student body of Alabama Polytechnic Institute from an open car on Bullard Field, Roosevelt said he did not believe the South "is so broke" it can't produce more of the things it needs so as not to be dependent on the North. He declared anew for higher wages in Southern factories and said with the consequent greater purchasing power the South could afford to put its capital to work and build up its own dairy industry and manufacturing plants.

He said great progress had been made in the last six years in changing the Southern economy but that one of the big things remaining was to "conserve the soil."

"I have been horrified to think," he said, "about all that must be done in the future to conserve the soil of the South."

The President came here from Tuskegee where he addressed the students of Tuskegee Institute, famous Negro school founded by the late Booker T. Washington. Leaving Auburn at 12:30 p. m. he motored to Opelika, Ala. and made a third informal talk to a group of adults and school children.

Roosevelt told the students and faculty of Tuskegee Institute that he was proud of what its graduates were doing for "human service" and expressed a need for co-operation between states and peoples in this work.

Speaking from his car in front of Carnegie Music Hall, the President said that, because of changing conditions, "We have got to work together."

"Alabama or Georgia cannot go it alone. More and more we have got to plan for the future and plan to work with the other fellow. That is one of the things you've got here—co-operation."

En route to the broad Tuskegee campus, the President stopped at the Negro Veterans' Hospital on the outskirts of Tuskegee and shook hands with the staff and several wheel-chair patients. He told the officials there Gen. Frank T. Hines, Veterans' Administrator in Washington, had told him that "this was one of the hospitals that was doing a great job."

"I'm glad things are going well," he said. "I've read all the reports on this hospital and know the maps well."

WORLD'S FAIR HOTEL RATES HIT NEW YORK STAGE PEOPLE

Equity Association Appeals to Mayor for Actors Facing Slim Income Season.

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP).—A swing from the days when actors with anemic bankrolls but flourishing wardrobes got rates as "atmosphere" in New York hotels was noted today in an appeal by Actors Equity Association to Mayor F. H. LaGuardia and other city officials.

The association petitioned Mayor and Grover A. Whalen, president of the New York World's Fair, to intercede on behalf of "many hundreds, perhaps thousands, of actors and actresses" who now live by the week in hotels which will be only on a day-by-day basis, at higher rates, with the advent of the World's Fair next month.

Pointing out that "the people of the theater are good friends and loyal ones," the association declared it would be impossible for many of them to meet the new prices—especially in view of the unprofitable summer months most actors face.

LONDON, March 30 (AP).—The Foreign Office said today three British warships were removing 150 Spanish republican political refugees from Gandia, Spain, along with 167 Italians formerly prisoners of the republicans.

The Italians will be taken to Palma, Mallorca, but the destination of the Spaniards was not disclosed.

accusing the French of blind intransigence.

Officially, however, the immediate reaction to Daladier's words was almost to ignore them. Newspapers published extremely brief summaries on inside pages.

Il Messaggero headlined its summary, "Daladier Reaffirms the Summary Long Series of 'Nevers,'" while Il Popolo di Roma merely captioned its account, "Daladier's Declaration."

One authoritative Fascist said anxiety over uncertain relations between Germany and Poland was expressed in Government circles.

Responsible Fascists acknowledged rumors that some special Italian residents of various classes from 1901 to 1912 had been called since January to strengthen some army units, but insisted this could not be termed mobilization. They said the number called was much smaller than the 300,000 men mobilized last September.

British Press Shows Favorable Reaction to Daladier Speech. LONDON, March 30 (AP).—The British press generally showed a favorable reaction to the speech of Premier Daladier of France.

The Daily Herald, Labor, said the speech "surprised even the French politicians in its challenging ring" and "it sounded more like a fighting speech than anything heard from the lips of a French statesman for many days."

Although Daladier "did not close the door to negotiations" with Italy, he left "only a crack open," the paper added.

The Daily Mail commented that the "confident tone will be well-remembered" and added that Daladier's references to France's "vital strength and magnificent army" reflected "the resolution of a united people."

The next move lies with Mussolini," the Mail concluded.

TWO ANTI-FRANCO LEADERS GO TO BURGOS AS PRISONERS

Defense and Foreign Ministers Moved After Arrest—Nationalist Military Courts to Try Republicans.

MADRID, March 30 (AP).—Two night said, "The advance of our forces continued today," listing cities and villages following the lead of Madrid in capitulating. The largest was Valencia.

By nightfall Nationalist Spain had engulfed the nearly one-fourth of continental Spain that was left to the Republicans after the January conquest of Catalonia.

Francisco's triumphant entry into Madrid, with a big army parade, may be delayed from this week to next, it was reliably understood, while the thousands of Republicans are rounded up.

Children frolicked over Madrid's abandoned battlefields, now being torn down for fuel, and through the network of trenches from which thousands of Republican soldiers had held off besieging Nationalists since Nov. 6, 1938.

Guards on the battlefield at the southwestern corner of the city, the University City section, turned back sightseers after two children at play there set off an abandoned hand grenade and were killed.

Hundreds of civilians approached the University City ruins—once beautiful buildings now gaunt skeletons from months of shelling. Fragments of masonry, bits of shrapnel, cartridge cases, grenades and broken guns littered the shell-punctured ground.

Mijaia Says, "We Will Be Back Sooner Than One Might Expect." ORAN, Algeria, March 30 (AP).—Gen. Jose Mijaia, chief of the defeated Spanish Republic's Defense Council, today asserted, "We will certainly be back in Spain sooner than one might expect."

"I say that because on both sides they are really for the Republic," said the General who flew here yesterday from Valencia.

"As for me, I am satisfied that before leaving Spain I did my duty to save the Republic."

"In Algiers, Mijaia was expected to board a ship some time today bound for Marseille, France. Unconfirmed reports said he intended to change ships there for Egypt."

VATICAN NEWSPAPER REJOICES IN OUTCOME OF SPANISH WAR

Says Nation Will Speak for Reform That Will Show Way to Exalt Peace.

VATICAN CITY, March 30 (AP).—The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said editorially yesterday that the victory of "Catholic Spain" had brought "incalculable moral and political support to Europe."

The paper, which declared that a pacified and peaceful Spain "showing her wounds, will speak with irresistible eloquence for that spiritual and political reform of the world which will show the way to abhor war and exalt peace."

It added: "All who followed the war with Christian and human sentiments cannot but greet the event with a feeling of gratitude to God that Spain is returning to respect and to the ancient teaching, to the heroic faith of her fathers."

The editorial said that before the conflict broke out there was "an abyss" in the spirits of the people. Religion, the common faith, had been shattered, the paper added.

Republican militiamen still at large were ordered to surrender their arms immediately. Truckloads of rifles rolled up to the Madrid military headquarters. It was believed that virtually all Republican planes and artillery had passed into Nationalist hands.

COSTER-MUSICA'S BROTHERS AND SIX OTHERS INDICTED

Accused of Mail Fraud, Violating SEC Law, and Conspiracy in McKesson & Robbins Case.

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP).—The three surviving brothers of the masquerading swindler, F. Donald Coster-Musica, and six other persons were indicted today on charges of mail fraud, violation of the Securities and Exchange Commission law and conspiracy.

The indictment, containing 14 counts, would make the defendants liable on conviction to maximum sentences of 58 years each plus a $50,000 fine each.

The true first disclosed Coster-Musica's elaborate pretensions to evade blackmail attempts and at the same time to defraud the McKesson & Robbins Drug Co., of which he was president.

The defendants included: George Dietrich-Musica, George Vernard-Musica, Robert Dietrich-Musica, Benjamin Simon, and Leonard and John O. Jenkins. The two last named were described by United States Attorney John T. Cahill as brothers of Coster-Musica's widow.

Others named in the indictment were Horace B. Merwin, president of the Bridgeport (Conn.) City Trust Co.; Rowley W. Phillips, head of R. F. Griggs & Co., investment broker, Waterbury, Conn., and John H. McGloin, Bridgeport, who was controller and vice-president of McKesson & Robbins.

Cahill said Simon had known Coster-Musica for 20 years and that he had used his real name as an alias, having filed a petition in bankruptcy for Phillip M. Musica in New Orleans. Cahill said Simon explained that Coster-Musica had asked him to file the petition so that blackmailers would believe he had no money.

Scheme to Defraud. The first 10 counts in the indictment charged mail fraud, alleging the defendants about Jan. 1, 1932, entered into a scheme to defraud McKesson & Robbins, the firm's stockholders and creditors.

Among those listed as having been defrauded was Lucy E. Textor, professor of history at Vassar College.

The indictment charged that 80 per cent of the stock of the firm's Canadian branch was owned by McKesson & Robbins, incorporated in Connecticut and succeeded in 1935 by a firm of the same name organized in Maryland.

The Canadian firm, the indictment set forth, was organized to sell 10,000 shares of preferred stock on false representation.

Most Men Get $12 a Week. Both organizations are giving out new money orders for three weeks, paying them $12 a week, filling each available job with men. Judicious distribution of these low-pay jobs, politicians found, is particularly effective in a city populated largely by low-income families.

The odds in the election are v. McGlynn's ticket, which, best Connors, includes English; Alvin P. Lauman, Police Commissioner; Joseph Ganschneiter, Commissioner of Public Improvement, and Leona Doughty, Superintendent of Streets. They polled far more votes in the primaries than candidates on their opponent's ticket.

Hallahan is not downhearted however. He is trying to nose McGlynn's weaker candidates, thus placing a wedge between them and the City Council. His candidates besides Karns, are Eugene I. Ray, member of the Board of Revision John Joe Foley, former police Edward Reimann, secretary of Retail Merchants Association, Alvin G. Fields, Levee Board member.

Old Levee Board Customs. Inflating payrolls prior to contested elections is an established practice with the Levee Board, to a smaller extent with the Hall. Last spring, during the months preceding the State court primaries, when the Hall was trying to nominate one of its members, William Knaus, as sheriff, payrolls jumped from $11,000 in February to $21,207 in March and to $30,607 in April. 2, when the elections were over, payrolls dropped abruptly to $10,000 in May, or about $2000 under normal.

City payrolls remained constant at about $40,000 a month until opening of the current campaign.

PUBLIC PAYROLLS SOAR IN ELECTION AT EAST ST. LOUIS

300 Get Jobs From Levee Board, Dominated by Backer of John M. Karns for Mayor.

These Supporters of John T. Connors Increase Municipal Wages $2500 a Week, a 50 Pct. Rise.

The East St. Louis municipal election campaign, which will be next Tuesday with the choice of a Mayor and four commissioners, has developed in the first week into a veritable battle of payrolls, with the City Hall and East Side Levee Board, each supporting a slate, distributing jobs hundreds of voters and voters.

The Levee Board, dominated by John J. Hallahan, Democratic leader, who is supporting a ticket headed by John M. Karns, candidate for Mayor, has added 300 new employees to the 110 normally employed, an increase of almost 300 per cent. Total wage payments increased in the same proportion, rising from approximately $30,000 to $90,000 a week.

The City Hall, backbone of McGlynn's Republican organization, is using similar tactics in an effort to re-elect an administrative ticket headed by Finance Commissioner John T. Connors.

March 1, when the campaign began in earnest, 200 new men had been added to the 400 regular employed, an increase of 50 per cent, and $2500 has been added to the $10,000 weekly payroll.

Both Sides Admit Patronage. While more than 50 shabby dressed men waited outside his office door at the City Hall to get him about jobs, Commissioner Streets John T. English, in charge of the hiring, leaned back in his seat and frankly admitted that he gave out the jobs with "a little bit of patronage."

"We get the votes of the workers and the good will of the public by putting them to work cleaning the alleys and spreading cinders on the paved streets and alleys."

At the office of the Levee Board, Stephens H. Kernan, board president, spoke with similar candor. "Sure, we put them on for political purposes," he said. "We expect them to vote the Hallahan ticket next Tuesday, but we won't be long about giving them jobs."

The Levee Board, which has been put on the "drainage" system in shape. The regrettable thing is that with so much unemployment in the city we're going to have to lay them off as soon as the campaign is over."

COSTER-MUSICA'S BROTHERS AND SIX OTHERS INDICTED

Accused of Mail Fraud, Violating SEC Law, and Conspiracy in McKesson & Robbins Case.

The true bill disclosed Coster-Musica's elaborate precautions to evade blackmail attempts and at the same time to defraud the McKesson & Robbins Drug Co., of which he was president.

List of Defendants.

The defendants included: George Dietrich-Musica, George Bernard-Musica, Robert Dietrich-Musica, Benjamin Simon, and Leonard and John O. Jenkins. The two last named were described by United States Attorney John T. Cahill as brothers of Coster-Musica's widow.

Others named in the indictment were Horace B. Merwin, president of the Bridgeport (Conn.) City Trust Co.; Rowley W. Phillips, head of R. F. Griggs & Co., investment brokers, Waterbury, Conn., and John H. McClellan, Bridgeport, who was controller and vice-president of McKesson & Robbins.

CITY HALL FACTION HIRES 200 NEW MEN

These Supporters of John T. Connors Increase Municipal Wages $2500 a Week, a 50 Pct. Rise.

The East St. Louis municipal election campaign, which will end next Tuesday with the choosing of a Mayor and four commissioners, has developed in the final week into a veritable battle of payrolls with the City Hall and the East Side Levee Board, each supporting a slate, distributing jobs to hundreds of voters and vote-getters.

The Levee Board, dominated by John J. Hallahan, Democratic leader, who is supporting a ticket headed by John T. Connors, since Mayor, has added 300 new employees to the 110 normally employed, an increase of almost 300 per cent. Total wage payments increased in the same proportion, rising from approximately $1300 to $2000 a week.

The City Hall, backbone of Dan McGinn's Republican organization, is using similar tactics in an effort to re-elect an administration ticket headed by Finance Commissioner John T. Connors. Since March 1, when the campaign began in earnest, 200 new men have been added to the 400 regularly employed, an increase of 50 per cent, and $2500 has been added to the $1000 weekly payroll.

Both Sides Admit Patronage.

While more than 50 shabbily-dressed men waited outside his office door at the City Hall to see him about jobs, Commissioner of Streets John T. English, in charge of the hiring, leaned back in his seat and frankly admitted that he gave out the jobs with the expectation the men would "vote the administration ticket straight and get their families and friends to do the same."

He hastened to add, however, that no loafing was tolerated. "We're up for election," he said, "and we're killing two birds with one stone. We get the votes of the workers and the good will of the public by putting them to work cleaning up alleys and spreading cinders on unpaved streets and alleys."

At the offices of the Levee Board, crowded also with job hunters, Stephan H. Kernan, board president, spoke with similar candor.

"Sure, we put them on for political purposes," he said. "We expect them to vote the Hallahan ticket next Tuesday, but we won't have any looting. We're taking this opportunity to put on a clean system in shape. The regrettable thing is that with so much unemployment in the city we're going to have to lay them off as soon as the campaign is over."

Most Men Get $12 a Week.

Both organizations are giving most of the new men three days work a week, paying them $12, thus filling each available job with two men. Judicious distribution of these low-pay jobs, politicians have found, is particularly effective in a city populated largely by low-income families.

The odds in the election are with McGinn's ticket, which, besides Connors, includes English; Albert F. Lauman, Police Commissioner; Joseph Ganschneitz, Commissioner of Public Improvement, and Leo J. Dougherty, Superintendent of Streets. They polled far more votes in the primaries than candidates on their opponent's ticket.

Hallahan is not downhearted, however. He is trying to nose out McGinn's weaker candidates, and thus place at least a minority on the City Council. His candidates, besides Karns, are Eugene L. Hayes, member of the Board of Review; John Joe Foley, former policeman; Edward Reimann, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, and Alvin G. Fields, Levee Board member.

Old Levee Board Custom.

Inflating payrolls prior to hotly-contested elections is an established practice with the Levee Board, and to a smaller extent with the City Hall. Last spring, during the two months preceding the State and county primaries, when the board was trying to nominate one of its members, William Knaus, as Sheriff, payrolls jumped from $10,945 in February to $21,207 in March and to $30,607 in April. Then, when the elections were over, the payrolls dropped abruptly to $8877 in May, or about $2000 under normal.

City payrolls remained constant at about $40,000 a month until the opening of the current campaign.

John Pleimann Tells How He Saved Self After Being Trapped in Tunnel at Alton Lock.

John Pleimann, professional diver, narrowly escaped death yesterday afternoon when he was trapped for two hours in the auxiliary lock at Alton Dam, 26 feet below the Mississippi River surface.

He was imprisoned in a water-filled tunnel in the lock wall when the air line and rope from his diving suit to the surface caught on the lock structure. Unable to see in the pitch-black tunnel, he finally struggled loose by sense of feel alone.

Talking to a Post-Dispatch reporter afterward at his home, 812 Military road, Lemay, Pleimann explained that he descended into the lock shortly before 4 o'clock to make one of the final inspections of repair work which has been in progress for several weeks.

At that time his helmet came off when he was in 60 feet of water, and he was nearly drowned before he could be raised to the surface. On another occasion he was caught in the hull of a boat being salvaged from the Mississippi River 200 miles south of St. Louis, an accident similar to yesterday's except that he freed himself much more quickly.

He was unshaken by the experience yesterday and resumed diving this morning. At his home last night, he was much more interested in a hockey game being played by the Flyers than in talking about his escape and refusal to continue his account at all once a broadcast of part of the game had started to come over the radio.

Hockey is Pleimann's favorite topic of conversation, he explained. "There's a game for you, all right—the chances those players take!"

HOSPITAL WORKERS DAMAGE SUIT TIPSTERS, LAWYERS SAY

Affidavits Filed by Seven Attorneys Accuse Employees of City Institution for Negroes.

Affidavits charging that employees of Homer G. Phillips Hospital, the city hospital for Negroes, were working as tipsters for white damage suit lawyers were presented today by seven Negro attorneys representing the Mound City Bar Association. The hospital employees are Negroes.

Wayman told reporters that the affidavits, sworn to by three patients, named employees, who, it is alleged, obtained information which was turned over to white lawyers. The City Counselor refused to disclose names and other details pending an investigation of the charges.

If the affidavits are supported by additional evidence, Wayman said, he would recommend the dismissal of the employees involved.

Wayman said the Negro attorneys told him that the procedure followed was for hospital employees to interview patients, who had been injured by automobiles and in other accidents, and to forward the information to white lawyers, some of whom appeared later at the hospital. Asked if he intended making a recommendation with reference to lawyers hiring the tipsters, Wayman said he did not consider that to be his responsibility.

REALTY EXCHANGE MAN ASSAILS RISE IN CITY SPENDING

J. Melvin Levi at Budget Hearing Says Reduction of 1933-34 Has Become $4,000,000 Increase.

A satiric comparison of the city's current expenses with those in the first year of Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann's administration was made at a public hearing on the prospective municipal budget today by J. Melvin Levi, chairman of the Committee on City Administration of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange.

For the fiscal year 1933-34, when Mayor Dickmann began his first term, expenditures were $19,540,191, Levi pointed out. This compared with $21,292,470 the previous year, when Victor J. Miller was Mayor. Levi said, and represented a "fine" reduction.

"But now history seems to be repeating itself," Levi told the Mayor and the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, who conducted the hearing. "Year after year, since then, expenditures have been increased until now you are expending approximately $4,000,000 a year more of the taxpayers' money than you did that year."

"For 1930-40, you are being asked to appropriate an additional $1,500,000 or $5,500,000 more than it cost to run the city just five years ago."

Wants Units Self-Supporting.

Levi demanded that the drivers' license office, Municipal Auditorium and Airport and other city departments and institutions which shower deficits last year be made self-supporting. He also inquired why the Recorder's office should have the same amount of expense now as it did in previous years when the volume of business transacted there was much higher.

An appeal to continue the work of the City Plan Commission, members of which have asked for an appropriation sufficient only to last six months, was made at the hearing by representatives of the General Council on Civic Needs, American Institute of Architects and several neighborhood business and improvement associations. They said they had found the work of the commission invaluable in past years and believed it even more important now.

Mayor Disregards Question.

Mrs. L. H. Caugh, 3461 Oak Hill avenue, one of the few of the 75 persons present who were there as individuals, demanded to know how the Mayor spent his $12,000-a-year contingent fund, and was told that he reported these expenditures to the Board of Aldermen.

She then produced a copy of the Mayor's 1933 platform, in which it was stated that all this fund would be used for relief, and demanded to know if the promise had been carried out. Mayor Dickmann disregarded the question.

A plea that the city should make possible additional nurses at the City Hospital even if expenditures had to be curtailed elsewhere was made by Mrs. Louisa Custer, representing the Federated Improvement Associations. Recent surveys have termed conditions at the hospital "disgraceful" because of an inadequate nursing staff.

Representatives of dairies and of the Sanitary Milk Producers' Association asked that the city resume the policy of appropriating about $34,000 a year for milk inspection that it followed before passage of the standard milk ordinance in 1936. The speakers said it had been generally understood at the time the ordinance was under consideration that the payments would continue.

At present all expenses of inspection are met from a tax of 4 cents per 100 pounds of milk imposed on dairies.

MAN WHO GOT WRIT TO SEE CHILDREN LAST TIME DIES

Court Compelled Ex-Wife to Take Them to Hospital to Visit Tubercular.

SEATTLE, March 30 (AP).—Walter Butler, whose attorney obtained a court order to compel Butler's divorced wife to take their two children to a hospital for a last visit, died last night of tuberculosis.

Judge William G. Long granted the unusual order Tuesday after Butler's former wife said she feared to expose the children to tuberculosis.

MURPHY DECLARES PENDERGAST CAN'T STOP U. S. INQUIRY

ferred with Postmaster-General Democratic National Chairman James Farley, and tried in vain to see President Roosevelt.

James Pendergast was here Monday and Tuesday, conferring with Senators Truman and Clark.

Truman saw Murphy Tuesday, but today the Attorney-General said the Missouri investigation had not been discussed. The brief conversation, he said, had been on the United States Marshalship for the court at Kansas City. Truman, Murphy said, had continued his recommendation of Fred Canfil, to succeed Henry L. Dillingham, who has held over although his original appointment expired in 1937.

Policy Applies Generally.

Murphy was reluctant to comment specifically on the Kansas City situation, preferring, he said, to relate it to the general activities of corrupt political machines throughout the country. He said that he wanted to emphasize that privilege and influence would not be able to stop investigations and prosecutions by the Department of Justice.

"As you know," he told reporters, "one serious phase of our present policy is to release judges, district attorneys and marshals from being adjuncts to local political machines and from being under their influence. You know our anxiety to correct and clean up bad situations throughout the country."

Through Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Gov. Stark, Murphy has kept closely in touch with the Missouri situation. Stark, the Post-Dispatch has learned, has telephoned the Attorney-General and other high Washington officials.

Treasury Department Interested.

Another agency investigating the Kansas City situation is the Treasury Department special intelligence unit under Elmer Irey, which is seeking to determine whether certain Kansas City politicians have filed proper income tax returns.

The O'Malley compromise, as has been told, provided for return to the stock fire insurance companies and their lawyers of 80 per cent of nearly $10,000,000 of excess premiums impounded by a Federal Court at Kansas City, after payment of court costs, with only 20 per cent to be returned to the 800,000 policyholders who had paid the excess premiums.

U. S. TAX OF $49,891 SET ON ESTATE OF PAUL BROWN

Agreement Reached Between Internal Revenue Department and Executor of St. Louis's Will.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—A tax on the estate of Paul Brown of St. Louis was set today at $49,891 under an agreement between the Internal Revenue Bureau and the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., executor of Brown's will.

The executor had objected to payment of a greater amount based on a Government contention that stock transfers of $955,020 to the Paul Brown Investment Co. constituted taxable gifts. Brown died in 1927.

INSURANCE OFFICERS CONTINUE TESTIMONY

Executives Examined in U. S. Grand Jury Hearing in Kansas City.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 30.—Eastern insurance executives representing stock fire insurance companies involved in the Missouri rate compromise of 1935 continued their testimony today before a Federal Grand jury which is trying to find out who got a $447,000 fund paid to the late Charles R. Street of Chicago by the companies for "expenses" in connection with the settlement.

W. H. Koop, president of the Great American Insurance Co., of which Street was vice-president, was the first witness. He has told the Post-Dispatch he thought his company's contribution to the fund handled by Street was for "legal expenses."

Besides testimony by insurance executives it was decided today to recall John T. Barker, attorney for the State in the litigation who was one of the signers of the compromise agreement, and Charles M. Howell, Kansas City lawyer, who at one time prepared an intervening petition on behalf of the agents who wanted to be sure of getting their full commissions in the impounded fund. Street and A. L. McCormack, of St. Louis, who was president of the Missouri Agents Association, indicated the agents not to file the petition.

A subpoena was issued for John W. Hoffman Jr. of Kansas City, a former assistant of Attorney-General Roy McKittick.

Other insurance executives to testify today included Wilford Kurth, chairman of the board of the Home Insurance Co. and B. M. Culver, president, Continental Insurance Co.

Killing of WPA Worker on Alton Tracks at Auburn, Ill., Is Disclosed.

The mangled right arm of a man which was found on the engine tender trucks of an Alton Railroad passenger train when it arrived in St. Louis at 9:50 o'clock last night was identified today as that of Felix Beglento, Auburn (Ill.) WPA worker, who was run over and killed by the train at Auburn last night.

Early today parts of a pair of trousers, which proved to be Beglento's, were found on another Alton train arriving here. Members of the crew of the first train reported they had felt a slight jar as they went through Auburn.

OF Detroit, arrested with 20 others yesterday in an inquiry into the disappearance of $35,000 in scrap metal from the Carter Carburetor Corporation, 2840 North Spring avenue, in the last two years.

Consideration of the evidence against Glennon Loehrer, Democratic election judge in the Eighteenth precinct of the Twenty-first Ward charged with making a false certificate and return last Nov. 8, was begun this afternoon by a jury in Circuit Judge Charles B. Williams' court.

Testifying in his own behalf yesterday, Loehrer, who lives at 3611 Paris avenue, contended that if there was any "inaccuracy" in the vote count, he did not know of it. As reported by the judges in the polling place at 4114 Natural Bridge avenue, there were 223 straight Democratic ballots, 83 straight Republican ballots and 56 split tickets. A count by the grand jury showed 190 Democratic, 99 Republican and 56 split.

Harry H. Sanders, 3811 Fair avenue, a Republican watcher at the precinct, who was the State's principal witness, told the jury he demonstrated because of the haste with which the straight Democratic and Republican ballots were separated and counted by judges and clerks. He telephoned his protest to the office of the Board of Election Commissioners, demanding that a more careful count be made.

Frank A. Reader, the other Democratic judge, who was acquitted of the same charge last week, repeated the testimony he gave at his own trial. He said he was called to the telephone as the result of Sanders' call to the Election Board office and was told to consult with the other judges about recounting the straight party ballots. The four judges, he said, agreed not to make a recount and to proceed with the tallying of split ballots.

Questioned about Sanders' statement that judges and clerks had signed forms for making returns several hours before the polls closed, Loehrer admitted this was done. The purpose, he said, was to facilitate the work since each election official was required to sign about 15 forms.

BRITAIN AGAIN READY TO EXPAND NAVY, AIR FORCE

Proposal Under Review,
Chamberlain Says —
Emergency Cabinet Meeting
Maps New Program.

LONDON, March 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain intimated to the House of Commons today that Britain's navy and air force would be expanded.

Yesterday he announced a doubling of the territorial army, corresponding to the United States' National Guard, to 340,000 men.

He was asked today by Lieutenant-Commander R. T. H. Fletcher, member of the Labor opposition, if there also would be an expansion of the navy and air force.

Chamberlain replied that the question was under review and added: "A statement will be made from time to time as conclusions are reached."

Emergency Cabinet Meeting.

Chamberlain spoke after presiding at an emergency Cabinet meeting which gave urgent consideration to steps Britain might take in the event of a new European emergency and to plans for training and equipping 210,000 recruits for the unprecedented peacetime expansion of her army.

Asked if he had "finally" ruled out conscription, Chamberlain answered amid laughter: "Nothing is final in this world."

Asked by Geoffrey L. Mander, opposition liberal, if he would propose that the British Empire and friendly states "withhold" from Germany materials essential to rearmament, the Prime Minister merely replied, "No."

Chamberlain announced there would be a foreign affairs debate next Monday.

He was said to have decided to call the special Cabinet session after conferring last night on latest European developments, particularly Germany's press campaign against Poland, with King George who was his guest at a dinner at No. 10 Downing street.

Chamberlain canceled a speech he had expected to make to a Conservative party council, so he might attend the Cabinet session.

Privy Council Meeting.

The King held a meeting of the Privy Council at Buckingham Palace, War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha was one of the members attending. It was believed the King gave formal assent to the Government's plans, announced yesterday, to expand the territorial army.

Hore-Belisha was notified that next Tuesday in Commons he would be asked by Geoffrey L. Mander, opposition liberal, whether he would arrange for General Viscount Gort, Chief of the Army General Staff, to visit Warsaw and Moscow. Gort is now in Paris conducting staff talks discussing military cooperation plans. Britain is trying to gain adherence of Poland and Soviet Russia to a bloc against German expansion.

Four-Power Pact Weighed.

The Cabinet weighed the British proposal of a four-power anti-aggression declaration in the light of a forthcoming visit to London by the Polish Foreign Minister, Col. Joseph Beck, and French Premier Daladier's speech last night in which he reasserted France's determination to cede neither land nor rights in its dispute with Italy.

The declaration was proposed to include France, Soviet Russia, Britain and Poland, but Poland has balked at the idea and has been cautioned by Germany not to listen to "foreign sirens."

The Cabinet also considered plans for training and equipping 210,000 recruits for an unprecedented peacetime expansion of Britain's citizen army.

It was estimated that $50,000,000 ($250,000,000) would be needed to equip and supply the new recruits and establish training camps for them.

When the expansion is complete Britain will have 38 divisions ready for any war involving it on the continent, instead of the 19 which the War Office previously had announced would be sent in such a case.

The territorial force, when expanded, plus the regular army, will give Britain 793,000 trained soldiers, the War Office estimated.

The increase was announced in the House of Commons yesterday

GABLE AND LOMBARD WED IN KINGMAN, ARIZ.

Movie Stars Return to Hollywood After Ceremony, Kept Secret From Friends.

KINGMAN, Ariz., March 30 (AP).—Clark Gable and Carole Lombard, movie stars, were married here late yesterday by the Rev. Kenneth M. Engle of the first Methodist Episcopal church.

The pair walked into the marriage license bureau about an hour before the ceremony and so started the clerk, Miss Viola Olsen, she could hardly speak.

"I recognized Mr. Gable at once," she said later, "but I certainly was surprised to see them."

Gable drove his automobile from Hollywood, and he and Lombard did not inform their friends of their marriage plans.

Miss Lombard wore a gray flannel ensemble, Gable a blue suit.

Howard Cate, principal of Kingman High School, and Mrs. Engle, the minister's wife, were the only witnesses to the ceremony.

It was Gable's third marriage and Miss Lombard's second. She married William Powell, actor, in 1931, and divorced him in 1933.

Gable's second wife obtained a divorce at Las Vegas, Nev., March 7 after establishing a six-week residence. Gable had made a $286,000 property settlement with the second Mrs. Gable, the former Maria Langham.

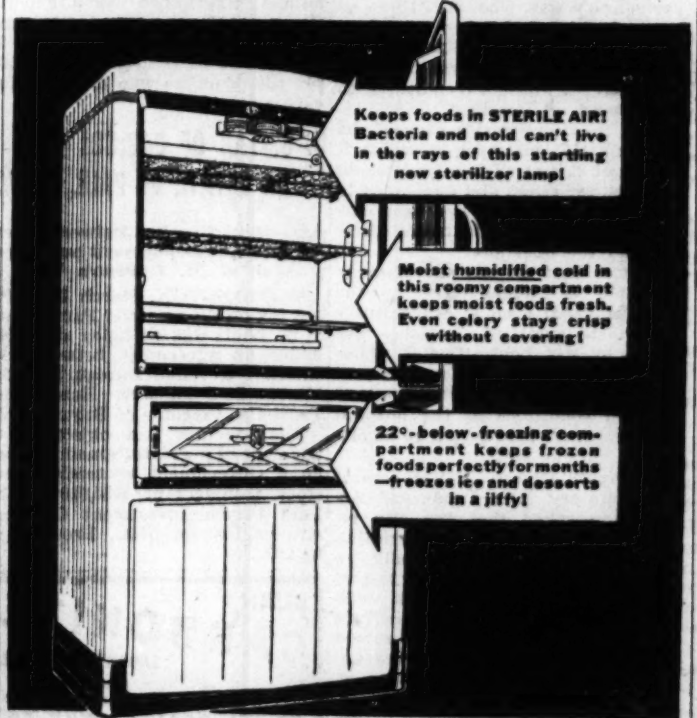

Gable's true name is William C. Gable and Miss Lombard's was Jane Peters, but her present name has been legalized. He is 38 years old and she is 31.

They met in 1932 when they appeared together in the film "No Man of Her Own," and then met again at a 1933 party after she divorced Powell.

Miss Lombard calls Gable "moose" or "pappy." He calls her "the madam."

Gable and his second wife, Maria, separated in 1935. Late in that year, a friend arranged a party at which the pair was to sit at her table. When Clark saw he was seated opposite his estranged wife he refused to take his place and instead spent the evening at the bar and dancing with Miss Lombard.

DYESS COLONISTS ASK GOV. BAILEY FOR AID

152 on Rural Project Charge Violation of Contract to Buy Land at Cost.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 30 (AP).—Gov. Bailey said yesterday he had received a telegram signed by 152 residents of Dyess Colony, Government-financed rural rehabilitation project in Eastern Arkansas, charging their contracts to buy land at cost had been violated.

The Governor made public the telegram which asked him to use his influence with President Roosevelt "to put an end to the intolerable conditions existing here."

The colony corporation is headed by Floyd Sharp, with whom Bailey has been at odds politically for several months.

The telegram, made public by Bailey without comment, said: "The records of this county show that this land was purchased at $250 per acre. Our contracts call for improvements, but officials now insist that we agree to pay from $75 to $100 per acre—many times the value of the land. Unless you can prevent this repudiation, we will lose four years' labor and our last chance for a home. Please help us."

PARIS, March 30 (AP).—

The French Chamber of Deputies criticized Germany tonight for "injustice and violence" in the Nazi absorption of Bohemia and Moravia, the Czech portions of vanished Czechoslovakia.

A resolution, adopted unanimously, said:

"The French Chamber, in memory of the noble and courageous protest of the Czech deputies in the Bohemian diet against the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine (by Germany in 1870) and in favor of French independence, salutes with sorrow and respect the Bohemian and Moravian people, victims of reborn imperialism, force and violence."

"It sends an expression of its faithful sympathy in their grief. The people of Bohemia and Moravia will not perish. Injustice and violence will not last."

'REICH READY TO TRADE ON WORLD'S TERMS'

Funk, Dr. Schacht's Successor
Says Need for British, French Talks Increase.

BERLIN, March 30 (AP).—

Reichsbank President Walther Funk told the bank's central committee today that establishment of "a new order" in Central Europe had increased rather than lessened the necessity of continuing interrupted trade talks with Britain and France.

Funk, who also is Minister of Economics, declared that Germany was prepared to do business with the world by its own methods.

He said the world was standing at the parting of the ways—either it must "surrender to the gold power of America or accept the new methods of young, strong, progressive nations"—meaning Germany and Italy.

"The need of the world for economic products is unlimited," he continued. "It is only a matter of finding the proper organization, understanding and co-operation. Germany never has turned away a hand offered for that purpose, and neither will it in future—less so as we become stronger."

Funk, whose rise to influence coincided with the downfall of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, declared that Germany had been conducting "promising conversations with England and France to improve international trade relations until recent political developments interrupted them."

"After the establishment of a new order in the Central European Area," Funk said, "the necessity for continuation of these talks has not diminished but rather has increased."

The Reichsbank president, turning to last week's German-Rumanian trade treaty, declared that no "silver bullets" played a part in its conclusion. On the contrary, he said, "natural economic forces and energies are being mobilized and methodically applied for a common achievement." He continued: "This is accomplished by the planned co-operation of both economies (German and Rumanian), which supplement each other ideally under state direction. Germany grants long term credits in half-finished and finished goods which in turn are counterbalanced by the work and products of the Rumanian people. . . . Our products therefore have the effect of currency in Rumania and Rumanian raw material has the effect of foreign exchange with us."

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO EXTEND SALE TAX TWO YEARS

Adopting Amendment
Questionable Legality

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

JEFFERSON CITY, March 30. A few hours after the House Representatives passed a bill yesterday to extend the life of present State 2 per cent sales law for two years from Dec. 1939, its Committee on Ways and Means last night reported a new committee substitute bill, which would rewrite part of the law and make several changes in the tax base and enforcement provisions.

In this move the House is consistent in its practice in the case of devoting considerable time various sales tax bills with adopting any definite policy on tax law.

The bill passed yesterday afternoon, sponsored by Representative John D. Taylor of Charleston, extends the expiration date of sales tax law, originally enacted an emergency measure for a limited period, to Dec. 31, 1941. Bill now goes to the Senate.

House took on an amendment designed to bring laundry, clean and dyeing service under the but validity of the amendment is questioned because it was not attached to that part of the present law defining the tax base.

The Ways and Means Committee substitute reported out last night is the second substitute tax bill brought forth by the committee. The first one, proposed drastic additional enforcement provisions, was overwhelmingly defeated by the House three weeks ago.

The new substitute is less drastic as to enforcement powers than the first one, but authorizes the State Auditor to employ the necessary assistants and attorneys to enforce the act, and gives the Auditor so of the House the enforcement powers now held by the Attorney General. Some of the definitions of merchants, persons, salesmen and others subject to the present law are broadened to minimize tax evasions. Persons purchasing automobiles would be required to show receipt for payment of the sales tax on the purchase before the State would issue a title for the automobile.

Proposed changes in the tax base would extend the definition of amusements to include pool halls and bowling alleys. Taxable use of electricity and gas, now including those made to domestic, commercial and industrial consumers, would be extended to include sales to all consumers except municipalities would be required to show receipt for payment of the sales tax on the purchase before the State would issue a title for the automobile.

Water sales, now subject to tax, would be exempted. Purchases of supplies by cities, towns and villages also would be exempted.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO EXTEND SALES TAX TWO YEARS

Votes to Make Act Expire Dec. 31, 1941, After Adopting Amendment of Questionable Legality.

FRED H. BROWN.

FRED H. BROWN NAMED COMPTROLLER GENERAL

Roosevelt Nominates Ex-Senator From New Hampshire for 15-Year Term.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).

President Roosevelt today nominated former Senator Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire to fill the long-vacant post of Comptroller-General of the United States. Brown's term will be 15 years; his salary $10,000 a year.

Brown, who was New Hampshire's Governor from 1923 to 1925, was defeated last November after a single term in the Senate.

The Comptroller-Generalship was vacated in 1936 by John R. McCarl. Since then Richard N. Elliott has been Acting Comptroller-General. Brown, a native of Ossipee, N. H., is a graduate of Dartmouth University and of Boston University Law School. He was United States District Attorney at Concord 1914-22, in the years first preceding his term as Governor. He will be 60 years old next month.

Brown was known in the Senate as a consistent supporter of Roosevelt.

He is a retired major-league baseball player. First a combination pitcher and catcher with a minor-league club in Providence, R. I., Brown later caught for the Boston National League team.

Brown's first political job was Mayor of Somersworth. From there he went to the United States attorneyship. After retiring as Governor, he served several years on the New Hampshire Public Service Commission.

His defeat of the veteran Republican, George H. Moses, made him New Hampshire's first Democratic Senator since the days when Senators were chosen by state legislatures. His successor in the Senate is Charles W. Tobey, a Republican. Brown's principal interest while he was in the Senate was in the development of public power projects.

VETO THREAT BLOCKS INCREASE IN TARIFFS

Senators Reject Rise in Levy on Fats and Oils After President's Letter.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—The Senate Finance Committee decided against increasing the tax on imported vegetable oils and fats today, after hearing from President Roosevelt that such an increase "would destroy or at the very least seriously impair" the trade agreements program.

Roosevelt, in a letter to Chairman Harrison of Mississippi, said he considered the issue so grave it was his clear duty to veto any bill which carried the increases as a rider.

"The trade agreements program is an essential part of our general program for economic recovery in this country," he said, after expressing concern that retaliatory measures other countries might take against what he called "tariffs of the embargo variety."

Part of Foreign Policy. Reciprocal trade is also, he said, "particularly at this critical stage of world affairs, a vital part of our foreign policy." He concluded: "Attacks on the trade agreements program such as that represented by this new drive for embargo tariffs and fats and oils are, therefore, attacks on our efforts to attain full prosperity at home and to promote economic disarmament and peaceful relations throughout the world."

The proposal before the committee was to increase the tax from 3 to 5 cents a pound. Sponsored by Senator Connally of Texas for the benefit of Southern cotton oil producers, it was defeated by a committee vote of 12 to 6.

Senator Bailey (Dem.), North Carolina, then proposed to increase taxes on vegetable and fish oils. That lost, 11 to 7.

To Continue Fight. Connally said later he would continue to fight on the Senate floor for the increase. He had no word on his proposal that the boosts would not have taken effect during the life of existing treaties.

Noting this, the President said: "Let no one be lulled into thinking that this modification of the amendments would remove the basic conflict between them and the trade agreements program. The real issue would remain exactly the same."

"All this modification means is that we would be convicted of violating outright four of our international agreements; we would still inevitably lose a substantial part of the benefits of these important agreements and would run the grave risk of losing all of them."

The President warned that adoption of the amendments "would sooner or later" expose a huge volume of trade to the danger of retaliatory trade restrictions in the countries adversely affected."

Movie Union Suit to Oust Nick Submitted to Judge

Representative Edward M. (Putty Nose) Brady were indicted on charges of extortion in connection with the 1938 fund, and Weston was indicted on a similar charge after investigation of the 1937 payment.

Says Weston Demanded $10,000. Questioned about the 1937 wage contract, Thimmig, who was a member of the theater owners' wage committee, said Nick and Weston demanded an increase of $30 a week for each union operator in the smaller theaters and $15 a week for each operator in the major houses. There are two operators in each projection booth.

"Did you have any conferences on the demand with Mr. Weston?" Raymond A. Freed, one of the attorneys for the 19 original plaintiffs, asked the witness.

"There were a good many conferences, and I told Weston the small theaters could not stand the increase," Thimmig replied.

"I propositioned some way to avoid the increase, but Weston wouldn't pay any attention. Finally Weston said $10,000 would avert the wage increase. I talked to Kaimann, who said $10,000 was out of reason, that $10,000 was all that had been paid by all the theaters to prevent a wage increase in 1938. Then I propositioned for $7500, but we could only raise $6500, and that was accepted."

Clarence Kaimann, a North St. Louis theater owner, was a member of the owners' wage committee in 1936 and 1937. Kaimann, an earlier witness at the hearing, testified to the $10,000 payment in 1936, which he said he and Louis Landau, another theater owner, made to Brady at the Jefferson-Gravois Bank.

There was no wage increase for movie operators after the payment was made.

"Contract Signed, $6500 Paid." Thimmig said he met Weston, Kaimann and Fred Wehrenberg, president of the theater owners' association, at the Jefferson-Gravois Bank, in South St. Louis, on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving in 1937.

Weston had a wage agreement, which Nick had signed. Wehrenberg signed it after asking Kaimann and me to look it over. Wehrenberg and Kaimann left the room and I paid the $6500 to Mr. Weston."

The wages agreed on were "about the same as the previous year," Thimmig testified.

Myers, operator at the Wellston Theater and a member of the union since 1910, following Thimmig on the stand and described conditions in Local 143, "before and after Nick."

"Before Nick took charge in 1935 I usually had a free part in the discussions of the local," Myers explained. "Nick conducted a meeting in 1935 and the way he did it left an impression. Nick let us know we were to ratify anything he wanted done. He used profanity and told us that, if crossed, he would tear up our cards. After that I seldom discussed anything. We just rubber-stamped Nick at his 'railroad' meetings."

Car Barred Discussion of Union. The witness questioned Nick as saying one member of the local had been "cranky enough to complain to the international office about the affairs of the local."

"Nick said there was to be no discussion of the union outside, there was to be no outside congregating of members and that if he saw a group of us anywhere he would act accordingly," Myers testified.

Previous to the Nick regime the operators and their families had "some high old times together," on Mosenheim Island, Myers related.

"We had a motorboat, shot clay pigeons, and went hunting together," he related. After Nick's edict against outside meetings the group broke up, Myers said. "I never understood why we had to have a couple of muscle men come into our affairs; it just made a hermit of me," he added.

The witness described a midnight meeting called by Weston to obtain a vote of confidence for Nick after the Post-Dispatch began its investigation of the union. He quoted Weston as saying, "The exhibitors are more frightened of Nick than our operators are." Weston told the meeting, Myers testified, "Your local probably would have been given back to you long ago, but as I look around here, where could I find men for officers? Certainly not here."

Weston's remarks aroused the veteran members, several of whom offered "to stick out their chins," Myers testified. Weston called for a roll-call vote of confidence for Nick, who was at home ill of arthritis. The older members protested that the vote should be secret. Myers said, and refused to participate.

Nick's Police Record Introduced. Nick's police record, showing 20 arrests for traffic violations and peace disturbance and "suspected" of robbery, shooting, murder, larceny of interstate shipment and violation of the Harrison Drug Act, was introduced in the hearing. The records of John (Buddy) Lutz, ex-convict, and of Tony Cammarata and Joseph L. Peroutka, permit men brought into the union by Nick, also were introduced. Cammarata has been arrested seven times and Peroutka 12 times, the records show.

Seventeen additional members of Local 143 were allowed to intervene as plaintiffs yesterday, bringing the total of plaintiffs to 36. On the side of the defendants are 103 signers of an intervening petition. The plaintiffs contend that some of the 103 interveners were put into the union by Nick and never were approved by a vote of the membership.

Myers, in concluding his testi-

FRANK FARRINGTON, MINERS' EX-CHIEF, DIES

Head of U. M. W. A. in Illinois for 16 Years Succumbs at Streator.

STREATOR, Ill., March 30 (AP).—Frank Farrington, former president of District No. 12 (Illinois) of the United Mine Workers of America, died suddenly at his home today. He was 66 years old.

Farrington, who retired as president several years ago after serving 16 years, suffered a heart attack Monday and had been confined to his home since. He was found dead about 3 a. m. He previously had been in good health.

Farrington came to Streator when a small boy and later worked for many years in the mines here. He was elected a member of the board of the international union of the Mine Workers and served in that capacity for a long period.

In recognition of his work on the board, President Woodrow Wilson appointed him to a commission to study labor conditions in Europe. His wife and three children survive.

UNION ELECTRIC HIRES CUMMINGS' LAW FIRM

Ex-Attorney-General's Partner Announces Retention by St. Louis Company.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building. WASHINGTON, March 30.—The law firm of Cummings & Stanley, of which former Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings is head, announced yesterday that it had been retained by the Union Electric Co. of St. Louis, and would represent the company in "any litigation arising in Washington to which the company is a party."

The announcement was made by William Stanley, Cummings partner, who was an assistant to the Attorney-General for more than two years of the time that Cummings presided over the Department of Justice. Stanley said his firm had been retained on an annual basis.

The Union Electric Co. faces an investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission into lobbying in the Missouri Legislature and the expenditure of large sums of money for recreational purposes. The hearing has not been set. Cummings recently returned from a vacation in Florida. While he was there reports were circulated that the former Attorney-General would represent the St. Louis utility. Stanley said last week that the decision on acting for the utility would be made by Cummings himself on his return. "Thus far, according to Stanley, the firm has taken no direct part in the investigation."

Crowds in Valencia Cheer Franco's Parading Troops

People, in Gala Mood, Give Fascist Salute to Nationalists After Surrender of Republican Seaport.

By ROBERT OKIN
A Correspondent of the Associated Press

VALENCIA, March 30.—Nationalist troops paraded through cheering crowds today, after the surrender of this former Republican seaport to Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Navarrese and Galician troops marched through the Plaza Castellar beneath the city hall image of Valencia's patron saint, the Virgin of the Homeless, to join Moorish soldiers who already had formally occupied the city.

Streets were lined by dense crowds which greeted the Nationalist soldiers with Fascist cheers and salutes. Spectators filled balconies and windows, some even hanging from the walls of buildings.

Even while the troops marched a robed priest on a balcony of the Ayuntamiento—city hall—was celebrating mass for kneeling citizens. Former Republican soldiers, still wearing uniforms but decked in Nationalist colors, stood watching flower-decorated Nationalist guns roll past.

Newly arrived troops found Franco's picture pasted over slogans and pictures of former Premier Juan Negrin. Troop trucks carried almost as many shouting girls and youngsters as soldiers.

Green-coated Carabineros and Civil Guards wearing black tricorne hats held back the crowds. Two bands played for the parading troops, and when the Galicians swung past a special bagpipe band shrilled Northern airs.

Change-Over in Valencia.

Valencia changed yesterday from a gloomy city of civil war to a gala panorama of flags, religious emblems and celebrations for the Nationalist victory.

Not a shot was fired in the occupation.

Two Nationalist planes flying low over roof-tops gave the signal.

Like the opening of brightly hued flowers, red and gold flags of the Nationalist government unfolded from balconies.

Men and women behind the flags raised their hands in the Nationalist salute, shouting "Arriba Espana" and "Viva Franco."

The demonstration appeared as one long prepared and well organized, but many were caught on the streets completely by surprise.

Falangists and Requetes, Nationalist groups, opened headquarters in the Plaza Castellar. New civilian guards, bearing newly issued rifles, took over the principal posts—telephones, postoffices, city hall and military centers.

Assault guards appeared suddenly in odd patent leather, triangular hats of the Guardia, civil republican police. They started searching hotels for arms.

Sound Truck Plays Tunes.

A sound truck, one of the first pieces of Nationalist apparatus in Valencia, played Nationalist hymns while street crowds massed, holding arms in salute—trying to follow the new tunes. Some already knew them.

Several German swastika flags and one Italian flag appeared in the streets.

The International Evacuation Commission of French, English, Dutch and Poles and one American, Frederick Thompson of San Francisco, was here during the change from a Republican to a Nationalist city. The members left later for Alicante. There was only one ship in the harbor, the Atlantic Guide of London, and it refused to take passengers.

Late at night there was enough light in the streets to read a newspaper, for the first time since the war began.

One newspaper, El Pueblo, appeared with its entire three-line banner headline censored out. "No one need be disconcerted," said a remaining headline.

EX-WIFE OF GEORGE M. COHAN

DIVORCED FROM BRITISH FLYER

Ethel Levey, Musical Comedy Star, Accused Claude Grahame-White of Misconduct.

LONDON, March 30 (AP).—Ethel Levey, San Francisco-born musical comedy star and former wife of George M. Cohan, was granted a divorce today from Claude Grahame-White, pioneer British airman.

Miss Levey's charge named a former chorus girl, whom Grahame-White was said to have met in Palm Beach, Fla. in 1934. He admitted the charge.

From 1901 to 1907 Miss Levey appeared in all productions by George M. Cohan. Her marriage to Cohan was dissolved in 1907.

In December, 1916, she married Grahame-White, whose first wife was Dorothy Taylor, daughter of Bertrand Le Roy Taylor of New York.

Grahame-White, who is 59 years old, was the first Englishman to receive a certificate of proficiency as an aviator.

THREE-TIME CONVICT HELD, CONFESSES TO 11 BURGLARIES

Ralph Holden, Negro, Arrested When He Tries to Sell Part of Loot in Pawnshop.

Ralph Holden, Negro, who has served three sentences in the Missouri penitentiary for burglary, admitted to police last night that he had robbed 11 homes in St. Louis and St. Louis County in the last two months.

Holden was arrested in a pawn shop in the 3900 block of Easton avenue, when an employee set off the holdup alarm after the Negro had attempted to sell some jewelry.

Detectives had traced some of the stolen articles to the place and had asked the owner to use the alarm if Holden appeared there again.

STEEL BEADS, SHOT ALONG WIRE, OPEN WOMAN'S THROAT

Doctor Enables Patient Who Could Not Swallow to Eat Steak Dinner.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 30 (AP).—When she was 2 years old Mrs. Agnes Gregory swallowed some lye and burned her throat. As the burns healed, scar tissue formed, gradually closing the passage to her stomach. The last few years she could swallow only liquids and soft foods, and finally her throat became so constricted she could not swallow liquids.

Then a staff physician at General Hospital had an idea, and last night Mrs. Gregory—now 32—ate a steak dinner.

This is what the doctor did: He got a handful of steel beads, ranging in size from a grain of wheat to a hickory nut.

Then he gave Mrs. Gregory one end of a silk string.

"I want you to try to swallow this," he told her.

Mrs. Gregory did. The string acted as a guide for a fine steel wire which the doctor pushed down to her stomach.

Then the doctor slid a small bead down her throat, then another and another. They stopped on a tiny knot on the end of the wire. When several beads had gone down the wire, he pulled them up.

Over a period of 10 days he worked up to the larger-size beads. "Why," Mrs. Gregory said today, "I can swallow better now than I have ever been able to."

The doctor asked that his name be kept secret.

BRINKLEY LOSES IN SUING FISHBEIN ON LIBEL CHARGE

Jury Decides Article Calling Goat Gland Specialist, Who Sought $250,000, a Quack Was Fair.

DEL RIO, Tex., March 30 (AP).—Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, was victorious yesterday in the $250,000 libel suit filed against him by Dr. John R. Brinkley, who advertises his surgery over a Mexican radio station.

A jury of eight West Texas ranchmen and business men reached a verdict in favor of Dr. Fishbein after deliberating five hours.

William Morris Jr., of San Antonio, attorney for Dr. Brinkley, said the jury's verdict would be appealed to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

Dr. Fishbein, who wrote an article published in the Magazine Hygiene calling Dr. Brinkley a quack and a charlatan, contended in his defense of the suit that what he had written was the truth and was a reasonably fair and impartial criticism of Dr. Brinkley and his professional practice.

Dr. Brinkley's attorneys contended Dr. Fishbein's article was "malicious, unjustified, unfair and unwarranted." They sought to prove Dr. Brinkley had made an important surgical discovery and that his goat gland operations had benefited his patients.

In delivering his charge to the jury, United States District Judge McMillan gave the jurors the definition of the word quack and told them the defense issues were truth and privilege under Texas libel laws. He left it to the jury to determine whether Dr. Fishbein's article was a reasonably fair comment and criticism.

Victory for Medical Association's Standards, Fishbein Says.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 30 (AP).—Dr. Morris Fishbein, informed here of the decision in the Brinkley case at Del Rio, Tex., said "the victory is not mine but instead a great victory for the standards of education and conduct established by the American Medical Association."

Suits for $677,500 Against Brinkley Based on Operations.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 30 (AP).—Chancellor Frank H. Dodge took under advisement yesterday the question of his court's jurisdiction in two actions seeking total damages of $677,500 against Dr. John R. Brinkley, goat gland specialist, and associates, based on operations performed at Brinkley hospitals in Little Rock and Del Rio, Tex.

One suit for $602,500, was filed by James J. Williamson of Illinois and his wife, Jane, and named as a co-defendant Dr. J. H. Davis. It alleged an operation performed on Williamson resulted in sterilization.

The second suit, for $75,000, was filed by Eleanor Harris Billingslea and Mary Harris Young, sisters, of Franklin, Ky. It charged that their father Alpha Harris, 73, was not given proper treatment after an operation here early in 1938, and that he died on April 10, 1938. In this action, Dr. Dwight Osborne was named as a co-defendant.

FIVE SHIPWRECKED MEN TAKEN OFF ALASKAN ISLAND

Coast Guardsmen Find Them Weak From Hunger After Mortar-ship Breaks Up.

SEATTLE, March 30 (AP).—Coast guardsmen went through gale and pounding seas yesterday to take five nearly starved men from a rockbound Alaskan island to the safety of the Cutter Morris.

The men were given up for dead 18 days ago. Their boat, the motorship Swan, was last seen in February on a trip along Kodiak Island, Alaska. The Coast Guard said the Swan broke up.

A surf boat that landed Tuesday on Tugidak Island with food supplies turned over in the surf and all equipment was lost, but the boat was saved. Yesterday the Coast Guardsmen set out with the rescued men and reached the Morris. The five men were: Mike Kerr, Hans Gedrum, Capt. Alf Tongramsen, all of Kodiak, Alaska; Robert Craig, Denver, and Dan Taylor, Seattle.

A sixth member of the Swan's crew, Jack McCord, succeeded in reaching Attik, on Kodiak Island, last Saturday, to get help. He rowed all the way.

CLIPPER TAKES 38 TO BERMUDA IN FOUR HOURS 38 MINUTES

Flying Boat Makes 167 Miles an Hour on Its Maiden Commercial Trip.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 29 (AP).—Pan American Airways' Clipper No. 20 took 38 passengers and a crew of 15 to Bermuda yesterday in four hours and 38 minutes on its maiden commercial flight from New York.

Carrying only half of its capacity load of 74 passengers, the flying boat covered the 779 miles at 167 miles an hour.

The plane, a sister ship of the Yankee Clipper which is now on its way en route to Europe on a survey flight, is replacing the Bermuda Clipper in the Bermuda service.

The monthly report of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, made public today, notes "moderately recessionary trends" during February and early March in commerce and industry of the Eighth (St.
Louis) Reserve District.
February, with 23 business days, counting out Sundays and Washington's birthday, fell behind the previous month, January, with 26 business days, in several comparative tables. It was slightly ahead of February, 1938, in most classifications, but showed a falling off of 1.4 per cent in dollar volume of department store sales.

Building and construction figures showed substantial increases over February, 1938, and smaller increases over January, 1939. A decline from the high levels of the latter months of 1938 was noted.
Indications are, the report stated, that the demand for building materials will continue well into the summer.

Iron and Steel Activities.
Iron and steel plants' activities were well sustained, but a reduction in incoming business, and a decline in unfilled orders, were noted. At the middle of March, ingot production was at 60 per cent of capacity, the best since October, 1937.

February production at the bi-luminous mines of this area declined in about the usual seasonal proportion from the January level, but was 24.9 per cent above the
and zinc production for the month fell below the comparable 1938 figure. The steady increase in the output of crude oil in the fields of this district, noted throughout 1938, was continued during January and February.

Wholesale and retail sales of merchandise during February and the first two weeks of March were spotty, according to the report. Retail automobile sales were about 15 per cent greater than in the same month of 1938.

Wholesale and jobbing sales of all kinds were 2.6 per cent above February, 1938. The sum for the first two months of the year was approximately 8.5 per cent greater than the comparable 1938 figure.

Commercial failures in February, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet, numbered 37, involving liabilities of $615,000, a larger figure than the one for January. There were 55 insolvencies in February, 1938, but with liabilities of $524,000.

A small contrasasonal decline in freight traffic during February and the first days of March was reported by the railroads. The volume, however, was considerably higher than a year ago.

The St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association interchanged 74,568 loads in February, as against 80, 046 loads in January, and 69,249 loads in February, 1938. Passenger traffic on the reporting lines declined 2 per cent in the number of passengers carried and 4 per cent in revenue as compared with February, 1938.

Estimated tonnage of the Federal Barge Line between St. Louis and New Orleans was 125,000 tons in February, as against 133,449 tons in January, and 155,487 tons in February, 1938. For the first two months of 1939 the tonnage was 308,449, compared with 331,968 a year ago.

Seasonal Farm Work.
Weather conditions, the report stated, were less favorable for farming than earlier in the season. Excessive rains and more or less serious floods have retarded plowing for the spring crops. On the whole, however, farm work is up to, or slightly in advance of, the usual seasonal schedule. Farm prices changed very little this February and March, and are still measurably below those prevailing during the same period in recent years.

FEDERAL PRISON BARS PASTOR Warden Says Minister Gave Convicts News of Al Capone.
SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 30
(AP).—For telling of Al Capone's response to an appeal for conversion, the Rev. Silas A. Thwaites, who preached at the Terminal Island Federal Prison here March 19, was barred from the prison pulpit yesterday by E. J. Lloyd, the Warden.
In a communication to the Harbor Region Ministerial Committee, the Warden said: "It will be appreciated if you will inform ministers holding religious services in this institution that they should give out no information regarding inmates," he wrote. The minister said last week Capone was the first of 16 men to rise to his feet when he asked the convicts if any of them felt the need of a Saviour.

COTTON AID BILL REPORTED OUT; NO EXPORT SUBSIDY

Senate Committee Ignores President's Idea, Votes to Permit Farmers to Reclaim Loan Stocks.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—
Ignoring President Roosevelt's suggestion for a cotton export subsidy program, the Senate Agriculture Committee approved today a bill which would permit farmers to reclaim up to $3,000,000 bales of cotton now held as collateral for Government loans.

At the same time the committee sent on to the Senate a cost-of-production farm bill sponsored by Senator Frazier (Rep.), Indiana, and 18 other Senators. It would substitute Government price-fixing on a long list of farm commodities for the present program of crop and marketing controls.

Senator Bankhead of Alabama, author of the cotton proposal, said it involved "subsidizing the American producer instead of the foreign buyer." Under it, he explained, cotton growers could reclaim stocks by paying 3 cents a pound and substitute the loan cotton for new crops under their production allocations.

The Government now has more than 9 cents a pound invested in more than 11,000,000 bales of loan cotton. By selling it back to growers at 3 cents, the loan agency would lose about $30 a bale, or more.

"This would cost only a little more than the export subsidy plan," Bankhead said.

He said growers would realize a profit on the difference between the market price, now about 8 cents a pound, and the 3 cents they paid for the cotton.

Senators on the Agriculture Committee said the cost-of-production bill was reported out even though most members of the committee would oppose it in the Senate. The bill is supported by a group of representatives of corn and wheat states.

Meanwhile, Senator Russell (Dem.), Georgia, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which will handle the agriculture bill, said chances were very good for approval of the $250,000,000 parity fund, designed to increase farm purchasing power to the pre-war level.

German Official Paper Criticizes
U. S. Cotton Subsidy Plan.

BERLIN, March 30 (AP).—President Roosevelt's proposal for an export subsidy in an effort to decrease the American cotton surplus was criticized today by the Foreign Office publication, Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz.

The paper also observed that the 25 per cent increase in tariff on German imports to the United States, effective April 1, was "not economic, but obviously other reasons exist for the sake of which they (the United States) want to impose punitive duties."

Of the cotton plan now before the Senate Agricultural Committee, the publication declared that "the United States has openly decided in favor of the same measures for which Germany was grossly blamed, especially by Washington."

NEW MOTION PICTURE PROGRAMS OF THE WEEK

Deanna Durbin's 'Three Smart Girls Grow Up' to Ambassador, Beery as Policeman at Loew's

John Garfield, Robert Montgomery in Other Features—"March of Time" Set For Missouri.

DEANNA DUBBIN, Wallace Beery, John Garfield, Robert Montgomery and Bob Burns are headlining players of the week at the first-run picture theaters, which still have a variety of opening days. The new Fox program has been on since yesterday, the St. Louis changes today, Loew's and the Ambassador will offer new double bills tomorrow and the Missouri will change its continued run features Saturday.

"Three Smart Girls Grow Up," at the Ambassador tomorrow, is Deanna Durbin's fifth feature picture but a sequel to her first, "Three Smart Girls." In the cast again are Charles Winniger, Ernest Cassart, Nella Walker and Nan Grey, although Barbara Read, one of the original "Three Smart Girls," has been succeeded by Helen Parrish. The main plot situation is that in which Miss Durbin tries to straighten out the romantic affairs of her sisters and becomes involved herself. William Lundigan and Robert Cummings are the two principal young men in the film.

Miss Durbin sings four selections, "Invitation to the Dance," "The Rose of Summer," "La Capinera (The Wren)" by Sir Julius Benedict, and "Because," by Edward Tschernacher and Guy d'Hardelot.

The Ambassador's second feature will be "The Family Next Door," comedy of domestic life in which Hugh Herbert and Ruth Donnelly are the parents of Joy Hodges.

John Garfield, Robert Montgomery and Eddie Quillan.

Loew's "Sergeant Madden" and "Fast and Loose."

WALLACE BEERY has the role of an Irish policeman in "Sergeant Madden," new Loew's feature. Alan Curtis is his bright but reckless son who turns to a criminal career. Tom Brown is an adopted son and Laraine Johnson an Irish girl who marries Curtis. In the cast are Fay Holden, Marc Lawrence, David Gorrey, Marion Martin and Donald Haines. Josef von Sternberg directed.

In "Fast and Loose," accompanying feature, Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell are assigned to roles that were Melvyn Douglas and Florence Rice's in "Fast Company" last summer. Montgomery is Joel Sloane, the rare book expert who unravels mysteries as a sideline and Miss Russell is his wife and secretary. Theft of a Shakespeare manuscript and several murders are some of the happenings. Reginald Owen, Etienne Girardot, Jo Ann Sayers, Ralph Morgan, Alan Dinchard and Joan Marsh are featured players.

St. Louis—"Blackwell's Island" and "The Saint Strikes Back."

JOHN GARFIELD, rising young dramatic star of the movies, has the leading role in the new St. Louis feature, "Blackwell's Island," based on the cleanup of New York's city jail in 1934, when Wallace Island, formerly known as Blackwell's Island, housed all the city's short-term prisoners.

As a newspaper reporter, he aids in sending a gang czar to the island, learns of conditions there and has himself sentenced in order to gather further information. Supporting players are Rosemary Lane, Dick Purcell, Victor Jory and Stanley Fields.

"The Saint Strikes Back," second St. Louis feature, is the second in a series of films based on exploits of the character created by Leslie Charteris. George Sanders succeeds Louis Hayward as Simon Templar, the half-criminal detective who conducts his own private campaigns against crime. In this case he aids Wendy Barrie clear the name of her deceased father, charged with robbery. In the cast are Jonathan Hale, Jerome Cowan, Neil Hamilton and Barry Fitzgerald.

What the Missouri's continued run features will be are not announced although the recent program at the Fox—"Midnight"—and "Sudden Money"—and the present one at the Ambassador—"Cafe Society" and "Let Us Live"—will be available. To be shown on the same program will be a new March of Time issue, "Background for War," devoted to the prospect of conflict in the Mediterranean area, to Mussolini's designs on Tunisia and the French interest in retaining it.

Menjou, Stanwyck in "Golden Boy." Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 30.—Adolphe Menjou is the second prominent player to join the cast now being assembled by Columbia for the picturization of Clifford Odets' successful Broadway stage play, "Golden Boy." He will take the role of Tom Moody, prize fight manager. While the search for a player to fill the leading role of "Golden Boy" is nearing its end, preparations are being made by the studio to start production, early next month. Barbara Stanwyck was signed last week to play the feminine lead.

STUDIOS' MASK LIBRARY

SHOWS PLAYERS AT ALL AGES

Makeup Expert Develops Improved System for Putting Marks of Time on Stars.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 30.—This town is the one place in the world where it is possible to see oneself as he will look 20 years from now.

This is because of a "mask library" which Jack Dawn has equipped at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. His nucleus is the half-criminal detective who conducts his own private campaigns against crime. In this case he aids Wendy Barrie clear the name of her deceased father, charged with robbery. In the cast are Jonathan Hale, Jerome Cowan, Neil Hamilton and Barry Fitzgerald.

studio and he is rapidly adding every free-lance player possible.

Dawn, head of the make-up department, has made life masks of the players and aged each, at five-year intervals, up to 20 years.

The system has proved an invaluable time-saver for instances where players must age during the course of a film. Instead of the actor sitting long hours for experiments, the masks are consulted and make-ups created on them if age changes are needed.

The "library" also proves an aid in finding persons best fitted to play real-life or historic personalities since the measurements and facial structures of actors can be compared with characters needed.

GREVE AGAIN CALLS MASON RUBBER STAMP

G. O. P. Nominee Assails Head of Aldermen—Mentions Straw-Man Deals.

Repeating his charge that William L. Mason, Democratic nominee for re-election as president of the Board of Aldermen, is a "rubber stamp" for Mayor Dickmann, Clifford Greve, Republican nominee, in a speech last night before the Twelfth Ward Republican Club, called on Mason to state his position on campaign issues.

Greve asserted that the only statement Mason has made was on the day he announced his candidacy, when he said he "would follow without reservation the lead of Mayor Dickmann." Mason also recited the history of the Board of Aldermen and likened its position to that of a residuary legatee or devisee under a will, Greve said.

"Let's see what these things mean," Greve continued. "In 1935 when Mr. Mason first ran he introduced the word 'rubber stamp' to local affairs by saying that he would not be a rubber stamp for the Mayor."

Mentions Straw-Man Deals. "Four years went by, during which the Dickmann Administration defeated competent Circuit Judges, gave away $500,000 of the people's money to the Laclede Gas Co., abused public confidence with the notorious strawman deals and in general conducted itself in a wasteful and extravagant manner."

The speaker demanded that Mason explain what he meant by comparing the board to a legatee under a will. "There have been too many legatees in our public life today—let's get back to Grover Cleveland and his public office is a public trust doctrine," he said.

"Where are you, Mr. Mason?" he asked. "Where are you on getting back the Laclede overcharge? Where are you on electing Aldermen by wards? Where are you on the $150,000 tribute levied each year on municipal employees by the City Hall machine? The election is Tuesday. The people want to know."

E. E. Evers Speaks. E. E. Evers, Republican nominee for Alderman from the Twenty-second Ward, told the audience that the administration "rode into office on promises to reduce the cost of government and balance the municipal budget," but instead it has actually increased the cost of government.

"The people of St. Louis are tax-conscious," he went on. "Everywhere I go the cry is 'Taxes are too high!' You know and I know that taxation has become so burdensome as to take the profits out of business, the inspiration out of initiative, the hope out of hope."

"I believe that economies can be made. We Republicans can and will make them. Such retrenchments will, it is true, affect some of our citizens, but the failure to make them will affect all of our citizens. The very stability of our municipal government is concerned, and when that is concerned, the benefits of some must be subordinated to the needs of all."

GRAND JURY LOOKING INTO TRUCK BOMBING TAKES RECESS

No Indictments Voted; Third Person Detained but No Charges Are Filed.

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill., March 30 (AP).—The Hardin County grand jury, which had been investigating the fatal bombing of Earl Austin, 46-year-old NYA superintendent, adjourned yesterday until April 18 without returning any indictments. State's Attorney Clarence E. Soward said he would present new evidence to the jury when it reconvened. Authorities will continue their investigation of the truck explosion at Cave in Rock March 20 which killed Austin and maimed Miss Lacey McDowell, 22.

A third person, Ira Scott, 24, a farmhand, was detained yesterday. No charges were filed against him. Scott denied any connection with the killing.

WAGE-HOUR REVISION HEARING TOMORROW

House Committee to Take Up Changes to Relieve 'Hardship Cases.'

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—Chairman Norton (Dem.), New Jersey, said today the House Labor Committee had decided to begin consideration tomorrow of proposed sweeping changes in the wage-hour law designed to relieve "hardship cases."

The committee probably can complete the job next week, Mrs. Norton told reporters.

Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour Administrator, said, meanwhile, that the 8000 complaints of violations of the law had resulted in only four criminal cases. Three of the defendants have pleaded guilty.

He emphasized that changes in the wage-hour law which he requested yesterday represented the work of conferences between himself and members of Congress. They included these changes:

Eliminate from the 44-hour week requirement those workers making $200 or more a month.

Specify hours' exemptions for agricultural industries more particularly and base them on seasonality and perishability of the products processed.

Give Andrews' interpretations of the law weight in court so that an employer who abides by them may not be penalized if the order is overruled by the court.

Exempt telephone switchboard operators in small exchanges.

Andrews said he thought many states would enact wage-hour legislation when the newness wears off the idea. Already five states have passed laws specifically authorizing their labor departments to co-operate with the Federal wage-hour division on enforcement.

The job of law enforcement is one of Andrews' biggest worries. His assistants say at least 600 inspectors are needed to make routine calls on industrial plants. He has 50.

GAG RULE CHARGED AS RELIEF DEBATE OPENS IN HOUSE

Republicans Protest at Arrangement Barring Changes Except in Amount of Appropriation

PROPOSAL TO ADD $100,000,000 FOR WPA

Democratic Leaders Fight for $150,000,000 President Asked For, Economy Bloc Opposes.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—Amid angry Republican protests against "arrogant gag rule," the House began debate today on the proposal to give the WPA an additional $100,000,000 to finance relief until June 30.

Minority Leader Martin (Rep.), Massachusetts, denounced the parliamentary maneuvers under which the measure was brought to the floor. These would effect an arrangement which would prohibit any changes except in the amount of the appropriation and efforts began immediately to prevent ratification of the procedure.

On the main issue, Representative Sabath (Dem.), Illinois, led a heated discussion with a warning that unless the funds were voted, 400,000 persons on relief faced early dismissal from WPA rolls.

First Sought $150,000,000. Last week Sabath headed a futile movement among members from city districts to win support from farm district members for a $150,000,000 WPA fund.

As Opponents See It. The farm bloc was bitter over Tuesday's defeat of a $250,000,000 fund for parity payments. Representative Woodrum (Dem.), Virginia, economy leader, said its strength, together with economy votes and the Republican opposition, would be sufficient to sustain the committee figure.

Representative Cannon of Missouri, ranking Democratic member of the Appropriations Committee, said an effort would be made to increase the committee figure because "a majority of the Democrats on the committee wanted the $150,000,000."

In event the House rejects to grant the larger sum, Cannon predicted the Senate would approve both it and the parity payment money and that the House finally would agree.

A 400,000 cut in the WPA rolls has been ordered for next week. WPA officials insisted it would be carried out unless additional funds were forthcoming.

Economy Bloc Plea. The House Appropriations Committee contended that the reduction of $50,000,000 in funds to operate the WPA until July 1 should make no difference in the rolls. It declared the WPA had $69,047,425 available from which to make up that loss.

The WPA, the committee majority argued, would save $7,015,000 between March and July as a result of having dropped 30,000 aliens; it would save $16,282,425 by cutting off this month at least $8,975 recipients not in actual need, and it had on hand unexpended balances of $45,750,000.

The committee also called on the WPA to economize on such items as travel and subsistence expenses of $500,000 monthly and a monthly outlay of $150,000 for communications. It traced the rise of relief costs from $1,270,235,065 in 1936 to $2,163,868,406 in the present fiscal year and declared the figures should show a downward trend rather than continuing to rise.

MAN SAYS HE GOT THREAT AFTER ILLEGAL OPERATION

Charges Officer Related to Nurse Warned He'd Arrest Him for Seeking Cash to Aid Dying Wife. John Martin, a WPA worker, 1300A Hebert street, testifying today at an inquest in the death of his wife Monday from peritonitis following an illegal operation, named a North St. Louis woman nurse as having performed the operation and said he was threatened with arrest by a policeman when he called at the nurse's home after his wife became ill.

The witness identified the policeman among spectators at the inquest. The officer later told a Post-Dispatch reporter he was an uncle of the nurse. Martin said the policeman called him a "black-maller" when he asked the nurse for money to help defray the cost of caring for his wife. The hearing was continued until tomorrow, pending investigation.

Installation Tax Bill Reported. JEFFERSON CITY, March 30.—The Senate reported favorably yesterday a bill by Senator McCormick (Dem.), St. Louis County, which would permit payment of State income taxes in quarterly installments.

CIO AUTO WORKERS PLAN CAMPAIGN IN FORD PLANT

George Addes and R. T. Frankenstein Withdraw as Candidates for President.

CLEVELAND, March 30 (AP).—Delegates to the CIO United Automobile Workers' convention planned today a campaign to organize Ford Motor Co. employees.

Nine rank and file representatives composing the organization committee dealt with the problem as others took up constitutional questions or sought solution of remaining factional difficulties. President R. J. Thomas told the delegates "If Ford stays unorganized, the union can't long keep its strength in the auto and parts plants now under contract." The committee discussed radio, handbill and public speaking barrages in planning campaign tactics. CIO Director John Brophy presided over talks intended to effect an agreement on a slate of candidates for union leadership acceptable to all factions. Secretary-Treasurer George Addes and Vice-President Richard T. Frankenstein were said to have withdrawn as candidates for president in favor of Thomas.

ARCHITECTS' LICENSING BILL

500 Appear for Measure at Jefferson City Hearing.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 30 (AP).—A bill which would set up a State examining and licensing board for architects and engineers drew more than 500 proponents last night to a hearing before the House Municipal Corporations Committee. Robert Brooks, national director of the American Society of Civil Engineers, said only eight states do not have similar boards. Dean A. S. Langedorf of Washington University, St. Louis, said the measure would "protect the dignity of the profession and aid in the health, safety and general welfare of the public." Robert Boyles, secretary of the Joint Council of Associate Engineers of St. Louis, was present.

F TITLE CHARLEY DALY, OF 'FIGHTING DALYS', IS DEAD

Charles J. Daly, one of the famous family of fighting Dalys, who flourished in St. Louis during the bare-knuckle and skin-tight glove days, died early today at St. Luke's Hospital following an operation. He was 72 years old and resided at 3719 North Taylor avenue.

Back in the eighties, when St. Louis was the fight center of the country, with the Daly and Kelly rival groups supplying much of the boxing interest, Charley was one of three fighting brothers, Johnny, ad Danny being the others.

Charley was the cleverest of the three, although Danny enjoyed the reputation of being a more dangerous fighter. Charley was good enough to be matched with Billy Myer, famous as the "Greatest Cyclone," who fought a draw with Jack McAuliffe for the lightweight championship.

Daly fought Myer in December, 1886, and was knocked out after battling 32 rounds, according to "Battles of Century."

After his active ring days were over Daly devoted his time to conducting his saloon at Seventh and Market streets, retaining his interest in boxing by managing and seconding fighters.

One of his proteges was Harry S. Sharpe, widely known in this section as an authority on boxing and in his day the best lightweight fighter in this vicinity. Daly trained Sharpe for his famous 77-round knockout of Frank Crosey, at Nameoki, Ill., in 1888.

As a result of this bout the seconds and principals all served terms in the Edwardsville, Ill., jail. Charley Daly served three months; Johnny Daly (who seconded Sharpe), six months; Sharpe a year and Crosey 49 weeks.

In those days fighting was illegal in every State and in Missouri it was a felony even to arrange a match. Daly chaperoned a party of 150 fans to the Sullivan-Kilrain fight in 1889, the bout being held at Richburg, Miss. He guaranteed each person a round trip by rail and a ringside seat for $100. He and his brother bet all they had and all they made out of a buffet which operated on the way down, on Sullivan, and were rewarded when Sullivan won his 75th round.

Gordon Advances In Squash Event

Jack Gordon gained a decisive victory over Dave Bartoch in the opening round of the first annual St. Louis District squash racquet championship at the University Club last night. Gordon, one of the title favorites, topped a top ranking local tennis player.

Harry Whitaker won from D. R. Small in one long Class B battle while Erle Newman defeated E. O. King in another contest requiring extra games. In the longest match in the Class C division Dick Tate eliminated F. E. Schoplin. Yesterday's results:

Class A, second round—Jack Gordon defeated Dave Bartoch, 15-3, 15-8, 15-7; W. K. Oliver defeated Fred Tausig, 15-11, 15-11, 15-7; Sam Lehman defeated J. Orr, 15-13, 15-3, 15-11; 15-12, 15-8; Ed Haverstick defeated W. O. Scholtz, 15-10, 15-11, 15-11; Van Ness Jones defeated C. A. Porter, 15-12, 15-13, 15-12.

Class B, first round—Harry Whitaker defeated D. R. Small, 15-10, 15-13, 15-16, 15-15, 15-12; Ed Hageman won by default from R. J. Portney; W. F. Jackson won by default from J. W. Miller; Bartlett Warren Whitaker defeated Joseph Lewis, 15-12, 15-15, 15-11, 15-13.

The regular infield will be Cavaretta at first; Herman, second; Bartell, short, if he is able to play, and Hack at third base. Messers, who hit .331 for Indianapolis in 1938, will be at short in case Bartell is unable to go, while the reserves will be Glen Russell and the veteran Woody English.

Hartnett's regular outfield will consist of Galan, Marty and Leiber, with Reynolds and Gleason, a .313 batter with Kansas City last season, in reserve.

This club is good enough to repeat if Dean and Bartell are at top condition. Without them, however, anything can happen. Thus Gabby Hartnett's first full campaign as a leader opens under a cloud.

RICKEY SEES NO HOPE FOR CARDINALS IF YOUNGSTERS FAIL

MARTIN-BROWN COMBINATION A FLOP AT SECOND

Redbirds Are Just a Sixth or Seventh Place Team if Veterans Return to Keystone Jobs, Club's Vice-President Says.

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 30.—Branch Rickey doesn't expect the Cardinals of 1939 to make a serious bid for the pennant, he's not predicting that the club will be a pennant winner sure in 1940, and he thinks the only way to make the future bright is to discard players who have proved themselves mediocre at best, and shoot the works on young blood.

"If we have to go back to the combination of Brown at short and Stuart Martin at second, it's a seventh place club sure, no better," the general manager of the Cardinals told the writer last night. "We finished sixth with it last year and it'll be a sixth or seventh place club again. Our only hope is to gamble on the young players. That's the way we have won pennants in the past. What if the young players do make mistakes? They'll learn, and we know we have to build for the future, because if we go North with the identical club we had last season, there is no hope for us."

Hopes Crespi Will Stick.
Rickey said he hoped that Frank Crespi would win the second base job and declared that the front office had not given Blades to understand that it felt Crespi needed experience.

"Crespi can throw and he can run and he can field," Rickey said. "What if he does make a few mistakes? What if Oregio makes a few mistakes? They have great possibilities. Oregio can be a great shortstop and Crespi can be a great second baseman. Why not let them develop in Cardinal uniforms? Why try to get along on a second division combination?"

Except for the infield combination around second and the third base problem, Rickey thinks the Cardinals have what it takes. He believes the catching will be better than it was last season and that Cooper, Sunkel and Bowman will make the pitching measurably superior to what Frisch had at his disposal in 1938. Raffensberger probably would profit by a year in the minors, in the opinion of the general manager.

"I realize our infield problems, however," he said. "We have a definite problem at third base. I told Gutteridge during the winter that if he could add 20 or 30 points to his batting average, I'd make an outfielder out of him. I do not consider him a satisfactory third baseman. But he said he wanted to play third and I told him to forget that conversation and do the best he could. Third base has been played very poorly this spring. Of course Gutteridge is a slow starter, but he is worse this year than ever before."

Rickey said that until he heard that Stuart Martin had played second base, he had thought of no trades, but that since that game, he felt that he ought to make a deal and would try again to swing one to obtain a second baseman.

"Where is the Man We Need?"
"I don't know where we could find one, though," he added. "Cucinello? No. He'd be the hardest man in the league to obtain. Boston thinks it is going to win the pennant and will bet on it if you give Stengel a center fielder. No. The more I think of it the more I am convinced that our hopes rest on young players."

"I wish I could say that the Cardinals are going to win the pennant in 1939, or that we had a great ball club. It would help us at the gate if we could steam up the public to think we were going to be good. But we haven't a good ball club and there's no sense trying to fool ourselves or the public. Except for a few pitchers we are going back as we did last spring. Same No. 1 catcher. Same outfield, and the same infield, if we have Brown at short and Stuart Martin at second."

Rickey plans to trail the Cardinals during the next few days. There will be a meeting of Redbird managers and scouts at Albany, Ga., next Tuesday. Wednesday and Thursday at which young players will be distributed among the various minor league teams in the farm system.

THOMPSONS ROLL 3156 FOR SEASON'S HIGH IN MAJOR CITY PIN LEAGUE

The Thompson Five won three games from the Hesselbergs last night in the Major City Bowling League at Rogers Recreation, hitting 1106 for the night's best team single and adding games of 966 and 1064 for the season's highest three of 3156.

The Schumachers shut out the Beimeyers; Busiels took two games from Roberts; Feldkamps won the odd games from the Falstaffs; Carters had the edge over the Lamberts and the Rogers were one game better than the Camels.

The New Basketball Backboard

Convex in its face toward the playing floor, this new basketball backboard, as tried out here yesterday, presents great possibilities in the matter of shots from the corners. It was designed and manufactured here.

Coach Allen Suggests Higher Baskets in Court Game; Thinks Convex Backboard a Good Idea

By Robert Morrison

The accent on height, which has made basketball primarily a game for tall athletes, would be diminished if the suggestion of Kansas University Coach Forrest C. (Phog) Allen becomes a reality.

In St. Louis yesterday to see a convexly curved backboard manufactured here demonstrated at University City High School, Allen said he believed the height of the basket should be raised from 10 to 12 feet for college games.

"You know, the only reason the basket now is 10 feet high is that when Dr. James Naismith invented the game, that was the height of the running track above the gymnasium floor, the only place where the basket could be attached." Allen considers height in basketball so important that a difference in two teams' average of five or six inches is virtually certain to mean the difference of victory and defeat. The hoop should be raised beyond the reach of any player, he believes.

Experimenting with the convex backboard, Allen said it was a "marvelous idea."

For End of Court Scoring.
The board is intended to give more shooting opportunities from the corners of the court. At present a court may extend two or four feet behind the bank. If the national coaches' recommendation to set the distance at four feet is accepted by the rules committee, it is likely to be a flat backboard will cut off all scoring in the deep end of the court.

The backboard made here by the Medart company is the first step to correct that. Perhaps, Allen said, the corners of backboards may be eliminated further to increase spectator visibility from behind and also scoring opportunities.

"Scoring and action—that's what puts over any sport," Allen said. "This inspired the question as to whether there is too much action."

"Real" Wrestlers Not the Stars on Tonight's Card

The toss of a coin will decide whether the "main" main event of the Auditorium wrestling program tonight is the Jim Morgan-Al Babs performance or the Everett Marshall-Bill Lee affair. That perhaps is fortunate. Otherwise it might be hard to tell.

Bill Lee may be a wrestling big shot down south, but despite strong ballyhoo he received on his first appearance here quite a while ago, the customers don't seem to consider him as anything extra special.

Everett Marshall is sort of a has-been. He has been a world title claimant and National Wrestling Association champion, but isn't anymore. Lou Tress trounced him for both "titles."

As for the Al Babs-Jim Morgan affair, it probably is the main attraction in the wings of the regular mat patrol. A little guy meeting a big guy catches their imagination. They were scheduled to meet last month but Al Babs forgot to mention an infection he had contracted and the State Athletic Commission doctor wouldn't let him go on. Al Babs was suspended. However, this was recently lifted.

Browns May Carry Four-Man Catching Staff During 1939

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 30.—The battle for the catching berths with the 1939 Browns is a real pep fight. Only one man is back from last year. That holdover is Billy Sullivan, who might be a third-sacker or a first-sacker or a full-in at some other position. Therefore there is real hope for every receiver in the camp.

Manager Fred Haney remarked one day: "We might carry four catchers. Sullivan is a utility infielder as well as a catcher. If we find we have to keep him available as insurance against accidents to Clift or McQuinn, we might need three others."

You wouldn't think there were many jobs open, though, to see the receivers working in camp. They are always ready to relieve the man catching in hitting practice, always ready to warm up a pitcher. The other day, Howard with Sullivan for the No. 1 spot.

Glenn always has had a fine reputation as a receiver, but with Bill Dickey ahead of him, he has been just a Yankee extra hanging around waiting in vain for a super de luxe .300 hitting slugger to get lumbago or something. That's the way it is, when you're on the Yankee club, and not right in the super de luxe class.

Now, at 29, Glenn sees a chance to be a 100-game catcher in the majors. That's his ambition, and his pep and line drive hitting have won a lot of admiration in the camp. Pitchers fool the opposition when he works.

Sullivan, of course, has proved his merit. One of Billy's chief assets is the ability to "swish" the ball to right field with his bat. At 163 pounds, he might not be able to go behind the bat daily during the hot summer's campaigning—and that's where Glenn comes in. Joe and Billy are the same height, 5 feet 11, and Glenn outweighs Sully by 10 pounds, according to the roster. But a looklingness to work has made him a favorite of the coaches. A. B. C. LEADER IN ALL-EVENTS TURNS IN 1971

CLEVELAND, March 30 (AP)—

A generous slice of prize money from the American Bowling Congress coffers will be forwarded to Watertown, Wis., barring something cataclysmic in the remaining days of the thirty-ninth annual A. B. C. tournament.

The recipient-designate is William Beisner Jr., 25 years old, who proved himself 145 pounds of kegling dynamite yesterday.

This slightly built office clerk for a shoe company scored 1971 to take first position in the all-events department and, en route, collected a second-place 709 in the singles and games of 254, 207 and 248. He contributed 656 of the 1169 doubles count he shared with Lee Edwards. His total in the team division was 606. Beisner replaced Cone Hermann of St. Louis. The former Whitewater (Wis.) State Teachers' College basketball star trails the winning all-events total of last year's congress by only seven sticks.

The North End Recreation of Detroit took third place in the five-man bracket last night with a total of 2969.

Normandy Wins Meet.

Normandy High School's senior track squad defeated Kirkwood, 74½ to 38½, in a dual meet yesterday at Normandy. The winners took 11 firsts in the 13 events.

SOCCER SHOTS

As the field grows smaller in the Ozark A. A. U. soccer tournament, the competition becomes stiffer so that the quarterfinals, to be played Sunday morning at Fairground Park, offer four very attractive games. It is difficult, indeed, to foresee the outcome in these four games:

Nightingales vs. St. Teresa, 9:30 a. m.; Lindells vs. Andy Fredricks, 11 a. m., at Grounds Five.

Centurys vs. Top Hat, 9:30 a. m.; Natural Set Up vs. German Sport Club, 11 a. m., at Grounds Four.

The winners make up the semi-final program to be played at Walsh Stadium, Tuesday night. Walter Giesler, chairman of the Ozark Soccer Committee, has announced that a series of sprint races will be a feature of the stadium games. Each of the 42 clubs engaged in the tournament has been invited to enter two fast men. Elimination races will be conducted between games, Tuesday night and the final Sunday afternoon, April 9. The runners will wear full soccer equipment, including soccer shoes. Prizes will be given the winner and runner-up.

At Chicago, Mayor Kelly's soccer tournament, for amateur clubs, has progressed to the final round. The winner will oppose the Ozark A. A. U. champion in a home-and-home series. In the Chicago semi-final, the Scandinavians defeated the Italians, 5-0, and the Germans defeated the Polish-Bohemians, 3-2. All clubs in the tournament were entered under their national names.

A dozen or more players who had a lot to do with building up soccer here 10 years ago will be in the lineup of the O'Brien and the Winklers as these teams meet Sunday afternoon for the championship of the Stadium League. In the O'Brien's lineup will be Tal Mulroy, Ribby Murphy, Bucky Reddon, Walter McShane, Johnny Hamm, Ray Egan and other former professionals. Nick Reidy will referee.

A preliminary attraction to the Munsy soccer final between the Zeltmans and Schumachers was announced last yesterday as follows: Plaza A. C. vs. St. Engelberts. These teams, with the Sherman Boys Club, reached the final round of the Community Center League Junior Division. Sherman defeated each of them and thus won the championship, but Plaza and St. Engelberts are eager to settle the runner-up situation.

Boys who may be St. Louis' brightest stars 10 years from now will be playing at Fairground Grounds 4 Saturday afternoon, in the Community Center Midget Division final. The Sherman Park Blues are scheduled to oppose the Cherokee Park team, with the league title at stake.

The tournament will be held here the week of June 12.

Mrs. Raymond Stevens, president of the St. Louis Women's Association and Mrs. Robert Mayer, chairman of the Western Open Committee, will receive the delegation which will receive the visitors.

SOCIAL SECURITY
TAX RISE NOW
HEAVY LEVY LATER

Board Chairman Altmeyer Tells Congress Benefits Will Exceed Present Levels by 1941.

MUST HAVE SOME
STEP-UP BY 1941

Eventual Contribution For General Revenues for Old Age Pensions Is Terrifically Desirable.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the Social Security Board today said that if scheduled increases in old-age pension taxes were postponed the levies would have to be increased sharply later years or the general tax would have to bear a substantial part of pension costs.

Altmeyer, who has approved the Treasury Department's recent recommendation that increases in payroll taxes for old-age pensions be deferred until 1943, said before the House Ways and Means Committee that the government is considering proposed liberalization of other changes in the Social Security system, including the general tax recommendation.

Favors Tax Eventually.

Altmeyer told the committee that the government is considering the old-age pension system general revenues were desirable.

If scheduled increases in the old-age pension tax of 1 per cent each on employers' payrolls and employees' wages are postponed, he testified, the cost of benefits will exceed the level of tax collection by 1942.

It would be absolutely necessary to have some sort of step-up in tax in 1943, Altmeyer said, and some contribution from general revenues would have to be made to meet the payroll tax eventually to be increased to 3 per cent each on employers and employees. The rate is 1 per cent on each.

Distinction on Needs.

Chairman Doughton of the Senate Finance Committee said that the general public's obligation to aid persons who were not dead when they reached 65, and that who were, Altmeyer agreed, the distinction, but that there was considerable justification for general tax contribution to the former group. If it were for the contributory old-age pension system, he said, some of these persons would be needy and have to be aided through State old-age assistance systems.

Representative Jenkins (D-Ohio), contended that if contributions were made from general revenues to the old-age pension system, similar contributions would have to be made to the separate railroad retirement system.

CZECHS AND SLOVAKS PLAN
INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS

Ultimate Goal Is Re-Establishment of Czechoslovakia, Says Nephew of Dr. Benes.

CHICAGO, March 30 (AP)—Plans for an international congress of Czechs and Slovaks were today set as a first step toward restoration of the republic of Czechoslovakia.

Bohus Benes, nephew of Dr. Benes, former President of the republic, told a mass meeting of Slovaks last night the congress would be held in Chicago or New York within a month. The purpose, he said, would be to unify the Czech and Slovak nations of the Americas behind new independence movement.

The ultimate goal, he added, was the re-establishment of a Czechoslovakia in a free Europe.

ANTI-CHILD LABOR INJUNCTION

U. S. Department Acts Against Silk Company in Virginia

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—The Labor Department today announced last night that it had obtained an injunction at Hagerstown, Va., forbidding the Silk Co. to employ minors under 16. The suit, filed in United States District Court, was the first of the child labor provisions of the Wage-Hour Act.

The department said fact-finders discovered that several children under 16 had been working at the company's plant at Hagerstown, Va. The company denied the charge that they were under 16 and agreed not to give further employment to children under 16.

Canada Ratifies Trade Agreement

OTTAWA, Ont., March 30 (AP)—Ratification of the Canada-United States trade agreement signed last Nov. 17, was voted by the House of Commons, 158 yeas to 12 nays, today. The greater part of the agreement has been in effect since Jan. 1.

SOCIAL SECURITY TAX RISE NOW OR HEAVY LEVY LATER

Board Chairman Altmeyer Tells Congress Benefits Will Exceed Present Returns by 1941.

MUST HAVE SOME
STEP-UP BY 1943

Eventual Contribution From General Revenues for Old-Age Pensions Is Termed Desirable.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—

Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the Social Security Board told Congress today that if scheduled increases in old-age pension taxes were postponed the levies would have to be increased sharply in later years or the general taxpayer would have to bear a substantial part of pension costs.

Altmeyer, who has approved Secretary of the Treasury Clegg's recent recommendation that increases in payroll taxes for pensions be deferred until 1943, testified before the House Ways and Means Committee. That group is considering proposed liberalization and other changes in the Social Security system, including the Morgenthau recommendation.

Favors Tax Eventually.
Altmeyer told the committee he thought an eventual contribution to the old-age pension system from general revenues was desirable. If scheduled increases in the present tax of 1 per cent each on employers' payrolls and employees' wages are postponed, he testified, the cost of benefits will reach and cross the level of tax collections in 1942.

It would be absolutely necessary to have some sort of step-up in the tax in 1943, Altmeyer said, and some contribution from general revenues would have to be made unless the payroll taxes eventually were to exceed 3 per cent each on employers and employees. The present rate is 1 per cent on each.

Distinction on Needed.
Chairman Doughton of North Carolina drew a distinction between the general public's obligation to aid persons who were not destitute when they reached 65, and those who were, Altmeyer agreed with the distinction, but contended there was considerable justification for general tax contributions to the former group. If it were not for the contributory old-age pension system, he said, some of these persons would be needy and have to be aided through State old-age assistance systems.

Representative Jenkins (Rep., Ohio), contended that if contributions were made from general revenues to the old-age pension system, similar contributions would have to be made to the separate railroad retirement system.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS

Ultimate Goal Is Re-Establishment of Czechoslovakia, Says Nephew of Dr. Benes.

CHICAGO, March 30 (AP).—Plans for an international congress of Czechs and Slovaks were made today as a first step toward restoration of the republic of Czechoslovakia.

Bohus Benes, nephew of Dr. Edvard Benes, former President of the republic, told a mass meeting of Slovaks last night the congress would be held in Chicago or New York within a month. The primary purpose, he said, would be to unify the Czech and Slovak populations of the Americas behind the new independence movement.

The ultimate goal, he added, was the re-establishment of a free Czechoslovakia in a free Europe.

U. S. Department Acts Against Silk Company in Virginia.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—The Labor Department announced last night that it had obtained an injunction at Harrisonburg, Va., forbidding the Dupont Silk Co. to employ minors under 16. The suit, filed in United States District Court, was the first under the child labor provisions of the Wage-Hour Act.

The department said factory inspectors discovered that seven children under 16 had been working in the company's plant at Grottoes, Va. The company denied knowledge that they were under age, and agreed not to give further employment to children under 16, the announcement said.

Canada Ratifies Trade Pact.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 30 (AP).—Ratification of the Canada-United States trade agreement, signed last Nov. 17, was voted by the House of Commons, 158 to 32, yesterday. The greater part of the agreement has been in effect since Jan. 1.

BARKLEY GIVES CONGRESS WORK TO JUNE 15-JULY 1

Senate Majority Leader, After Seeing President, Lists Objectives—Three Tax Bills; Wagner Act Changes Not Included.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—Listing 10 "desirable" objectives, headed by neutrality-law revision, Senate Majority Leader Barkley outlined a legislative program today that he said would keep Congress in session until late in June. Conspicuous by their absence from Barkley's list were amendments proposed by business men and the American Federation of Labor to the National Labor Relations Act, as well as suggested consolidation of corporation taxes into one general levy.

Barkley, who conferred yesterday with President Roosevelt on the legislative program, enumerated three tax objectives—temporary "freezing" of Social Security payroll taxes at present levels, continuance of so-called nuisance taxes, and approval of reciprocal State and Federal salary levies. Taxes on income from future issues of Government securities also may be considered.

Lists Other Objectives.
Besides these tax objectives and neutrality, Barkley said Congress should enact: Railroad relief legislation, a cotton export subsidy plan as suggested Tuesday by President Roosevelt, an emergency appropriation for the WPA as well as relief funds for the next fiscal year, legislation to expand and continue housing activities, the remaining portions of the national defense program and the annual departmental appropriations bills.

Barkley said he expected considerable time to be consumed by hearings on neutrality, railroad and labor legislation, but said it was his "conservative estimate" that Congress could wind up its work between June 15 and July 1.

The Majority Leader said he had opposed, as a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, the committee's decision yesterday to hold public hearings, beginning next Wednesday, on a half dozen proposals to revise the Neutrality Act.

"I think that whatever is done," Barkley said, "ought to be done with all possible speed to avoid not only uncertainty here, but to avoid uncertainty abroad as to what we intend to do."

Controversy Over Labor Law.

Observing that proposed Wagner Act changes present controversial issues, Barkley said it was his opinion that some of the differences over operation of the act might be worked out by administrative changes under the law as it stands. Asked about amendments proposed to the wage-hour law with the approval of Administrator Elmer Andrews, Barkley said he thought that any move to change the act might open the road for its opponents to offer unfriendly amendments.

Although the Democratic leader was indefinite as to the form cotton subsidy legislation might take, he appeared committed to it after his conference with the President. Previously he had expressed objections to export subsidy proposals.

Barkley said he foresaw no fundamental changes in the Crop Control Act, commenting that it might be possible to solve the problem of low farm income by appropriations under the present law.

More Money for WPA.

Reaffirming support of the President's request for an additional $150,000,000 emergency WPA appropriation, which a House committee to $100,000,000, Barkley said the question of changing the relief system should be considered independently of this item.

He said he expected action soon on proposals to expand the FHA mortgage insurance authorization from three billion dollars to six billion dollars and to enlarge the slum clearance loan and grant authority from $800,000,000 to $1,600,000,000 under the United States Housing Authority.

Well informed persons said President Roosevelt desired legislation to revise and speed up railroad financial reorganization procedure and that the administration also desired to speed up the Interstate Commerce Act proposed by Senators Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, and Truman (Dem.), Missouri.

AMLE HAS NO CHANCE, HENDERSON IN LINE WORD GIVEN ROOSEVELT TO BE S E C CHAIRMAN

President Said to Have Agreed to Consult I. C. C. Nominee About Withdrawal.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—President Roosevelt has been informed by Senate leaders, it is reported, that there is no present hope of winning confirmation of his appointment of Amle to the Federal Monopoly Committee.

The official said the position, vacated by the nomination of William O. Douglas to the Supreme Court, had been offered to Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, but that Hutchins had declined.

Henderson said emphatically that he had not been offered the post. It was said that appointment of Henderson would serve notice on Wall street that the President was unalterably opposed to any major modification of Federal securities regulation and would also be a reward for Henderson's devotion to the New Deal objectives.

The report that Henderson was in line for the job came while friends of Commissioner Jerome Frank were conducting a brisk behind-the-scenes campaign for Frank's promotion to the chairmanship. Some of these friends said that if Frank were passed over by the President he would probably resign from the commission.

Henderson is 44 years old and was an economist for the old NRA.

RENEWAL OF RESERVE BANKS' RIGHT TO ISSUE MONEY URGED

Board Wants Powers Extended in Case European Funds Are Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—The Federal Reserve Board, it was learned today, intends to ask Congress soon to extend its emergency currency-issuing powers.

The authority of the 12 Federal Reserve banks to use Government bonds as partial backing for Federal Reserve notes expires June 30. Although the power has not been used for more than a year, the board deems it potentially useful, especially if assurance of peace should cause Europeans to withdraw a large part of the wealth they have sent here for safekeeping.

Federal Reserve laws require the banks to hold at least 40 cents in gold as security for every dollar bill they issue, making up the remaining 60 cents with commercial paper they own. The emergency act expiring June 30 permits substitution of Government bonds for the commercial paper.

'AS ILLINOIS, SO THE NATION'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 30 (AP).—Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, quoted Postmaster-General Farley last night as saying "as Illinois goes, so will go the nation in 1940."

In an address before the Sangamon County Democratic Women's Organization, Hershey urged all Democratic groups to plan a united fight for the 1940 campaign.

U. S. TO BEGIN WORK SOON ON FLEET OF U-BOAT CHASERS

Navy Awards Prizes for Designs for Small, Fast Torpedo Boats.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—The navy disclosed yesterday that it would soon start building a $15,000,000 "Mosquito Fleet" to supplement the projected 45,000-ton battleships and other major craft. Announcing distribution of $85,500 prize awards among designers, officials said the ideas of the civilian draftsmen and the navy's own experts for small, fast torpedo-carrying "suicide" boats and for larger submarine chasers would be tested shortly.

Congress authorized the experimental fleet in last year's one billion dollar Naval Expansion Act, and voted $3,000,000 for first expenses.

The largest single award went to S. A. Vincent, Newport News, Va., for the winning design of a 165-foot subchaser.

ON U. S. CONGRESS PROPOSED

Only Way to Bring Attention to Demand for Vote on Status, Says San Juan Official.

(From a Correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, Copyright, 1939.)

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, March 30.—Adolfo de Hostos, official historian of Puerto Rico, proposed yesterday that 50,000 Puerto Rican residents of New York and other parts of the United States should march on Washington and encamp before the Capitol in an effort to enforce the demands that the island be allowed to determine its future political status by a referendum.

Writing in El Mundo, he said this would be the best way to follow up the recent demand of an economic congress here for a referendum as fundamental to settlement of the economic situation, and the denunciation by Senate President Rafael Martinez Nadal of "American Fascist rule."

De Hostos said that Americans were always impressed by bigness and he believed a mammoth march on Washington would bring decisive action on the status question by the American Government, if Puerto Ricans would address Congress as "our fellow American citizens."

De Hostos, a former officer in the American army, is the son of a Spanish-American educator, Eugenio Maria de Hostos, who advocated an Antillean Confederation of Cuba, Santo Domingo and Puerto Rico.

BILL GIVES I. C. C. CONTROL OVER ALL TRANSPORT RATES

Measure Prepared by Senators
Wheeler and Truman to Aid Railway Rehabilitation.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—Chairman Wheeler (Dem., Montana, and Senator Truman (Dem., Missouri) of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee proposed today that the Interstate Commerce Commission be given power to make rates for all forms of transportation uniform under a new rule.

The two Senators made public the draft of a bill which they will introduce today as part of their program for railroad rehabilitation.

The measure was given to reporters after Wheeler had discussed it with President Roosevelt. Informed persons said Wheeler had received assurances of administration support.

Wheeler and Truman have introduced some railroad legislation, including a measure to speed up financial reorganizations, and they said additional proposals would be offered later.

Similar to Lea Proposal.

The proposal made public today is similar to one introduced by Chairman Lea (Dem., California, of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, but it would not go so far in carrying out recommendations of Mr. Roosevelt's joint committee of railroad management and labor.

It would create no new agency and would not reorganize the Interstate Commerce Commission. It would retain the present rate-making rule used for railroads, instead of modifying it as requested by rail representatives, and would extend it to all common carriers.

Although revising many sections of the present Interstate Commerce Act, the measure would retain the "long-and-short haul clause" to which the railroads have objected. This clause forbids a lower rate for a long haul than for a short haul over the same route and in the same direction.

"In so far as we felt it compatible," the bill says, "with the public interest, we have included it."

JAPAN CALLS IN POWERS FOR 'IMPORTANT' STATEMENT

Envoys Expected to Be Told Tomorrow of Negotiations With Germany and Italy.

TOKYO, March 30 (AP).—The Japanese Government has invited United States, French and British Ambassadors to the Foreign Office tomorrow to receive an "important statement."

Its nature was not known, but some quarters reported that Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita would detail the status of negotiations with Italy and Germany toward strengthening the anti-Comintern accord.

Arita was expected to assure the envoys that any changes would not affect the democracies and that Soviet Russia was the pivot of the entire situation.

CHINESE PUPPET RULERS REPUDIATE DEBTS OF CHIANG

Japanese.

SHANGHAI, March 30 (AP).—Repudiation of all loans or credits granted by foreign Powers to the Chinese Government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was announced today by a joint session of Ministers of the Japanese-dominated Peiping and Nanking Governments. The meeting at Nanking declared that the two puppet regimes, which Japan hold to be the heirs to governmental authority in Northern and Central China, would refuse to respect the vested rights or interests of Powers assisting the Chiang Kai-shek Government.

(The United States Export-Import Bank in December extended a $25,000,000 credit to a company representing the Chinese Government. March 8 the British Government announced it was backing two British banks making a $25,000,000 loan to support China's credit.)

British Loan Denounced.

The Nanking meeting declared that the real purpose of the British loan was "to obstruct the restoration of peace in East Asia."

The Nanking meeting also approved a statement "denouncing foreign Powers which are giving assistance to the Chiang Kai-shek regime."

It had been announced that the British were to be denounced but the use of the plural, "foreign Powers," in a brief announcement issued at the end of the conference indicated that other western nations were included. The text of the statement has not been published.

The Chinese press reported that "240 puppet officials" connected with the Nanking Government had been assassinated up to yesterday when the administration observed its first anniversary.

Chinese Report Victory.

Chinese said today they had won a victory over Japanese cleanup forces near Wuning, Northern Kiangsi Province. They reported that the arrival of three

How a Deserved Compliment to His Wife Imposed a Heavy Burden Upon His Widow

WHEN Winslow's will was probated, it disclosed that he had left his entire estate outright "to my wife, Ellen M. Winslow, because of the complete confidence I repose in her." In paying this tribute to his wife, Winslow imposed a heavy burden upon his widow—a burden that was destined to cost her and their children much in the years to come. Winslow's confidence in his wife's intelligence and judgment was fully justified. His mistake was in assuming that the intelligence and good judgment she possessed were adequate substitutes for the investment experience and training in security analysis which she lacked. That she lost most of his estate and had to earn her own living is no reflection upon her judgment. That she was able to begin earning her living at age 40, despite the handicap of no previous business experience, is the best evidence that Winslow did not overestimate her courage, character and ability. He simply imposed upon her a burden she had not been trained to carry and the results were unfortunate.

Intelligence and sound business judgment. Important as these qualities are, they must be supplemented by comprehensive information and by training in security analysis. For many years this company has specialized in the management of estates and trust funds. It engages in investment management as a full-time organization job. It supplements the published financial information available to it by its own investment research where necessary in its opinion. It understands the importance of adhering to prudent and conservative investment standards. It approaches the investment job in an humble spirit, fully appreciating the limitations to human management. It makes no pretense to infallibility. It is aware of the difficulties of investment management and in an effort to cope with them successfully has built up a substantial investment management organization to manage the trust funds and other funds under its supervision. THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles: that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or greedy poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Favors Big Navy for National Defense.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I defend myself, his interests and possessions, man has from the earliest times utilized the most effective means at his disposal. The record of nations, in this respect, does not vary from that of individuals.

If the people of the United States intend to defend our interests and possessions, it would be well to have a national defense adequate for that purpose. To have such a defense, we must depend largely on our navy, because of our geographical location. Our airplanes would be of great use to us if an enemy should attempt to land a fleet on our shore, but there has never been a demonstration of their ability to sink a modern battleship under war conditions. They cannot destroy an enemy's fleet or sea communications. This can only be done by our navy, and to do it successfully our navy must be superior to that of any of our enemies. A navy will stand or fall by its strength at the time war breaks out.

To maintain our wonderful geographical position, we must prevent any foreign power from establishing a base for operations within the limits of the Western Hemisphere. In order to accomplish this, the United States must have naval bases throughout the entire Western Hemisphere and an adequate navy to protect, not only the shores of our own country, but also those of Canada, Latin America and the Caribbean areas. It is impossible for us to settle any of the trouble that is going on in the foreign lands, but by having a national defense adequate to protect the Western Hemisphere we can keep these countries from bringing the trouble to our lands. We cannot shut ourselves off from every contact with other nations; but we can make sure that we command the seas which are the medium of those contacts.

The people of the United States love peace and freedom. Let us not place a yoke about our necks, but, instead, let us enlarge our national defense to insure peace and freedom. AARON BRIEN.
Madison, Ill.

Is Mr. Roosevelt a Dewey?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
ST. LOUIS has long needed a Thomas Dewey. Has he been discovered in the person of Robert A. Roosevelt, who almost single-handed is prosecuting an important lawsuit in Judge Oakley's court? The combination of a fearless, intelligent prosecutor and a Judge who feels his public responsibility is the kind of a combination which may make racketeering an unprofitable business. We seem to have found that combination and it is to be hoped that the people and press of St. Louis will give the effort their wholehearted support. A. M.

The Futility of Peace Ballots.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE Peace Council of Greater St. Louis balloting resembles radio quizzes, splits too many geographical hairs, confuses thought and will produce no useful result. The participant marks the ballot to indicate circumstances when, where and why he will fight for his United States, as if one could predict and choose the time, place and occasion for a decisive conflict.

Ballots better serving the general welfare might well exhibit a few categorical statements, such as: "Will you support our country's vital interests, as well as its own, should be defended?" Parenthetically, peace devotees make a mistake in thinking peace will be found by seeking it directly. Like happiness, peace is a by-product of strength, courage, unity and good will. E. G. F.

On the Rededication Proposal.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
CONGRATULATIONS on your editorial, "For a National Rededication," proposing a meeting of American citizens next July 4 to reaffirm the principles upon which our country is founded.

This is a direct call to local and national organizations of the civic, educational, commercial, religious, fraternal and trade union types, unselfishly to unite their strength and resources for the purpose of sponsoring and bringing into being the most gigantic assemblage of free men and women in recorded history, whose mighty voice will proclaim to the watching world, "America, we love you!" J. F. SHERKELTON.

Unimpressed by Remote History.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE noble defense of the German claim to Bohemia by Adolf B. Sues in last Friday's letter column is especially revealing. Your informed correspondent states that "in historical matters Hitler seems to be very accurate..." and agrees with Hitler's deductions.

The Czechs no doubt know themselves under whose leadership they would prefer to live. They well know the Germans. Could they have lived under German and Hapsburg domination all these centuries without learning something of their enslavers? We, as Americans, are not overly impressed by such remote historical facts and arguments, for were we not ourselves at one time subjects of European Powers? No thinking or reasoning person could possibly be misled by such nonsense as is being submitted at every opportunity for consideration. GOOD SOLDIER.

THE NEW SPAIN.

Before the abdication of King Alfonso, Spain was ruled, as she had been for centuries, by the army, the church and the grandes. Under this triumvirate, despite numerous abortive revolts, the organization of Spain, from a social, religious, industrial and agricultural point of view, had changed very little since the times when Spain was a great world power in the sixteenth century.

The abdication of Alfonso was forced by a demand for sweeping and fundamental changes which he was either unable or unwilling to bring about. One of the foremost of the reforms sought was the breakup of the huge estates, held for hundreds of years in the same families, on which the agricultural laborer was little more than a medieval serf and could never aspire to be anything else.

If the thirst for land was one of the chief motivating powers that brought the republican Government into being, the failure to quench it paved the way for the Franco revolt. The reason the republican Government failed to survive was not because it was too radical but precisely the opposite. Its conservatism in bringing about reforms first disappointed and then alienated much of its following and laid the basis for its dissolution.

As originally conceived, the Franco revolt was designed to restore the conditions existing prior to the abdication. It is reasonably clear now that, though the revolt has been crowned with success, the old Spain is gone forever and the new Spain which rises from its ashes will grievously dismay the ante-bellumites, the original fomenters of the Franco revolt.

Already it is apparent that the ruling group in Spain is not the old triumvirate of army, church and aristocracy, but the Falangist, a party organized along the lines of Fascism in Italy and National Socialism in Germany. The Falangists, while paying lip service to Spain's old institutions, are essentially revolutionists. They are numerous, ardent and, from their point of view, highly idealistic. They will make Spain over to their own pattern.

They recognize, for example, that the thirst for land has to be satisfied and, even before the end of the war, the great estates in Southern Spain were being divided into small tracts and given out to young farmers, who were also supplied with credits to buy tools, seed and stock. This movement no doubt will be accelerated now that military victory has been achieved.

The radical labor unionism that existed under the Republic is, of course, gone, but that does not mean a return to the system of individual paternalism, benevolent or otherwise, of ante-bellum days. Instead, Spain will have one huge labor union, named the National Syndicalist Labor Center, to which all workers may belong. It is modeled after the German Labor Front, and while strikes are outlawed, so are lockouts. The employer, as well as the employee, is harnessed by restrictions which did not exist before. Moreover, any employee who feels he is mistreated may seek quick redress in labor courts.

To speak of the emancipation of women as revolutionary sounds a little odd in this country, but in Spain it is a violent change from old customs. During the war, the Falangists made much use of women in various tasks, particularly in numerous kinds of social work. In fact, just as men were conscripted by Gen. Franco for fighting, a multitude of war-time jobs. These women are among the most enthusiastic members of the Falangist and it is folly to suppose that they will ever return to the secluded life of pre-war days.

If the Franco revolt had limited and narrow objectives at the beginning, the prolongation of the war and the intimate relationships established by Franco with the totalitarian governments of Germany and Italy have opened up Spain to new and powerful revolutionary forces that will prevail. Spain will be a totalitarian state, linked to the Rome-Berlin axis by the closest of ties and reflecting, with Spanish variations, the industrial, agricultural and social scheme of Germany and Italy.

Those who originally conceived the downfall of the republican Government may find bitter the fruits of victory. They wanted a return of the old semi-feudalistic Spain. They are getting a streamlined Fascist state, which is sure to throw overboard all the old traditions, and the privileges and immunities that went with them.

"AND DREAM THERE'S APRIL YET."

Mr. Citizen will find himself with April on his arm Saturday morning—always a pleasant experience. He'll be sloughing the winter's impediments. Spots will disappear, mufflers vanish, ulsters will be folded away. A ballad of green and the lyrical tints of blossom hours—a welcome month is April. Some pretty compliments have been paid May, too. Time was when the world "went Maying" in that ancient May whose fallen flowers are fragrant yet, and lingered by the fountain spray with Acanthus and Nicolette. But May's fair brow is now disfigured with the stigma of the economic cure. We shall hardly be ankle-deep in May when the notice will come that the State's income tax is due and payable on or before June 1. "Payable in full," is the old, familiar admonition, and woe to the delinquent!

Of course, our legislators could, if they would, lighten the load. They could take a leaf from the Federal Government and spread the burden over the year by quarterly installments. And from the wheat fields of the north, and across the river from the Ozarks' southern dreaming, and over the clay cliffs of Callaway, would swing a converging chorus of praise on Jefferson City.

The legislators will do nothing about it. They must know that this spot-cash collection means, in many instances, unpaid bills, that June's retail sales take a sudden dip, that the practice imposes a severe and unnecessary hardship on their taxable constituents.

Well, let us enjoy April.

THEY NEVER LOSE.

The gambling houses of Kansas City employ a simplified, almost primitive, system of bookkeeping, so far as examination reveals. Not a trace can be discerned of the complicated, abstruse, mystifying accountancy of, say, the Missouri Pacific under the brief procuratorship of the late Van Sweringen.

Unlike the doleful disclosures in the auditing offices of the luckless railroads that tumbled into the lape of the Cleveland magicians, the gambling properties of Kansas City seem to have enjoyed a constant prosperity. The classiest unit in the group, for example, over a period beginning on Nov. 11—Armistice anniversary, you know—and running through the holidays to the New Year's bells, presents the "profit economy" in vigorous stride. A close corporation, so to speak, its four stockholders issued dividends to themselves in the amount of $28,500 in the short span of 45 days.

Other establishments did well, too. Big or little, fashionable or proletarian, every day was, for each and all of them, a gainful day. Under the orthodox heading "Receipts," their trade term for winnings, the books show that the gambling houses of Kansas City never lost. Such uniformly successful results may not, in our opinion, be attributed wholly to luck. There just must be a touch of skill up there.

TRIUMPH OF THE SCHOOL LOBBY.

The Missouri school lobby, long known as the State's most powerful pressure group, again has demonstrated its commanding influence. The evidence is in the vote of 101 to 12, by which the House defeated an amendment to reduce the schools' share in State revenue from 33 1-3 to 30 per cent.

The State Constitution provides that the schools must get at least one-fourth of State revenues, but the lobby for the last 52 years has succeeded in keeping the allotment up to one-third. In 1931, the schools received $4,000,000; their current slice of State funds is $14,000,000—yet they refused to take a reduction in this huge sum.

Meanwhile, other needs have mounted, and State revenues have run short. The plight of dependent children is particularly distressing. Gov. Stark, on recommendation of the Social Security Commission and his fiscal advisers, urged a $5,000,000 fund for the children for the biennium, but the House Appropriations Committee hacked it down by 50 per cent. The amount that would have been saved by the educational fund reduction, $2,500,000, would have filled the gap—but the schools refused.

The schools make a point in showing that their total revenue from State and local taxes had been reduced from $47,000,000 in 1931 to $45,000,000 last year. This should not mean, however, an unrelenting demand for their pound of flesh from the State, but a greater contribution from the local units.

No good citizen wants the State's educational facilities to be impaired. In a time of emergency, however, every branch should be willing to make sacrifices, particularly when such a humanitarian cause as the care of needy children is at stake.

SEQUEL TO THE COURT'S TAX DECISION.

Pressure from the lobby of state and municipal office-holders was reported last week to have persuaded Congress that it would be wise to shelve the proposals for removing tax-exemption privileges. Now that the Supreme Court has made a historic reversal and abolished the immunity of Federal and state employees, the lobby has been checkmated. No matter how timid Congress may be in availing the Government of the privilege, the Treasury has won the right to tax the incomes of state employees, just as the states have to levy on Federal employees.

It is highly desirable, however, that Congress take action. Writing the expansion of the taxing area into Federal law will mean a clear mandate to the Treasury and a regularity of procedure. It is also important that Congress make clear that there will be no retroactive taxation. Trying to collect for past years would be an injustice to the state employees, and inflict an impossible burden upon many of them.

The 33 Legislatures of income-tax states have a corresponding duty before them, to provide for the taxation of Federal employees. In some instances, this will mean revision of laws which exempt Federal salaries. In others, it will mean passage of a simple statute. In Missouri, which has no law granting exemption, the State now is free to begin collection of income taxes from Federal employees without legislative action, in the opinion of State Auditor Smith and Assistant Attorney-General Stone.

Another task awaits the national and the state governments: the enactment of measures to permit taxation of income from state and Federal securities, or the beginning of test cases. The same line of reasoning followed by the court in demolishing tax-exempt salaries will also serve to knock out the present ban on tax-exempt interest.

Hitler now wants England to go into partnership with Germany. He is asking Great Britain, not telling her—yet.

THE COTTON SUBSIDY PLAN.

It is impossible to give unqualified approval to export subsidy schemes, which can never do more than alleviate economic maladjustments without removing their causes. But subject to this reservation, a case can be made out for President Roosevelt's proposal to subsidize the gradual export of the Government's store of 11,000,000 bales of loan cotton. There is no doubt that the export subsidy device, if used boldly enough, can clear out the tremendous amount of carry-over cotton, which hangs like a sword of Damocles over the market.

The foreign nations which have been so busy taking advantage of our crop-control program to expand their own cotton production cannot well complain if we take strong steps to prevent a further loss of our markets abroad, or even seek to recover a part of what we have forfeited. Use of the export subsidy undoubtedly will have the effect of slowing up the expansion of cotton acreage in Brazil, Mexico, Russia, India and elsewhere.

Unless the export subsidy measure is accompanied by a lowering of tariffs—which, we regret to say, it does not seem politically realistic to expect—this forced expansion of our cotton markets abroad will mean an equivalent contraction of the foreign market for other American products. Unless our tariffs are modified, the amount of foreign goods we import will remain unchanged, and therefore the amount of dollar exchange which foreign nations can acquire to buy American products will not be increased. So, as more dollar exchange is used to buy our cotton, less will be used to buy our typewriters, automobiles and machinery.

There is a certain ironic justice in the fact that industry, which has sponsored a high tariff policy at the expense of agriculture, may now find itself pinched by an export subsidy designed to aid the producers of a crop which high tariffs have well-nigh ruined.

Nephew James Pendergast seems to have had a disappointing visit in Washington. The Kansas City machine's frontier may once have been the Potomac, but now it's the Kaw.

Lady Astor's Brief for Democracy

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Answering charge of Fascist leanings, American-born Viscountess says she has sincere faith in free government, though recognizing its defects; thinks Germany was mistreated after war, but loathes its present tyranny; urges the democracies to repair their failings.

Viscountess Nancy Astor in the Forum.

Henry Goddard Leach, editor of the Forum, asked Lady Astor to write about her political philosophy. The following letter is her reply.

DEAR MR. LEACH: I am slightly amused and considerably perplexed to find that after having been with my husband in the political arena for some 30 years, always in the progressive wing of our party—having been in the old day called Socialist and radical because of our views and tendencies, having been labeled a Bolshevik when we visited the Soviet Union and worked in Parliament for a trade pact with Russia—I am now attacked as an anti-democrat and Fascist.

Here and now, let me say that I staunchly believe in democracy as the political system through which both nations and individuals may reach the highest fulfillment. But, just because of my sincerity in this belief, I refuse to be blind to realities—to whitewash the democratic system in order to cover up its defects. To do so would be self-deception and self-praise (two of democracy's weaknesses). It requires courage and strength of belief and purpose to recognize temporary failure and yet cling to an ideal—to find the flaws and try to eradicate them. The trouble with so many people today is that they confuse illusions with ideals.

People confuse, for instance, their ideal of what a League of Nations should be with the illusion that the present League of Nations corresponds to their ideal. The present League failed just because its constitution was not ideal. It was not universal and it had no superstate authority.

It failed largely for the reason that the 13 original United States would have failed if Alexander Hamilton's fight over states' rights had not succeeded and if the most powerful and progressive state had remained outside the Union. Because of these defects, the League was an imperfect instrument for its avowed purpose. The failure of the League from its very inception brought Europe last summer to the brink of war and to the kaleidoscopic events of Berchtesgaden, Godesberg and Munich.

These are realities which one must accept. Postmortems will get us nowhere. It is well to recognize the wrong we ourselves did in the post-war years to Germany, when she was a democracy and a republic of which wrong Hitlerism is the harvest and the nemesis. The British Prime Minister and our Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax, were right to make an effort, however brief, to settle by negotiation the mistakes of the past. It was right to try to the utmost for peace, for the sake of the German people no less than for our own sake.

It may be that this policy of peace will fail; the appetite for power grows by what it feeds on, and it may now be so strong that nothing will satisfy it. And war may only be postponed. But who, standing in his place, would not have tried, as Mr. Chamberlain tried, to hold the wolves of war in leash?

I hold no brief for dictators; dictators have no amercer effect on me; I have a horror of all persecution and tyranny. A country governed by the human will of one man has sold its soul and pawned its reason. To me, a country is not the personal ity of one man, but the personality of the people. Of the dictators, I admired only Ataturk, for he believed in democracy and freedom for his women.

It was my fundamental and wholehearted belief in individual responsibility and freedom which in the past impelled me to support the cause of women's rights and responsibilities, of women's careers and women's interests. Given the chance, women can and will play a greater part in civic and social life.

This earnest conviction is a major argument on the side of democracy. If women will shoulder their responsibility in democratic life, democracy will triumph. Women are much more adaptable and, in some respects, more resourceful than men.

What is a democrat? He is one who believes in the infinite value of the human soul in the sight of God. From this truth springs the dignity of man, the claim of the man with a hoe to be treated not as a clod but as an immortal end in himself—not a mere means to the ends of other persons or powers, but free and erect.

That is my faith, religious and political, bound together in one. It is the antithesis of Fascism, Nazism and Communism, which deny God, freedom and immortality. They worship the Omnipotent State, whose altars of sacrifice are pogroms and concentration camps. I refuse to be mesmerized by dictators. "Naked," as Shakespeare said, "they are for all the world like forked radishes with heads fantastically carved upon them with a knife." They too will die and rot and they will not smell sweet in the dust.

But the fact that at this moment there are nations which are governed by the will of one man does not make me despair of these nations or drive me to treat them all as lepers. It does not blind me to what is good in those countries nor what is bad in my own. Some day the decent people of the totalitarian states will recover their souls and take their reason out of pawn.

Our danger here in England is that we democracy for granted. Its present state is not necessarily final and absolute. Because I say this, less well than the great German author, because I seek to repair the defects of democracy, why should I be dubbed its enemy?

Our danger here in England is that we may not overcome in time these defects in the swiftly changing world which now beset us. Can we save democracy, without, in the process, becoming enslaved to the tyranny which is its opposite? That is the question, crucial and urgent, which confronts England and France—yes, and America.

IDENTIFYING A BULL.

From the Memphis Commercial Appeal.
LITTLE is known of the name, ancestry, environment and previous conditions of a 600-pound bull that appeared from nowhere in Kansas City traffic a night or so ago. An automobile struck the creature, however, and in rapid succession it charged a pair of pedestrians, a hamburger stand, a street car, two switch engines and five men equipped with ropes and chains. The animal was finally roped and led away to the stockyards, but it went protesting belligerently. The only thing quite certain is something we know this bull was not. He was no Ferdinand.

No Time for Special Pensions

From the Washington Post.

VETERANS could scarcely have chosen a worse time than the present to press for general pensions. The whole country is disturbed over the rising public debt and the continued failure of Congress to curb extravagant spending of borrowed money. Thoughtful legislators are attempting to reduce expenditures so that the tax burden will not become an ever-increasing deterrent to industrial activity and increased employment. To complicate this task by advancement of a pension bill estimated to cost 13 billion dollars is a thoroughly irresponsible procedure.

In a statement a few weeks ago, National Commander Stephen Chadwick of the American Legion asserted that, during his term of office, the Legion "will ask no general service pensions for the ex-service men of the World War." Now the legislative representative of the Legion in Washington is quoted as saying that the pension measure before the House World War Veterans Committee is a Legion bill.

Col. John Thomas Taylor attempts to explain away the apparent clash between the Legion commander and his lobby by saying that the Rankin bill "is not a general pension proposal." But that quote does not make the measure any more palatable.

Col. Taylor is also quoted as saying that he has "not the slightest idea" as to the ultimate cost of the bill he favors. In these days of mounting Government outlays, that single statement is sufficient to condemn the bill. It suggests that even sponsors of the measure are unwilling candidly to face the staggering burden it would impose upon the country.

The most conclusive argument against the bill, however, is the fact that Congress has set up extensive old-age pension and insurance systems. Under these plans, veterans, like all other citizens, will be cared for in their declining years. There is not the slightest excuse for creating a special system for the payment of $40 per month to veterans when they reach the age of 65. The reasonable course would be to refer the proposal to the Ways and Means Committee, studying possible changes in the social security system to benefit the people as a whole.

ST. LOUIS SEES THE LIGHT.

From the Arkansas Democrat (Little Rock).
ST. LOUIS is one of the most beautiful cities in the nation. It is rich in culture, rich in goods, one of the greatest industrial centers. And partly because of the latter virtue and the fact that it has been forced to draw upon the soft coal regions of Southern Illinois, it has suffered from the curse of smoke for more than 50 years.

Several attacks on the evil have failed, but the St. Louis Post-Dispatch tells us that at last it appears that "St. Louis No. 1 problem"—smoke—is going to be attacked realistically, scientifically and with a good chance for early solution.

A chemical engineer announces the organization of a group of citizens who will seek a method of processing Illinois coal to provide a cheap, smokeless fuel, also a plan to finance a self-supporting municipally operated processing plant.

Little Rock folks, who enjoy the blessings of natural gas, may have difficulty in picturing this curse which long ago fell upon St. Louis. But they will pray that St. Louis finds a rift in the clouds, and soon will greet the glorious sunshine so long denied.

Career of Gen. G. Bloody Dictator From Count

Chosen Fifth President Liberation He Hated Man

THE career of Gerardo Machado who died yesterday at Miami Beach, Fla., epitomizes the rise and fall of a typical Latin-American dictator. Running as a hero of the War of Liberation, he became Cuba's fifth President in 1925. On Aug. 12, 1933, when he fled in exile, he had become the most hated man in Cuba.

Born at Villa Clara Sept. 2, 1871, the son of Col. Gerardo Machado and Senora Lucardo M. Sales y Machado, he seldom saw his father, who spent most of his time at the wars for Cuban freedom. Machado took up this fight when 22 years old, serving under Gen. Juan Bruno Zayas at Vega Alta and Camajuan. At Oliver he was so seriously wounded that his life was despaired of.

The war over, his wounds healed, Machado plunged into the industrial and political development of the new republic, and by 1908 was wealthy. Though he lost the race for Governor of Santa Clara Province by 17 votes that year, his political career began. He was elected Governor and waited impatiently for him to retire. When Gen. Machado took office May 20, 1925, he held both posts until he sent soldiers against striking Negro laborers in Santa Clara.

"In civilized Cuba, men have right to strike," Gomez stormed. "You must resign."

Organized Own Party.
So Machado organized his own party and seated several Congressmen, but he failed again to become a Governor, this time in Havana Province. Chastened, he resigned Gomez and waited impatiently for him to retire. When Gen. Machado took office May 20, 1925, he held both posts until he sent soldiers against striking Negro laborers in Santa Clara.

He ran as an "Hombre del '33," but lost—General, and man who had proved his business ability, power plants and sugar plantations. He disdained the traditional honors of presidential candidates; he held his election parades afoot (a pie and with a "pie" his slogan, practically walked into the presidency).

Machado took office May 20, 1925, amid hails for his promise to reduce taxes and debt. Gen. Estrada Palma, Cuba's first and best President, had run the country at $8 per capita a year, whereas Gen. Machado's first year cost $15.50 per capita. The retiring President had let the levees rise $45.15 a head. The cost of another year's term would be $100 a head. Machado endeavored Machado not only to taxpayers but to Cuban business and Wall Street as well.

New York backing won praise, however, from the newspaper. But Gen. Machado, who had been an officer of the Santa Clara subsidiary of the Electric Bond and Share Co., which had bought Machado's power plant. El Dia's editor Armando Andre, accused Machado of getting a $500,000 fund from this New York holding company to accept a $20,000 armored automobile for one of his Havana executives.

When warnings failed to quiet Andre, he was murdered 90 days after his election. The National Regimenter the Nation.

Almost immediately the new government began organizing the island as it had never been mentioned before. By his own boast, Machado degraded Congress through the nation's lotteries, which sold 20,000 tickets at 30 cents each for drawings three times a month, paying prizes that aggregated $1,000 a drawing. This lottery earned $8,000,000 a year for the Cuban Treasury, $125,000 for the President's household and $100,000 for the Senate's 28 members. Twenty of the Senate's 28 members got 150 tickets each—$45,000 a year—although the prize money was paid in cash, the lottery prizes were often paid in value, scrip. Under Cuban law, to refuse values meant jail.

With Andre buried, with Congress dead, Machado bought the dominance of the lottery tickets and in three years had obtained a new president term, not for the usual three years but for six.

Reply to Cry of "Dictator." Independents shouted, "Dictator!" to which Machado replied, "Dictator of the most sacred thing on earth—democracy and liberty." Among the first to denounce Machado's theories of democracy were the students at Havana University whose disorders and bomb-throwing prompted the president to shut the university's doors. Immediately, the 5000 students organized Directorio Estudiantil and tried revolt to the crossroads and newspaper secretly printed and tributed.

Their manifestos declared that for $20,000,000 in loans from Chase National Bank of New York, Machado would fail for lack of army to crush dissenters. Emilio Obregon, Machado's son-in-law, who became manager of Havana branch of the Chase Bank, the election, was denounced as "wooden-faced" and "dead" lumber donated by the United States Red Cross after the hurricane.

New York investors, who took notice of these demonstrations, fled Machado with a steady cash until the sugar market crashed, wobbled into internal recoveries and finally collapsed.

Career of Gen. Gerardo Machado, Bloody Dictator of Cuba Who Fleed From Country and Died in Exile Chosen Fifth President as Hero of War of Liberation He Became the Most Hated Man on the Island.

THE career of Gerardo Machado, who died yesterday at Miami Beach, Fla., epitomizes the rise and fall of a typical Latin-American dictator. Running as a hero of the War of Liberation, he became Cuba's fifth President in 1925, yet by Aug. 12, 1933, when he fled into exile, he had become the most hated man in Cuba.

Born at Villa Clara Sept. 28, 1875, the son of Col. Gerardo Machado and Senora Lugardo Morales y Machado, he seldom saw his father, who spent most of his time at the wars for Cuban freedom. Machado took up this fight when he was 21, serving under Gen. Juan Bruno Zayas at Vega Alta and Camajuan. At Oliver he was so seriously wounded that his life was despaired of.

The war over, his wounds healed, Machado plunged into the industrial and political development of the new republic, and by 1908 was wealthy. Though he lost the race for Governor of Santa Clara Province by 17 votes that year, his party leader, Gen. Jose Figueres Gomez, was the Cuban president and made Machado Commander of the Army and Secretary of the Interior. He held both posts until he sent soldiers against striking Negro laborers in Santa Clara.

In civilized Cuba, men have a right to strike, Gomez stormed. "You must resign."

Organized Own Party. So Machado organized his own party and secured several Congressmen, but he failed again to become a Governor. This time in Havana Province. Chastened, he rejoined Gomez and waited impatiently for him to retire. When Gomez retired in 1920, Machado seized control of the Liberal party, and though he had never won an election himself, he won Cuba in the 1926 presidential campaign.

He ran as an "Hombre del '95," a Brigadier-General, and a man who had proved his business ability at power plants and sugar plantations. He disdained the traditional form of presidential candidacy; he led his election parades afoot (a pie), and with a pie his slogan, practically walked into the presidency. Machado took office May 20, 1925, amid hails for his promise to reduce taxes and debt. Gen. Estrada Palma, Cuba's first and last president, had run the country at $5 per capita a year, whereas Gen. Mario Garcia Menocal, the retiring President, had let the levies rise to $45 a head. The vow to be another Estrada Palma was met only to taxpayers but to Cuban business and Wall Street as well.

New York backing won no praise, however, from the newspaper El Dia, which assailed Machado as an officer of the New York holding company, and of acceptance of a $200,000 automobile from one of its Havana executives.

"Was this," demanded Andre, "dollar diplomacy?" Machado's answer was to quiet Andre, who was murdered 90 days after Machado took office.

Regimenting the Nation. Almost immediately the new government began organizing the island as it had never been regimented before. By its own coast, Machado degraded Congress through the national lottery, which sold 30,000 tickets at 30 cents each for drawings three times a month, paying prizes that aggregated $175,000 a year. This lottery earned $5,000,000 a year for the Cuban Treasury, $12,500,000 for the President and his followers.

Of Cuba's 128 Congressmen, 100 got 75 tickets at each drawing for half their regular salary, giving each man a profit of $18,000 a year. Twenty of the Senate's 28 members got 150 tickets each—$30,000 a year—and although these amounts were paid in cash, the lottery prize winners could not cash in, or scrip. Under Cuban law, to refuse sales meant jail.

With Andre buried, with Congress sold out, Machado bought up the dominant political parties with lottery tickets and in three years had obtained the presidential term, not for the usual three years, but for six.

Reply to Cry of "Dictator." Independents shouted, "Dictator," to which Machado replied, "Dictator of the most sacred things on earth—democracy and liberty." Among the first to denounce Machado's theories of democracy were the students at Havana University, whose disorders and bombings were prompted by the president's sale of the university's doors. Immediately, the 5,000 students organized Directorio Estudiantil and carried revolt to the crossroads in a newspaper secretly printed and distributed.

The manifestos declared that but for $50,000,000 in loans from the Chase National Bank of New York, Machado would fall for lack of an army to crush dissenters. Jose Emilio Obregon, Machado's son-in-law, who became manager of the Havana branch of the bank, was denounced as "woodhouse" for the way he handled lumber donated by the United States Red Cross after the 1926 hurricane.

New York investors, who took little notice of these demonstrations, provided Machado with a steady flow of cash until the sugar market crashed, wobbled into intermittent recoveries and finally collapsed.

Machado's family, three daughters, their husbands and five granddaughters, and Senora Elvira Machado, his estranged wife; were put on his armored yacht for Key West and entrained north. Last completely in 1930. Investors then shunned the island and Machado was forced to rely on the domestic supply.

Soon he was accused of squeezing his own government by giving the Warren Bros. Construction Co. a contract to build the famous Central Highway at $120,000 a mile, with a profit of nearly $30,000,000. Construction of the national capitol was said to have resulted in a profit of another $12,000,000. The tax rate that he had promised to halve became the highest in the Latin-Americas, and rose rapidly; so did the nation's unrest.

Partida de la Porra (Party of the Bludgeon) held down dissent, if not taxes by actually shooting opposition out of existence. Dissenters were slugged, their wives beaten by women released for that purpose from jails and reformatories.

Return of the Garrote. Until Machado, no one had been executed in Cuba under the republic. After the revolution, Gen. Palma had retired the Garrote to the National Museum as a relic of Spanish cruelty, but under Machado it was hanged and made.

A murderer serving life at El Principe Fortress was officially called Minister of Executions and took charge of the garrote.

In three years, Machado barely escaped seven bombs. In February of 1931, a bomb was dropped down a vent pipe leading to his bath. Plumbers had just put an elbow joint in the pipe and the bomb burst a floor above Machado, who was in the tub.

Not until 1931, six years after the murder of Andre, was ABC, a retaliatory organization for terrorism, set up. By then, some estimates put the total of Porra assassinations at between 1,000 and 2,000 and victims of the garrote were numbered by hundreds.

The first moves of the rival terrorists was to recruit 10,000 members in cells of from seven to 10, and to assassinate Calvo, head of the Porra, on July 9, 1932.

Opens Week of Terror. Striking swiftly, Machado obtained dictatorial powers from Congress, converted 15,000 soldiers and 7,000 rural guards into a police force, and opened Cuba's "Week of Terror."

Doors were battered down, automobiles searched and civilians dragged out for floggings; cavalry clustered into cafes. Yet the undaunted ABC exploded bombs every 15 minutes throughout the entire week.

Cuba had less to fear, however, when Sumner Welles, chief of the island as the new United States Ambassador. The death rate fell, 350 prisoners were released—alive—and no more mutilated bodies littered the streets. Bill posters called for revolt and broke out in Santa Clara, Camaguey and Oriente provinces, where 2000 insurgents had overpowered rural guards and seized arms to augment those smuggled in from Florida and Mexico.

Two days later, a general strike of bus drivers, stevedores, butchers and market workers broke out. It spread to newspapers, telegraph and telephone, railways and hotels, and caused a securities market break. And old business ships shunned the island. A pirate radio station began broadcasting: "Make August strikes the August revolution."

Strikers set out to loot the palace, shouting: "Machado is out!" Soldiers and police in front of the American bar, the palace and the capitol machine-gunned the crowds, killing 26, wounding 150. From then on, Machado ruled under a "state of war."

He rejected Ambassador Welles' suggestion that he leave Cuba for a fortnight, or until things calmed down; he did not seem to realize his days were few until President Roosevelt warned him that the United States would act unless order was promptly restored. No Cuban president survives without active United States support, and Machado could not quiet the island.

Machado Flees by Plane. On Aug. 11, the guns of Cabana fortress were turned on the $2,000,000 presidential palace. They protected a deputation of army officers led by Lieut.-Col. Julio Sangnully. "You must go now tomorrow," Sangnully said. "All right, my boy," mumbled Machado. Next morning Havana rightly shouted, "Machado is out."

With a mob sacking the palace, with another roasting prize steers at Machado's country estate, the deposed president and five companions fled in a plane, leaving Col. Antonio Jimenez, chief of the Porra, behind in his haste. Cornered on the Prado, Jimenez was shot down.

By the time the revolutionists had set the newspaper plant of the Heraldo de Cuba ablaze, and had destroyed a monument to Machado, the fleeing ex-president had registered at the North Victoria Hotel, at Nassau, Bahamas.

He deposited $500,000 in gold at the Bank of England's branch office. Army revolt leaders found only $2,500,000 left in the Cuban Treasury.

Machado's family, three daughters, their husbands and five granddaughters, and Senora Elvira Machado, his estranged wife; were put on his armored yacht for Key West and entrained north. Last Municipal Opera Singer Wins Award to Be Announced Sunday.

Annamary Dickey of Decatur, Ill., 27-year-old soprano of the Municipal Opera, cast for the last two years, has won the Metropolitan Grand Opera radio auditions. She will receive a Metropolitan contract, a silver plaque and $1000 during the Metropolitan Opera radio auditions program Sunday, when the formal announcement is made.

Miss Dickey is one of six finalists selected over a 26-week period from among 639 who appeared during preliminary auditions and 54 who appeared on the program. Margaret Carlisle of Elgin, Ill., another popular St. Louis Municipal Opera soprano, is also among the six finalists.

Miss Dickey sang minor roles when she was first engaged by the Municipal Opera in 1937. However, she got her chance early that season when Bernice Claire, whose understudy she was, developed laryngitis and she was called on to step into Miss Claire's role as Rest in "The Great Waltz."

Her satisfactory performance caused the management to give her the leading part in Jerome Kern's "Music in the Air" two weeks later. She proved to be a soloist easily heard above the chorus and accompanied and was well received by the audience, which included a delegation of Decatur residents.

Miss Dickey attended James Millikin University at Decatur, a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music and has sung with the Cincinnati and other opera companies. As a high school girl she frequently visited the Metropolitan Opera. She is a niece of the late Clark Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Clifford, 4738 Westminster place.

Bill to Change Lincoln Board.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 30 (AP).—The House passed yesterday, 121 to 1, a bill to increase the board of curators at Lincoln University from seven to nine members. The measure provides that four curators must be Negroes and not more than five can be of the same political party.

exiles mob them in New York, however, the Machados left the train at West Philadelphia, where one of the sons-in-law, Oregon, had difficulty getting change for a $1000 bill he peeled from a roll.

Dodging Arrest, Machado went from Nassau to Montreal, to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., New York City, Philadelphia, and then in July, 1934, to Santo Domingo. But there was no rest for him; Dominican authorities foiled a plot of eight Havana students to kill him in his sick bed, and Machado departed in Italy, took ship to France, dodged an attempt to extradite him by slipping into a German ship, then caught a train for Switzerland when German secret police told him of a new effort to get him back in Cuba. Machado went back to Montreal, drifting into oblivion from there, but he did not emerge until November, 1937, when he was arrested in a New York hospital on a Cuban warrant charging mass murder, embezzlement and other crimes. But in a general amnesty, granted by the Cuban Congress and signed by President Laredo Bru on Christmas eve of 1937, Machado was freed, the charges dropped. A fugitive no longer, but seriously ill, Machado returned to Bermuda and later went to Florida.

POLAND BEGINS TALKS WITH NAZIS OVER DANZIG

Seek to Satisfy German Desire for More Authority and at Same Time Assure Own Interest.

UNDERSTANDING SAID TO BE POSSIBLE

Government News Agency Declares People Can Appreciate Vital Interests of Neighbors.

WARSAW, March 30 (AP).—Poland, reluctant to join France and Britain in a bloc against Germany, has started talks with the Nazis to settle the future status of the free city of Danzig, it was learned last night.

It is understood the conversations are intended by the Warsaw and Berlin Governments to attempt satisfaction of Germany's desire for greater authority over the free city and at the same time to guarantee Poland's heavy economic interests there.

Danzig, a city of more than 400,000 population, is largely German. To give Poland, who won her independence in the World War, an outlet to the sea the Baltic port was taken from Germany and made a free city under the protection of the League of Nations.

A slice of former German territory, known as the Polish Corridor, also was given Poland so she could have access to the port which until recent years handled nearly all of Poland's foreign sea-borne commerce.

Danzig already is dominated by Danzig Nazis who succeeded in gaining political power there.

Discussion "Only Natural."

Informed diplomats declared it only "natural" that Poland and Germany are discussing the question. They pointed out that in 1938, when the League of Nations Danzig Commission considered resigning, and when the League suggested abolition of the post of League High Commissioner in Danzig, a committee comprising Britain, France and Sweden advised that direct Polish-German negotiations be undertaken to settle the status of the city.

The Government News Agency distributed a statement that an understanding with Germany over Danzig was possible because "our people can understand vital interests of neighbors."

German Ambassador Hans von Moltke assured Foreign Minister Beck Tuesday that Poland had nothing to fear from Germany. At the same time it was stressed here that Poland will oppose "by all means" outright German annexation of the port.

It has been persistently reported that Germany had suggested negotiations on outright cession of Danzig to Germany without reference to the League, a sovereign German motor road across the Polish corridor connecting East Prussia with Germany proper, increased Polish trade to Germany and Polish adherence to the anti-Communist pact.

Opposed to Joining Pact.

It was especially stressed here that Poland, due to her policy of maintaining strict impartiality between Berlin and Moscow, would not listen to German soundings that she join the pact aimed at the Communist International.

At the same time sources close to the Government repeated that Poland had not received an ultimatum or "anything resembling an ultimatum" from Germany in regard to the Danzig discussions.

Foreign Minister Joseph Beck who leaves for London at the end of the week with the expectation he will hear more of Britain's repeated proposals for a military alliance, will travel by way of Berlin.

His present plans, however, do not call for any talks with German leaders and he is not expected to leave his train while in Berlin.

While Poland proceeded quietly with her military preparations three persons were arrested on charges of spreading "war scare reports." They were sentenced to a month in jail.

It was announced, meanwhile, that the distribution of gas masks would begin soon in Warsaw. They are to be sold on the installment plan—one slot (19 cents) a month for 21 months. Military preparations were said by one foreign diplomat to be continuing so that Poland can "have just as big a revolver on the table as the Nazis when negotiations begin."

The pro-Government newspaper Kurjer Czerwony declared that Poland "remains true to our alliances and also to our pact of non-aggression, and we will not allow ourselves to be dragged into any blocs."

"We are ready to act, but we have no intention of provoking action," Poland and Germany signed a 10-year non-aggression pact in 1934. France and Poland signed a military alliance in 1921.

The Kurjer Czerwony editorial was distributed abroad by the Polish Government News Agency. It asserted also that statements in the Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, Berlin Foreign Office mouthpiece, that Poland avoid listening to "foreign sirens" was a proposal that the two nations come to terms. "Germany also wants to continue the policy of understanding initiated in 1934," it said. The newspaper Kurjer Poranny, published by Marshal Smigly-Rydz, a bid for continued warm relations with the Reich. "We want the Polish-German non-aggression treaty to be continued in the same spirit wherein it was negotiated in 1934 by Hitler and the late Marshal Pilsudski," the paper declared.

Incidents Involving Germans. The newspaper continued, in what evidently was an inspired editorial, that "individual incidents" along the Polish-German frontier could easily be settled under the non-aggression agreement. The incidents to which the newspaper referred continued in some parts of Poland.

At Rybnik in Polish Silesia, a group of Poles stripped several Germans of white stockings they wore in imitation of the Nazi movement led by Konrad Henlein in Czechoslovak Sudetenland last year.

In Katowice, a German was arrested for telling fellow office workers that "Hitler will come in here soon."

The Jewish newspaper Nasz Przegląd declared that "Jewish citizens of Poland are putting themselves at the disposition of the Polish republic without reservation. We believe anti-Semitic measures and anti-Semitic demonstrations in Poland are only transitory. All this has nothing in common with the generous spirit of Poland's history."

The Clipper, with 36 persons aboard, made the 2400-mile flight to Honolulu in 15 hours and 4 minutes. Pan-American Airways announced.

MARIAN ANDERSON TO SING AT LINCOLN MEMORIAL EASTER

Will Be Permitted to Give Free Concert. WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—Secretary of the Interior Ickes announced today that Marian Anderson, Negro contralto, would be permitted to give a free public concert at the Abraham Lincoln Memorial here on Easter Sunday. Ickes said the program would be broadcast nationally beginning at 8 p. m. (4 p. m. St. Louis time), under jurisdiction of the National Park Service.

Ickes' decision followed a long controversy over the singer's proposed appearance in the National Capital. First, the Daughters of the American Revolution refused her use of that organization's Constitution Hall on the ground that the hall would be in use until shortly before the proposed recital. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt resigned from the D. A. R. soon thereafter. Subsequently, the public school board denied her permission to sing in the Central High School (for white children) auditorium.

LOS ANGELES POLICE ASSAILED AFTER ATTACK ON ACTRESS

Council Asks If It Can Post Reward for Man Who Beat "Tomboy Taylor" of the Movies. LOS ANGELES, March 30 (AP).—Search continued today for the man who struck down a 17-year-old actress, and the Los Angeles City Council, in a resolution sharply criticizing the police, asked for a ruling on the legality of a reward for the man's capture.

Police Captain D. R. Patton, heading the homicide detail, said he was convinced the assailant of Della Bogard, once the pig-tailed "Tomboy Taylor" of the "Mickey McGuire" film series was the same man who killed Anya Sosoyeva, Russian dancer, on the Los Angeles City College campus Feb. 25. Hospital attendants said Miss Bogard's skull might be fractured, but that X-ray photographs had not been taken.

Joseph D. Bushane, 43-year-old dancer, was booked at the city jail on suspicion of murder, after his arrest on an anonymous tip. Several other men were questioned and released. The search was concentrated on a tall suspect with unusually long arms, described by one witness.

FOUR HURT IN COLLISION, HEAD-ON WITH ANOTHER AUTO

Accident Occurs When Driver Attempts to Pass Truck Near Meramec River. Four residents of De Soto, Mo., were injured last night when their automobile collided head-on with another on Highway 61, about half a mile south of the Meramec River.

The injured are: Edwin Thal and Luther Heffron, who are in Alexian Brothers' Hospital with severe lacerations; Miss Elizabeth Thal, who is at City Hospital with fractures of the skull and the right leg; and Noel Higginbotham, in City Hospital with a fractured pelvis.

Constable Joseph Brockhaus said the driver of the other automobile, Floyd Thompson, 1541 South Broadway, and a passenger in Thompson's machine, were not injured. Higginbotham told St. Louis police the collision occurred when Thal attempted to pass a truck.

JOBLESS INCREASE ONE PER CENT

10,700,000 Unemployed in February, Industrial Board Reports. NEW YORK, March 30 (AP).—Unemployment in the United States increased 1 per cent during February to a total of 10,700,000 persons, the National Industrial Conference Board reports. The board is a research organization supported largely by corporations.

Despite this increase in unemployment, the number of persons employed dropped only one-tenth of one per cent from the figure in January. The difference in the figures is due to the number of young people who became available for employment.

ALIEN IN COURT WITH NO PA SAYS RELIEF GAVE WRONG S

"If You Don't Like This Court Get Out," Chicago Judge Says in Sending Him to Jail. CHICAGO, March 30 (AP).—Theophanis appeared with trousers in Judge Thomas Greer's courtroom yesterday. The judge peered at the blundering defendant and listened to complaints. He was wearing a blanket because the Relief Administration had given him size trousers after he had asked size 42. The court was told that Theophanis had lived in America years, was not a citizen and been on relief five years.

"You have a lot of nerve," Judge Greer commented. "If you like this country or the pants, out!"

Theophanis will don the customary dress of the Bridwell where he was sent to work of $200 fine on a disorderly conduct charge.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
CLEVELAND STEEL HEIRSS MAN HE INVESTIGATED PAID EX-CONSUL $2000
Former U. S. Official Tells of Gift at Suit Against Sugar King's Estate.
NEW YORK, March 30 (AP).—William G. Roll of Oakland, Cal., former American Vice-Consul in Bremen, Germany, told in United States District Court yesterday of receiving $2000 from Johann Frederick Hackfeld in 1924 after investigating the late Hawaiian sugar king for the State Department.
His acceptance of the money was in violation of State Department rules, but he testified he did not tell department officials about it until 1937, five years after Hackfeld's death and eight years after his retirement from the Consular service.
Roll was a witness for the Government in its suit to recover $881,298 from Hackfeld's estate. The Government alleges Hackfeld was overpaid this amount in 1924 when his sugar properties were seized. He received about $400,000. As an American citizen, he would have been entitled to the full amount, but the Government alleges he was a German citizen and entitled to but 80 per cent of the value.
Hackfeld was in Germany in 1914 and remained there until 1924. When he applied in Bremen for an American passport, stating he was an American citizen, Roll said the State Department directed him to learn whether Hackfeld had registered as a German during the World War.
Roll said his investigation disclosed Hackfeld had not registered, and that he lost his German citizenship in 1888.
Some months after the issuance of a passport, Roll said, Hackfeld gave him $2000 in appreciation of his "fair and impartial investigation."

new divisions in the Wuning sector, 65 miles northwest of Nanchang, enabled them to push the Japanese back and capture "great numbers of artillery pieces, machine-guns and other equipment."
Chinese, continuing to deny Japanese reports of occupation of Nanchang, Kiangsi capital, said fighting still was in progress in the streets there, and that Chinese air squadrons bombed Japanese lines north of the city, destroying 20 tanks.
Japanese airmen reported bombing hangars and barracks at Liangshan, a Chinese airbase in Szechwan Province.
Chinese Drive Against Sinyang.
The Chinese launched an offensive against Sinyang, 110 miles north of Hankow on the Peiping-Hankow Railway, coincidentally with a Japanese announcement that the railway was ready to resume traffic between Hankow and Sinyang. Japanese engineers had just completed repairs on the Wuhan-Hankow bridge, permitting resumption of limited operations after many months.
Sinyang was reported to be under shellfire and Chinese infantrymen were said to have made three assaults which drove Japanese who had taken up positions outside the walls back toward the city.
The Italian steamer Romolo reported pirates had raided it at the mouth of the Yangtze River and took baled cotton, chickens, goats and nearly all the clothes of 300 Chinese passengers before escaping. A message to Augustinian officials from Anking said that seven Spanish Jesuit priests were held captive by Chinese guerrillas in the Wild Lake Talu region near the Anhwei-Hupeh provincial borders. Ransom demands had not been made.

BUTTERFLY CHOP NEW FASHION IN MEAT

Cut From Boned Pork Loin It Makes Dainty Main Dish for Luncheon.

A dainty yet substantial main dish for your spring luncheon party is a platter of "butterfly" pork chops. These pork chops are boneless cuts, made from the loin, with the bone removed. They may also be made from the lean section of the ham end of pork loin.

Butterfly pork chops are double slices; that is, each pair of slices is cut not quite through, and the connected slices are then opened out, forming "wings." These wings can be decorated very prettily with strips of pimiento and green pepper, or in other ways which may occur to you.

Butterfly pork chops are cooked like other pork chops, that is by braising. Here are two ways of preparing them.

Butterfly Pork Chops, Breaded.
Six butterfly pork chops.
One clove garlic.
One green pepper.
Salt and pepper.
One pimiento.

Rub the skillet with a cut clove of garlic. Brown the double slices on both sides in hot fat, then reduce the temperature, add a small amount of water, cover closely and let the chops cook slowly until thoroughly done, about one hour. Serve on a hot platter and garnish with parsley and strips of pimiento and green pepper.

Butterfly Pork Chops, Braised.
Six butterfly pork chops.
One egg.
Four tablespoons milk.
One and one-half cups cracker crumbs.
Six tablespoons lard or bacon drippings.
Salt and pepper.

Dip chops in egg, mixed with milk, then in finely rolled bread or cracker crumbs. Brown in lard or bacon drippings. Season. Reduce the temperature, add a small amount of water. Cover the pan and cook slowly until the chops are thoroughly done, about one hour. This long slow cooking until thoroughly done brings out the rich, delicious flavor which makes pork chops a favorite.

Serve the chops garnished with slices of cinnamon apples. These are made by simmering the apples, which have been pared and quartered, in a syrup made of sugar and water, flavored with cinnamon and tinted with a little red coloring.

Another tasty accompaniment for pork chops is pineapple and pimiento sauce.

Pineapple-Pimiento Sauce.
Drain the juice from a small can of crushed pineapple and turn the fruit into a skillet in which two tablespoons of butter are melted. Add a few slivers of pimiento for color and flavor. Stir until well blended and very hot and arrange in a border around the chops.

COOKED FLAKED FISH MAKES NEW LENTEN DISH

Some new ideas for Lenten meals? Well, here's a tempting way to serve salmon that also is simple to prepare. Other flaked fish can be used in the same way.

Salmon Pastry Logs.
One and one-half cups flour.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
Two and one-fourth teaspoons baking powder.
Four and one-half tablespoons butter.
One-half cup milk.
One one-pound can salmon (about two cups flaked).
Melted butter.

Mix and sift the flour, salt and baking powder. Cut in the butter with two knives or rub in with the fingertips. Stir in the milk, mixing just enough to moisten the dry ingredients. Turn the dough onto a floured board and knead lightly for a few seconds. Roll out thin and cut into six rectangular pieces about five by eight inches. Add one-half cup of white sauce (recipe given here) to the salmon, mix well and add additional salt and pepper if desired. Place by spoonfuls in the

LAST CALL FOR FAVORITE MARCH DISH—SEASONED IRISH STEW

HERE is the last call for March's favorite dish, Irish stew. A bit of pickling spice and some marjoram provide that intangible flavor which many cooks strive to attain.

Irish Stew.
Three pounds neck of lamb or mutton.
Four large onions, sliced.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Four potatoes, diced.
Two quarts water.
Pickling spice and marjoram.
One egg yolk.
Have the meat cut in two-inch chunks, boil the water and drop in the meat and onions, the spices and simmer three hours. Half an hour before the meat is done remove the spice bag and add the potatoes. Season with salt and pepper and add the beaten yolk of an egg. Serve with dumplings if you wish. Be sure it is very hot.

bake in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) for 15 to 20 minutes or until brown. Make white sauce as follows:
Two and one-half tablespoons butter.
Four tablespoons flour.
Two cups milk.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
Few grains pepper.
Melt the butter in a double boiler.

add the flour and mix well. Add the milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add the salt and pepper. Take out one-half cup for the salmon mixture and serve the remainder of the sauce on the salmon logs when they are baked. If desired, one-third cup of mayonnaise or a little chopped pickle may be added to the sauce. Reheat. Serves six.

Eggs Mornay With Ham.
Poach eggs and place on thin rounds of broiled ham. Surround them with croutons browned in butter. Cover with a medium white sauce to which a generous amount of grated Parmesan cheese has been added. Sprinkle the top with bread crumbs and grated cheese and dot with bits of butter. Brown in broiler oven.

Lamb à la King.
Take two cups of cold cooked lamb cut into cubes. Melt four tablespoons butter and combine for tablespoons flour with it. Gradually add one cup of milk and one cup of lamb stock or hot water, and stir until the sauce is thickened. Then

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
CONFECTION COOKIES FILL

NEED FOR SPRING SWEET

Spring cookies that go with the noon glass of milk or into lunch boxes fill the need for sweets at this time of year. Here is a confection cookie which is very easy to make.

Crumb Wafers.
One cup graham cracker crumbs. One-half cup shredded coconut or chopped nut meats. One-half cup sweetened condensed milk.

Three egg whites. Blend together graham cracker crumbs, shredded coconut (or chopped nut meats) and sweetened condensed milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop by spoonfuls on baking sheet covered with wax paper. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 minutes, or until a delicate brown. Remove from pan at once. Makes two dozen cookies.

SPICE CAKE
Two cups cake flour. One teaspoon soda. One-fourth teaspoon salt. One-half teaspoon cinnamon. One-half teaspoon nutmeg. One-fourth teaspoon cloves (may be omitted). One-half cup butter or similar fat. Two cups brown sugar. Two eggs. One cup sour milk. One-half teaspoon vanilla. Sift flour, measure, and sift with soda and spices, three times. Cream butter, add sifted sugar gradually, creaming well. Add eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Add flour mixture alternately with sour milk, stirring until smooth after each addition. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased and lightly floured 8-inch cake pans in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes. One-half cup coarsely chopped nuts or raisins may be added to batter with the vanilla, if desired. Frost with white or caramel frosting.

GRAHAM CREAM CAKE
One-half cup butter. One cup sugar. Three eggs, separated. Two-thirds cup milk. One-fourth teaspoon salt. Twenty-five Graham crackers. Two and one-half teaspoons baking powder. One cup chopped pecans. One teaspoon vanilla. Two cups whipping cream. Cream butter and sugar together. Add beaten egg yolks, milk, salt, and heat well. Crush crackers fine and mix with baking powder and add to first mixture. Add one-half cup chopped pecans, vanilla, and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into two greased eight-inch layer cake pans and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 20-25 minutes. Cool. Fill and top cake with whipped, sweetened and vanilla flavored cream and sprinkle with chopped pecans.

LAMB PATTIES
Two pounds ground lamb. One-fourth cup finely chopped onion. One cup soft fine bread crumbs. One egg, well beaten. Combine finely ground lamb, chopped onion, bread crumbs and egg. Season with salt and pepper. Mix well and shape into cakes one inch thick. Place in a hot skillet and brown on both sides. Then reduce the temperature and allow the patties to cook slowly until done, pouring off the fat as it accumulates. Current mint sauce, made by mixing one teaspoon of finely chopped mint and one-half teaspoon of grated orange peel with one-half cup currant jelly, is a tasty sauce to serve with lamb patties. Place a teaspoon of the sauce on each patty.

VEGETABLE MEAT LOAF
Two pounds finely ground steak. One egg. One-fourth cup finely chopped onion. One and one-half teaspoons salt. One-fourth teaspoon pepper. One medium size can vegetable soup. Two cups rice flakes. Mix ingredients thoroughly. Pat into rolls and put into a roaster, the bottom of which has been greased. Sprinkle roll lightly with flour and sear in hot oven until brown. Pour one-half cup water around roll, cover and continue baking in hot oven of 425 degrees F. for one hour. Uncover and rebrown slightly. If liquid evaporates, add one-half cup water. Whole onions or potatoes may be cooked around roll, if desired.

BRAN DATE BARS
Three eggs. One and one-half cups brown sugar. Three-fourths cup flour. Three-fourths teaspoon baking powder. One-half cup bran. One cup chopped nut meats. One-half cup dates, chopped. One-half teaspoon salt. Beat eggs, add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Add to first mixture with remaining ingredients and mix well. Spread batter one-half inch thick in shallow greased baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 to 30 minutes. While warm, cut into squares or bars. Roll each piece in powdered sugar. Yield, 30 bars.

STUFFED TOMATOES
Four tomatoes. Two cups fresh or canned shrimp. One and one-half cups diced celery. Two hard cooked eggs, chopped. Mayonnaise. Remove dark line from chilled shrimp and cut in halves. Combine with eggs, celery, salt and pepper to taste, and mayonnaise. Peel tomatoes, remove top and scoop out center carefully. Stuff tomatoes with shrimp salad, and serve on bed of lettuce. Serves four.

BRAN GRIDDLE CAKES

Two eggs. One-fourth cup sugar. Two and one-fourth cups milk. Three cups flour. Two tablespoons baking powder. One and one-half teaspoons salt. One-half cup melted fat. One-half cup bran. Beat eggs and sugar until light and fluffy; add milk and mix well. Sift with baking powder and salt; add to first mixture, stirring until flour disappears. Add melted and cooled fat, mixing carefully. Fold in bran. Bake on hot griddle, turning only once. Yield 15 cakes, 5 1/2 inches in diameter.

USE THIS AMAZING
CLEANER THAT ACTUALLY

GREASE!

It's true—grease is to blame for 90% of your scouring and scrubbing. And don't think this refers just to pots and pans! It means that 90% of the work of cleaning bathtubs, sinks, stoves and refrigerators is also caused by grease. A greasy binder holds dirt practically everywhere today.

That's why 2,000,000 women have changed to Bab-O. Bab-O dissolves grease! Bab-O contains a special ingredient that attacks grease instantly, and speeds it away. With grease gone, there's no need for scouring and scrubbing, as with ordinary cleaners. You simply wipe surfaces clean.

Less scouring not only means less work. It means less danger to lustre of costly enamel. And Bab-O saves you money, too. You get more cleaning per can. So get Bab-O today at your grocer's. Just try it!

There is "DAVID HARRIS" 15-15-15 A.L.T. Monday thru Friday 8:30 to 10:00 P.M. Saturday 10:00 to 12:00 P.M.

Partner with experience or money can be located through the Post-Dispatch Want Ad Columns.

SALES HAVE LISTEN TO THE CLOSE

Centers on Steels and Motors, Leaders Topping 1 to More Than 4 Points—Apparently Touched off by Liquidation From London.

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—Heavy last-minute selling, centering on steels and motors, hit the stock market a withering blast today and toppled leaders one to more than four points.

After creeping most of the session, the ticker tape fell behind several minutes in the final hour as large blocks of pivotal issues changed hands on the downside. Transfers were 984,600 shares.

Of a total of 847 individual stocks traded in today's 64 declined, 117 were unchanged and 66 advanced.

The late relapse apparently was touched off by liquidation from London on unfurnished rumors of financial troubles between Germany and Poland. In addition, gloom was deepened by private commission house cables from Great Britain to the effect informed sources feared a new European upheaval was brewing.

Yesterday's speech of French Premier Daladier, in answer to Mussolini, was thought to have made little change in the overseas picture. London, Amsterdam and Paris markets did better at the start, but eventually slipped.

Aside from the foreign scene, financial quarters failed to derive much stimulation from business news or Washington developments. U. S. Government securities pointed upward until near the finish when they gave ground rapidly with the rest of the bond department.

Among the losers, Wheat at Chicago was up 1/4 to 1/2 of a bushel and corn advanced 1/4 to 1/2 cent. Cotton, in the afternoon, was off 25 cents a bale to up 10 cents. Near mid-afternoon sterling and the French franc were unchanged at $4.685 and 2.645 cents, respectively.

Among falling stocks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Rubber and Anaconda.

Some resistance was displayed by Roving, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, U. S. Central, Pennsylvania, J. C. Penney, Westworth, Western Union and American Smelting. U. S. Industrial Alcohol was a lively slider, dropping more than 3 points after the close in the wake of a United States Court of Appeals decision making the company liable for some $50,000 in Federal taxes.

Bell Aircraft and Lockheed contested the trend in the curb. On the declining end here were Electric Bond & Share, Newmont, Lake Shore and Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

News of the Day. Dampening bullish ardor were dispatches indicating Rome was viewing with disfavor the French Premier's address, while at the same time, Mussolini, talking to a cheering crowd, affirmed Italy's intention not to remain a prisoner in the Mediterranean.

WHEAT AND CORN PRICES HIGHER IN LAST TRADE

CHICAGO, Mar. 30 (AP).—Wheat prices rose about 1/4 cent in the last half hour of trading today as buying from milling and export interests expanded slightly. Scattered orders from commission houses disclosed a temporary scarcity of sellers at around 67 1/2¢ for both May and July contracts but when prices reached 68¢ there were increased offers.

Wheat closed 1/4¢ higher than yesterday, May 68¢, July 67 1/2¢; corn 1/2¢ up, May 47 1/2¢, July 46 1/2¢; oats 1/4¢ higher.

Approximately 100,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were sold from the Pacific Coast to the United Kingdom along with some American hard wheat to the coast. Business in corn was confined to small lots from Gulf and Atlantic ports to the United Kingdom.

At noon wheat was unchanged to 1/4¢ higher compared with yesterday's finish. May and July 67 1/2¢, while corn was also unchanged to 1/2¢ up, May 47 1/2¢, July 46 1/2¢. Speculative activity was at a minimum and price changes for the most part reflected transactions in connection with commercial business. Chicago quotations held within a range of only 1/4 cent in early dealings and were virtually unchanged from yesterday's close.

British interests stepped into the corn market yesterday with the purchase of five Argentine cargoes for April shipment at 65¢ cents compared with 64¢ cents quoted for American No. 3 yellow corn at 62¢ cents for Argentine corn for May shipment. This tended to encourage hope for any substantial United States corn business for Britain in the near future.

Corn prices also were very steady, while trade in oats and rye was at a minimum. Local dealings were slow, but prices were quoted 3 to 5 cents higher on reports of improved exports and indications of better domestic consumption.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE.

OATS—No. 1 white 34 1/2¢; red 33 1/2¢.

Argentine wheat and corn opened unchanged. At noon wheat was unchanged to 1/4¢ higher and corn unchanged to 1/4¢ up.

Case Records of a PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Of Northwestern University

YOUNG men and women who bring a great deal of "horse sense" to college, profit from their university courses. Those without "horse sense" are worse off than if they had stayed home. Read how George and Philip paid 50 cents tuition for a lesson in "horse sense."

CASE L-171: George, aged 9, is my oldest son. The other day he saw a toy boat in a store window. Eagerly he ran home to get his money, meanwhile taking Philip, aged 8, along with him.

George thought the boat would be about 25 cents. However, it cost 50 cents. He didn't have that much cash, so he inveigled Philip into going into partnership and investing 25 cents. Philip flabbed his quarter out of his pocket, and the sale was made. In great elation they came home with the boat. But within three hours George was wondering if he could exchange the boat and get his money back again.

His mother told him he might go back to the shop keeper and try. But introverted George was shy about following her advice. Meanwhile, Philip decided he'd like to have his quarter back again. He asked George to buy him out. George didn't have enough money, and besides, he wanted to sell, instead of buy. Then Philip accused George of being responsible for "robbing him in."

PHILIP SAID he hadn't really wanted the boat in the first place but George made him go into partnership. George countered by saying Philip hadn't been forced to join with him. He said he had simply asked Philip to do so, and Philip had accepted.

After the quarrel had ended and they were still unwilling possessors of the boat, Philip came to me and put on a sales talk, trying to sell me his share. I told him they had paid too much money for the boat, so he couldn't sell me his share. He agreed to compromise and sell me a 25-cent share for only 20 cents. But I told him I had no use for a boat, so we didn't do business.

The boys made a mistake. They looked on the wine while it was red. Nature is a valuable teacher, and they paid her 50 cents tuition for this lesson.

In college we pay tuition in order to be taught. In life we also pay tuition. And it is far better that the boys make an unwise expenditure of 50 cents at their age, and thereby learn a valuable lesson in business, than that they reach adulthood and sink $500 in an automobile which they don't need and which in a few days they wish they could exchange again for their original investment.

THEY PAID 50 cents tuition, therefore, to get a lesson in "horse sense." The only way our children can develop "horse sense" or practical judgment is by making their own decisions. We can advise them and point out the pros and cons, thereby helping them avoid too much pain, but they must make the choices. If these are unwise, then they must take their medicine.

That was why I didn't buy Philip's share. He really put on a pretty good job of salesmanship, but I thought the lesson would sink in a bit deeper if he remained stuck with his unwise investment. They'll be cautious when they buy another boat. In fact, they'll probably try to build their boats henceforth. This lesson may not carry over to other fields, unfortunately, so they'll probably make additional mistakes, but they'll profit by them.

Remember, too, that youthful mistakes of this sort are usually much less disastrous than those made after adulthood. A spendthrift husband cheats his entire family. George and Philip hurt only themselves.

Lively Ghost Towns

By Inez Robb

TONOPAH, Nev., March 30. THE ghost towns of the West are as lively today as a haunted house on Halloween. The ghost walks through what were once abandoned, spectral mining towns and rattles his chains, forged by gold, silver, copper and baser metals.

The high price of gold and new and inexpensive methods of treating low-grade ores, the pegged price of silver and wars and rumors of wars in which copper is a basic necessity have stimulated the mining industry in Nevada and throughout the West into the most feverish activity it has known in decades.

In the past the mines around Virginia City, the richest and most famous mining camp in America, poured forth more than a billion dollars in gold and silver. The famous Comstock lode alone enriched its owners and the nation with $400,000,000 in silver and $300,000,000 in gold. Sixty thousand persons were jammed into Virginia City and its "suburbs," Goldhill and Silver City.

In 1933, there were 128 persons in Virginia City. Wild horses roamed the rutted streets of a ghostly town, a half dozen bootleggers were the only business men left in the vicinity and there were four street lights to cast eerie shadows on buildings tumbling into ruins and to flicker on abandoned mining shafts.

Today, dozens of bare electric bulbs strung onto a telephone pole light up Virginia City after dark; lights flicker in unoccupied houses that have been abandoned for years and between three and four thousand persons are living and mining in Virginia City, Goldhill and Silver City.

Some are mining new ore, some are reworking the old dumps. In the old days between 1873 and 1882 when the Comstock lode, Con Virginia and the other famous Virginia City mines were at their peak, ore was so rich and the methods of treating ores so imperfect that it was unprofitable to work ore yielding less than $50 a ton. Today with the price of gold what it is, it's possible to make $3 ore pay.

That's why the old gold dumps throughout the West are being reworked and profitable, but new mines and new ore are yielding pay dirt, too. Once a prospector always a prospector.

In my nonstop marathon through large parts of the Nevada mining territory, from Goldfield through Tonopah to Virginia City to the copper pits of Ruth and Kimberly, I have encountered dozens of old Nestors with sufficient grubstake to carry them through the hard times of the gold in them that mountains. Hope springs eternal in mining country.

The Getchell mine is one of the new properties. It is yielding pockets full of gold for George Wingfield, Nevada's first citizen, Noble G. Getchell, and a group of investors. Rumor says that Wingfield, who was broke when State Senator Getchell picked up this property a few years ago, could sell his stake in the mine for $8,000,000 today. There is an even more romantic story that Barney Baruch of New York, an old friend of Wingfield, grubstaked his Nevada friend to the tune of $150,000 until he and Getchell got their new and rich property on its anything but clay feet.

All the Nevada mining towns none has the romantic fascination of Virginia City, 22 miles from Reno. Riches poured out of this mountain town as they have never poured out of a mining district before or since.

It was gold from this Nevada camp, particularly from the Comstock lode, that built San Francisco, for old James G. Fair, who later became a United States Senator from California; James Flood, the Crocker and dozens of lesser mining kings took their millions to San Francisco, built mansions and spent their fortunes there.

Eyes Require Washing Only When Irritated

Daily Use of Drops Is Inclined to Weaken Natural Defenses.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE eye needs no treatment to keep it healthy if it is already healthy. I mean that a daily eye wash is unnecessary. The eye washes itself, with a constant flow of a neutral lubricating fluid secreted by the lacrimal, or tear, glands. The fluid is slightly antiseptic and prevents the growth of germs under ordinary circumstances. It washes out or dissolves all sorts of dust and foreign matter which naturally gets into the eyes on account of their constant exposure to the air.

To put drops in the eyes at night or in the morning, or to use an eye cup to wash them when there is nothing the matter, is not only unnecessary but positively likely to bring on trouble, as the eye wash probably weakens the defenses.

The eye, however, as we say, is constantly exposed to irritation and infection, and sooner or later, in all cases, the defenses break down and it succumbs. There is hardly any human being who has not once had a case of pinkeye, or at least irritation of the lids with some little gummy secretion in the morning. When these minor irritations occur, it is then time to use the boric acid—a saturated solution—either dropped or used in an eye cup. The eye cup should be nearly filled with the solution. Lean over at your washstand, press the eye firmly into the eye cup, then throw the head back, and with the eye cup held partly by suction, open and shut the eyelids rapidly four or five times until the eyeball is completely cleansed. The boric acid should cause no pain or discomfort, but on the contrary should be soothing.

Infections along the lids, consisting of small hair follicle infections, hardly big enough to be called styas, are annoying and should be treated with a 10 per cent solution of alcohol gently brushed over the edge of the lid with a camel's hair brush. An old, reliable remedy for this is ointment of the yellow oxide of mercury, standard strength. Many oculists, however, think this old remedy is ineffective and prefer ointment of zinc sulphate.

In conjunctivitis, which is the stylish name for pinkeye, for an acute form, the latest advice is that we can save six to eight days of discomfort by using one-half per cent solution of zinc sulphate. Boric acid is too weak in these cases and argrol, a favorite remedy, in the solution of 10 per cent has comparatively little effect in cases of acute conjunctivitis. Methylene blue in very concentrated solution is effective, but should be used only by an expert oculist.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. V. D.: "I would like to know if you could tell me a cure for granulated eyelids. In the morning a scab or crust is formed over them. I wash them, but this only makes them red and bad looking."

Answer—The chances are that this might be a case of trachoma, in which event you certainly should consult a good oculist. Ordinary granulated eyelids clear up with the use of a weak solution of methylene blue and painting the edges of the eyelids with a 10 per cent alcohol solution.

F. K.: "I would greatly appreciate your advice on the efficacy of liver injection by hypodermic for secondary anemia."

Answer—If the diagnosis is correct and it is really secondary anemia, iron is better than liver extract.

On Broadway—By Walter Winchell

Memos of a Columnist's Girl Friday

DEAR MR. W.: Larry Schwab, the producer of so many hits (in the era of Good Shows) was in. Said that Equity is figuring on a minimum salary of $75 a week for Broadway actors. "Why not include producers?" said Larry sarcastically. "Has anybody ever called them 'Dillinger'?" The wife of an oil executive gave a disgraceful exhibition at the Stork Club. After the entire party was ejected, she caused such a rumpus outside that the police came. The Stork Club, however, got flashlight pictures showing her at her ugliest and are sending them to her to show her what a woman looks like when she is a saloon fighter. What a clever way of getting even with her! Don't forget Jack Osterman's rap on 52d at his party, Frances Williams, has class. She is electricity with blue eyes.

That Meyer Davis thing in The New Yorker mag which alleged that his office wall contains a rap by you—is a little sappy. . . . It was a rap of an oil executive gave a disgraceful exhibition at the Stork Club. After the entire party was ejected, she caused such a rumpus outside that the police came. Are Americans Men of Action Or Spectators?

A Young Reader Believes Only Few Perform, Rest Prefer to Watch.

By Elsie Robinson

ARE we Americans just a bunch of nosy lookers-on . . . big-mouthed critics . . . flashy fakers and pompous pretenders . . . but not a honest-to-goodness go-getter to a carload?

Young Jack Infield of Milwaukee, who is like to know, Jack's just 22 and choofy of pride in his country and faith in his fellow-citizens. But he's beginning to wonder. Are we the real goods—or just a flock of phonies?

Young Jack asks—and all his generation asks with him. That's why his letter is being published here. Many will be irritated by it. I can't answer them. I don't know what the world is coming to. But I do know that it would come to much braver and more honest heights if we all had the courage to think as straight as this youngster. Says he—

"There's a new disease sweeping America—spectatoritis. Meaning, we've become a nation of watchers—not doers. We spend our time looking on . . . instead of taking part. 'Have you ever noticed these silly fashions for women that they call 'spectator sports'? Those fashions . . . with their tulle-trimmed blouses and three-inch heels . . . are a symptom of what I mean. They are cut to resemble real sports clothes, but they have actually about as much resemblance to regular sports as a cream puff has to a machine gun. Our 'cowboy' radio choruses are another symbol. Most of those fellows have never been any nearer a 'Wild West' range than Forty-second street. Yet we swallow their stuff, hook, bait and sinker."

"We Americans used to be the real goods. We were so real we had the laugh on all the world. When the World War came along, the Yanks made the other volunteers look like pikers. A Yank could do practically everything. Now, since we've come to depend on machines or stogoes to do everything for us, we're as helpless as babies. 'Everything is handed to us on a platter. We even get our laughs ready made. A few people do all the real thinking and acting for America. The rest of us just do as we are told. No wonder we have become the world's greatest suckers, ready to believe anything that is handed to us, swallowing any new lie that comes along."

"I challenge my fellow young Americans to take active interest in our national life and participate in our government. Let's learn to think for ourselves! Let's be willing to do our parts in bringing better government to all. Or else prepare to take it on the chin!" There's a letter which should stand as a challenge to every American citizen and which deserves to be read in our Congressional Record. Washington would have applauded that youngster's challenge. So would Franklin, Jackson, Lincoln. What are you going to do about it?

Throw it in the waste basket—or start today to do a job on your self?

Four girls have started an "Irene Club" to locate people who appeared in all those "Irene" companies. . . . So let's give it the ink again, anyhow. It is such a grand story. . . . It is supposed to have happened at the window of the Munich conference, at which Chamberlain handed Czecho-Slovakia over to Adolf Hitler. . . . As they shook hands, Hitler said: 'I'd like to have a souvenir of this historic meeting—can I have your umbrella?' . . . 'Heavens, no!' replied Chamberlain. 'That's mine!'

The Translux newswreel on Madison Avenue attracts many anti-New Dealers, and so the theater now edits its newswreels to keep from offending them. It does so much cutting all you ever see lately is Lew Lehr and those Miami bathing beauties. . . . S. Winston Childs, the millionaire backer of Newswreel magazine, entered a contest sponsored by Win magazine. He won $5,000. A chap named McMahon operated "The Streets of Paris" at the Chicago Fair and is owner of that title, he says. . . . Planning a headsache for Harry Richman's N. Y. Worlds Fair version, unless a deal is made, etc. . . . Helena Rubinstein has a new perfume named Orchid. . . . The orchid, however, has no aroma. . . . I heard the Frank Greenberg contract with the Detroit Tigers calls for $38,000 a year. Do you believe that?

—YOUR GIRL FRIDAY.

Weddings — By Emily Post

DEAR MRS. POST: Mother and father will soon have a golden wedding anniversary and we, the children, would like to give a reception in their honor. We wonder if only their friends and our relatives should be invited, or whether we might also invite our own personal friends who in some cases do not know father and mother very well. Will you suggest an invitation that could be sent by all of us together?

Answer: If you would like to ask your friends, too, certainly you may. Two invitations included on a printed slip I have on the subject of wedding anniversaries, would both suit your own case. The first is to be written or printed informally: (not in facsimile of engraving).

The son and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown hope you will come in on Friday evening, June 1st at 9 o'clock to help celebrate their parents' Golden Wedding Anniversary. The second is formally engraved: In honor of the Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown their sons and daughters request the pleasure of (name written in) company on Friday evening, the first of June at nine o'clock (address of reception) R. S. V. P. (name of son or daughter selected to receive answers)

Dear Mrs. Post: I am engaged to marry a girl who is an orphan. That is, she has one sister but she is married and lives so far away that we can't go there for the wedding and can't come on here. She has many good friends, but I do not think any of them could offer to give the wedding. My own parents would be glad to do whatever is proper for them to do, but they are not well enough off to be able to give a big wedding and reception. This is all complicated by the fact that my fiancée would like to be married in church. I have been saving money for a long time to furnish our house and my fiancée has saved, too. So do you think you could share the wedding expenses with her?

Answer: Most of the wedding expenses properly belong to the bride. For a simple church wedding, her expenses would include a not big charge for "opening the church" and for flowers on the altar and the fee to the organist. A few palms merely rented for an hour or so from a florist would provide a completely effective decoration. If you give her the bridal bouquet, her only other expense is for the invitations. She could give a lot of these verbally and write others herself. If she is having bridesmaids, they can carry prayer books made in material to match their dresses instead of bouquets which should be paid for by the bride's family. (In this case, the bride's family.) The groom always buys the boutonniere worn by himself and his own attendants. If your family would like to invite nearest relatives and your and her best friends to their house afterward, this would be quite all right because she has no family, except yours. Wedding cake, fruit punch, sandwiches and a fruit punch would be adequate refreshments at a between meal hour.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
JUST what do you think of a young married man who has a college education and who, when he visits relatives or friends, makes this inquiry immediately: "What are we going to have to eat?" or "Is the chicken ready?"

As soon as the meal is announced, he is the first one at the table and starts eating before anyone else is served. He eats so greedily that he doesn't care whether anyone else gets anything or not. A nice example he is setting for his children! All this worries his little wife, who is trying to break him of the habit.

Sometimes this inexcusable greediness and crudeness is caused by nervousness. There are persons who readily admit that they gorge and eat more than they really care for because of this unaccountable nervous urge. I believe I should be tempted, were I his wife, to decline to go out to dine, even with the family unless he were willing to try to act as a gentleman should. The family should discipline him by serving him last, not first. And a few strong hints in private from members of the family should have some weight.

Dear Martha Carr:
I AM A YOUNG lady, 22 years of age, a housewife and mother of twins. They are darling little girls. We are very proud parents, and do so much want to make a home for them and be able to give them the things that all children should have. My husband is trying very hard to establish a business of his own. He had no capital to start with, therefore everything he turns out goes for more material and at the same time, our living expenses keep piling up.

His customers are all high-class people, but his kind of work being so slow to turn out, he has taken a position of the same kind and tries to do his shop work at night. The result is that he is going to lose out with both.

If I could obtain a position and take over some of the expenses, he then could go back to his shop, hire a man, and I'm most certain that soon he would have a paying business. I have a talent and ambition of my own. Before the babies were born I went to evening classes of fashion drawing. I can copy well and would like to further my education in that field. To do so, I will have to get a job of some kind. I would like a place where I could further my training and at the same time receive some salary, if that is possible.

I know that some of your readers will criticize me, but I am sure they won't be the understanding kind. I don't believe any man can work like a mechanical man and hold up for long. Instead of one working himself to death, why not a little co-operation from the other? As it is, we never know when Sunday or a holiday comes. We believe in God and believe He will help those who try to help themselves. We are happy when we have time to stop and realize it. Perhaps there is something to the old saying, "A slow and hard beginning makes a good ending."

Whether or not a wife should, besides doing her part, the home-making, add that of going out into business, is a question that is difficult for anyone else to decide. Of course, if the husband is in ill health and not physically able to spend the usual time in business, a strong wife would reach out and help with his part of the contract. But most men do not expect or accept help in the regular business of making a living if they are not incapacitated in some way. I believe that "doing with less," until troublous financial times pass, is the best plan; self-sacrifice within reason brings its reward via this route. My "Occupations for Women" may help you. HE DOESN'T RUN JUST TO WIN

Glenn Cunningham—There is no money in amateur athletics.

GOSSIP columnist recently asked, in that chummy inquisitive manner of gossip columnists, what certain famous American mile runner paid an income tax return on $4,000 this year. Officially the question has remained unanswered, but Glenn Cunningham, America's outstanding mile runner, and as well known an amateur athlete as any, will assure you that it was not Cunningham.

"Any talk of big money in track or field athletics is absurd," he declared, settling back onto the window bench in the corridor of Brown Hall, Washington University, where he was scheduled to make a talk during his recent visit to St. Louis. "Track is one of the few amateur sports left and it always makes me mad when someone looks up one of those stories about the money track men make. We get to travel and we get our traveling expenses paid, but that's all we get."

The real rewards of athletics, according to Cunningham, are quite different and his views on the subject should cause a few thankful moments on the part of those whose sons have already started coming home from school an hour or so later than usual, with the glib explanation, "went out for track today, Ma." For, as the Washington U. student who introduced Cunningham to his student audience said, "Every boy who wants to be a track man uses Cunningham as an ideal," and Cunningham's ideas on track participation are pretty sensible.

First of all, before any preaching about character forming, team work, or any of the usually solemnly advocated advantages of athletics, Cunningham places enjoyment.

"Any boy who goes out for athletics to make money, or to make a letter, or to hear the applause of the crowd is just wasting his time," he argues. "There's been too much stress placed on winning as if that were the only way to enjoy a sport. Win at any price, that's the popular thought. But a boy going out for athletics with the proper attitude doesn't give as much thought to winning as to giving his best performance and enjoying it. If a boy doesn't enjoy his sport, he'd better stay out."

After personal enjoyment comes that important athletic factor, keeping in condition, another phase of athletics that should cause mothers to cheer, since boys who have been had upon request, Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Good Manners So often children are told very carefully just what they should or should not do when they are away from home and yet their manners in the home are dreadful. If more stress is made on tolerance and how to live amiably and politely with the family the need for outside politeness would be done away with. It would be the natural thing to do.

Tip for the Children If you thoroughly enjoyed the good dinner Mother so thoughtfully prepared for you, don't forget to tell her about it. She will feel fully repaid for her effort if you just take time to tell her.

Declarer Too Anxious for Overtricks

Concentrates Too Little on Bringing Home the Contract.

By Ely Culbertson

A match-point duplicate, when a declarer finds himself in an excellent contract and one that he should realize will not be general around the room, he should cast aside all thoughts of overtricks and concentrate on the main point—bringing home the contract.

In the recent Eastern championships top score on a certain board was won by a South player who landed in a one-spade doubled contract. He fulfilled it—but probably does not yet know how near he came to converting his "top" into a nice, fat zero.

North, dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 club Pass 1 spade Double
Pass Pass Pass

I need hardly point out that North's bid was decidedly skimpy for all of his three honor tricks. His selection of one club as the opening bid obviously was based on the thought that this was the only choice that would make rebid problems easy; that is, he could respond to any suit take-out except hearts with one no trump and could raise a one heart response to two. Although this spirit of preparedness was laudable, I do not think much of opening a hand as bare as North's. I must admit, however, that in this case the bid had a marvelous result. East passed over one club with the obvious intention of "trapping." I am inclined to think that he should have risked a one spade overall. His failure to do so had an amusing outcome, since it was then South who bid a spade. South, too, worked on the principle of preparedness. His hand was not quite strong enough to warrant an initial heart response and a later spade bid, hence he avoided this "reverse responding" by mentioning the higher ranking suit first. West's takeout double was logical under the circumstances, but inasmuch as he hardly can be criticized.

West opened the club king and, unfortunately for his team, continued with the queen. Declarer ruffed and led a diamond to the king. Then, in a sudden access of optimism at the thought of possibly making overtricks, declarer led a low heart from dummy. East discarded a diamond (no doubt giving declarer quite a shock) and West won with the 10. At this point a very shrewd play on West's part would have defeated the contract. Admittedly the play required great foresight and imagination, but I do not feel that it should have been beyond the powers of a tournament player. West should have laid down the heart ace, cheerfully relinquishing his tenace position in order to give his partner the opportunity to discard another diamond. West could take it for granted that East had not left in the double without excellent spades, hence the greatest danger from the defenders' point of view was that declarer would make low trumps on a cross-ruff.

Actually West could not bring himself to laying down the heart ace and compromised on shifting to a trump as the best method of stopping the aforesaid cross-ruff. Unfortunately for him this play was ineffectual. Declarer went right up with dummy's trump ace and ruffed a third club with the spade jack. He returned to dummy with a diamond to the ace and led the fourth club. East had to follow and declarer brought home his lone queen of spades. A diamond ruff with the three of spades produced the seventh trick and fulfilled the contract.

It will be seen that if West had cashed the heart ace, thus permitting East to discard another diamond, and then had shifted to a spade the contract inevitably would have been defeated.

"Why, he's the man Linda... Janice, realizing what she had said, gladly would have bitten off her tongue if that would have recalled the words. "Jack Blaine," she gasped, eyes wide, "you wouldn't turn an innocent thing like that into something bad, just to... you wouldn't!"

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, in a statement to newspaper men said he had "absolutely reliable information that Kansas City gamblers had sent $100,000 to Jefferson City to be used in an effort to beat his Kansas City police and were raising an additional $75,000.

The Governor said that a "leading member of the gambling 'cat' had been in Jefferson City for several days, but he refused to identify him further than to say that he had been indicted in a recent Jackson County grand jury. Tim Moran, Pendergast ward boss in the Eleventh Ward in Kansas City, and proprietor of the "Sinner's Club," a gambling resort at Thirty-first street and Prospect avenue, under indictment by Judge Southern's grand jury, has been in Jefferson City since Monday, ferring with members of the Kansas City delegation in the House. Moran denied that the police which would transfer control of Kansas City department to State, had any connection with visit to Jefferson City, adding he had no knowledge of any being raised among Kansas gamblers to oppose it. "I'm just here visiting, but good time with my friends," said. "I don't know, and about the damned police bill. 'The Governor is lying,' he said, with profanity. "We don't anything about him. We'll be running along when he is picking apples."

"A Desperate Effort." "I am horrified to learn absolutely reliable sources," Governor said, "that the big blers of Kansas City have a slush fund of $100,000 and raising an additional $75,000, be used in a desperate effort to defeat the Kansas City police. Why are the organized blers so vitally interested in defeating this legislation? "It can only be because they been receiving and want to continue to receive police protection. "A leading member of the blers' syndicate now under ment for operating one of the notorious gambling joints in Kansas City was in Jefferson City today.

"I know the membership of Missouri General Assembly is mood to tolerate any such thing. "I propose to use the full sources of the Governor's office to frustrate any such dam scheme and to bring the full light." Though not in his formal ment, the Governor said it was his information that $1 had already been brought capital.

Police Also Campaigning The plan, as shown by inspection letter which he had received showing that members of the Kansas City Police Department, campaigning the State, by pressure to bear on members Legislature to vote against it. He said that between $50,000 long-distance telephone had gone out from Jefferson and a greater number from City, to influential persons, tually every county, enlisting port for Boss Tom Pendergast the fight.

The plan, as shown by the sponse the Governor ex was for policemen to write to persons in their former counties, enclosing copies of letter to be sent to legislators. One which has been sent Governor was signed by Lieut. John Gentry Gibbs, mailed March 23 to a person Governor refused to identify closed with it were five of the letters which were to be mailed.
